Grey Well Backed Up.

It was hardly to be expected that the German Press would receive the firm though friendly speeches of Sir Edward Grey and Mr. Asquith enthusiastically. Recent events precluded the probability of a welcome of the kind. The Germans had shaken the mail fist, and afterwards had found it necessary to wave the olive branch. The cause of the change was the determination of the Briton to live up to his bargain with the Frenchman in 1904. It was natural enough that a reiteration of the determination to stand by the entente of 1904 should not meet with a warm welcome in Germany, even when submitted in courteous and considerate words, and coupled with a public offer to live on friendly terms with Germany, so far as was consistent with the interests and honour of the Empire and the obligation of older friendships.

Instead of finding Grey sacrificed to German pride, Germany finds the Government united and firm and backed strongly by the Unionist leaders in both the House of Commons and the House of Lords.

HANDSOME CALENDAR.

A handsome Calendar for 1912 was yesterday turned out in the Job Department of the Evening Telegram for the St. Andrew's Young Ladies' Guild. It is loose, and for each day of the year is printed an appropriate motto or proverb upon either in prose or verse. The Calendar is very useful and can be hung to the wall. The work upon it is of the usual artistic style peculiar to the Telegram Office, "the Home of Good Printing."

A WARM FLAW!

It is a very desirable thing and unfortunately the period for such is all too short in this country. But you can have a warm flaw all the winter if you invest in a pair of our

Changes in the Admiralty.

Special Evening Telegram. LONDON, To-day. Important changes in the Admiralty are announced. Admiral Bridgeman, Commander in Chief of the Home Fleet, is appointed First Sea Lord, replacing Admiral of the Fleet Wilson. Vice Admiral, Prince Louis of Battenburg, becomes Second Sea Lord, replacing Vice-Admiral Egerton. Captain Pakenham, Commander of the battleship Collingwood, becomes Fourth Sea Lord, replacing Rear Admiral Madden. Rear Admiral Briggs, the present Third Sea Lord, retaining his present position. The changes in the Admiralty came as a surprise and is evidently the outcome of Churchill's transference to the Admiralty. In his comments in answer to a question to-night, Churchill denies the changes implied any reflection on the outgoing Sea Lords, who he pointed out were due to retire early in 1912. He explained that important decisions must soon be taken, which would regulate the naval policy of the coming two years. It was therefore considered advisable to make the changes now. These were necessary to unify the Admiralty Board and would lead to more effective work in administration and efficiency. The rumors, continued Churchill, suggesting that absolute security had not always been maintained were completely unfounded. The changes must not be held to imply any radical changes in naval policy, but rather the development of progressive lines of the reform policy instituted when Admiral Wilson was appointed to head the disorders. Battenburg has a great reputation as a scientific and practical officer. Pakenham has a unique experience, as a naval attaché to Admiral Togo's flagship through the Russo-Jap war.
