Divorced Life

By Helen Hesong Fuesler

A Voice from the Past.

Marian had married Frank after a brief courtship, largely as a matter of convenience. She had met him during her second year at the State University. Twelve months later she yielded to his ardent importunations and married him.

The death of Marian's father and mother had thrown her at the age of sixteen on the hands of her only brother, Wellington. He lived in Seattle, where he dealt in real estate, and sent her monthly remittances to cover her expenses at boarding school, and later at college. In the midst of her college career, Wellington married, and announced with regret that his own heavier expenses would no longer permit him to furnish her with funds. He advised her to find work as a teacher, but she hated the idea and quickly dismissed it.

Such was the background of Marian Whthrop's decision to marry Frank Dething. He worked for one of the largest wholesale hardware concerns located in the state's largest city and had given her glowing assurances of swift promotion in his business. He wooed her with fervent letters. She liked his looks, manners, clothes, and the way he made love, and one blustering day in January they were secretly married.

They moved into a pleasant apartment house, and began the struggle to pay in monthly installments for the feathering of their nest. The first romantic glow of the tender adventure began wearing away and by degrees the youth's infatuation with his wife began to vanish, as is so often the case after muffled jingling of the wedding bells. His income advanced from $1,000 to $2,000 a year during the first year of their married life, but there it stopped abruptly. The golden future she had thought him capable of encompassing began receding from her visions. The monthly deluge of unpaid bills caused quarrel after quarrel, and led more than once to scenes upon which she based the charges of cruelty in her ultimate petition for divorce. Love soon fits out of the window in the face of an income incommensurate with the craving to spend invariably so when the marriage is one primarily for convenience.

Also, flocks of memories haunted the unhappy wife, memories of the genuine love she had felt for Bert McDonald, a law student at college. Had the web of circumstances not lifted her out of the path of her true inclinations, she would have waited for his establishment in the practice of law, and become his wife. She had always known that he cared deeply for her. She knew that when the time came, he would want to marry her. In time she had grown to regret poignantly the sense of panic which had driven her the other way. Musing over her misfortune, she clothed Bert McDonald with all the attributes of the ideal, the perfect.

Musing over her misfortune, she clothed Bert McDonald with all the attributes of the ideal.

Since her divorce, he had come persistently into her thoughts. She wondered what had become of him, whether he ever thought of her any more.

One day she was called to the telephone. It was he. She thrilled. His voice went through her, carrying with it a strange, wild happiness, an excitement, a feeling of fluttering expectation. He was in the city for a few days on business, he told her. He asked whether she would accompany him that night to the theatre. Her senses swam as she accepted. The years which had intervened since she had seen him seemed to fade into a dim and troubled moment's dream. Once more the future, which had been gray and hopeless, blazed with radiant, blinding promise.

To be continued to-morrow.

GRENFELL HALL MEMORIAL SERVICE.

A large number attended the memorial service held on Sunday evening in the Grenfell Hall, including many men from the ships lying in the harbor. The service was conducted by the Superintendent, Mr. W. H. Jones, based his address upon Phil. 1:20: "Our conversation is in heaven," etc., and was listened to with rapt attention. The speaker pointed out that this life was connected with the future, the one could not be separated from the other, and he instanced the seasons and nature to illustrate this. The present life is to the future life as childhood is to mankind, spring to autumn, seed-time to harvest. At the close, Mr. Spry who had presided at the organ, played the Dead March in Saul, all present standing.

Special to Evening Telegram.
NEW YORK, April 13.—The four gunmen convicted of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, died in the electric chair this morning.

NEW YORK, April 13.—None of the gunmen electrocuted to-day mentioned the name of Police Lieut. Becker, who was convicted of the murder of Rosenthal. One of the gunmen confessed his guilt.

SYDNEY, April 13.—On application of Frank Haynes convicted here recently of the murder of Ben Atkinson and sentenced to be hanged on May 8th, a revision of the case by the Crown has been granted.

ROME, April 13.—It is officially announced that Italy is determined not to restore the Aegean Islands to Turkey unless she obtains railroad and other concessions in Asia Minor. Turkey has been notified that she cannot get back the islands on any other terms.

NEW YORK, April 13.—President Bowne, of the Singer Co., gave $500,000 to the Easter offerings of St. John the Baptist Cathedral, Sunday, which will be placed as an endowment fund to the Cathedral Choir School. Bowne's condition was that he be elected a member of the choir, which was done forthwith.

MONTREAL, April 13.—The $5,000 forwarded already through the Bank of Montreal, to the sealing Disaster Fund, will be greatly increased during the next few days. The Board of Trade is actively raising funds, and Saturday night the Newfoundland Society of the city met to arrange for further contributions.

LONDON, April 13.—Members of the United Free Church of Scotland are manifesting great diversity of opinion with regard to the attitude the Church should take in connection with the Irish question. Three columns of the Glasgow Herald are devoted to the matter. Officials of the United Free Church are being assailed by many correspondents as being unsympathetic towards their Ulster Presbyterian brethren. One writer declares Presbyterians have not properly realized the iniquity the Government is about to perpetrate on Presbyterians in handing over Irish Protestants to the dominance of the Catholic majority and the tender mercies of the Ancient Order of Hibernians. This style of argument is met by other members who charge that Conservatives are themselves prelate-ridden, and that when in power they forced the hateful educational act upon the Non-Conformists of England, and also opposed every democratic measure contributing to the welfare of the people.

Killing Time.

J. Johnson Jinks has wealth to burn, though not a kopeck did he earn. His father croaked some years ago and left him in forty kinds of dough, and he has basked in gilded ease since he was lower than your knees. And life to him is bleak and drear, and every hour seems like a year. He does not work like useful boys, but buys new cars and other toys, and wears of their when they're bought, for nothing seems to reach the spot. He travels here and travels there, and finds new boredom and despair; his only task is killing time, and that's a nuisance and a crime. There's naught on earth will take the kinks from out the soul of J. J. Jinks, because he never learned to toil, nor had to make the kettle boil. I'd rather labor in the ditch than to be useless and so rich. This world is but a poor resort for any overloaded sport who tries to purchase cheap renown with wealth his old man handed down. I'd rather have one silver penny, that I have earned, that is my own, than have a bundle in my till, awarded by some dead one's will.

23 THE PHARMACY

THE GREATER QUESTION

At this season of the year for Farmers with up-to-date ideas is, what are the best means to use to get the best returns from the land.

Fertilizers must be used liberally if large returns are looked for. There are several good chemical fertilizers which may be recommended, but Sulphate of Ammonia has been proved to give the best returns, and is the most valuable and economical source of Nitrogen for agricultural purposes.

For vegetables, grass, and all leafy crops, about one and a half cwt. per acre is the best quantity to use, and this should be applied when the plant is making its growth, as well as before sowing the seed.

If a liquid manure is preferred, a ¼ oz. of Sulphate to one gallon of water should be used, and applied once a week for a month. This quantity should not be exceeded.

It is a good plan to reduce the Sulphate to a fine powder, and mix with four or more times its own bulk, for the purpose of diluting the manure, which is very powerful.

For potatoes the following mixture is strongly recommended:—
40 lb. Superphosphate.
26 lb. Fine bone meal.
10 lb. Carbonate of Magnesia.
15 lb. Sulphate of Potash.
21 lb. SULPHATE OF AMMONIA.

1 cwt. Apply at the rate of 10 to 11 lbs. to 43 square yards.

The use of Carbonate of Magnesia, in conjunction with Sulphate of Ammonia, is of great importance in potato culture.

For turnips use the following:—
66 lb. Superphosphate.
13 lb. Fine bone meal.
13 lb. Sulphate of Potash.
20 lb. Sulphate of Ammonia.

How to Keep Three Servants

Mrs. Knaoll was greatly puzzled—and not without reason. The fact is she happened to meet Mr. Newlywed one morning as he was rushing to catch his train, and ventured, with her usual solicitude for other folks' affairs, to hope that Mrs. Newlywed wasn't having trouble with her servants.

"Oh, no!" said Mr. Newlywed. "We have got three!"
Then he dashed off, leaving Mrs. Knaoll gasping. Three servants, indeed. Why, it was common knowledge in Suburbville that the Newlyweds were anything but rich. How in earth, then, could they afford to keep three servants? Mrs. Knaoll felt forced to call on the bride that afternoon to make investigations.

On his return home in the evening, Mr. Newlywed was greeted with this question:
"John, whatever made you tell Mrs. Knaoll this morning that we keep three servants?"
John smiled.
"Well, don't we, my dear?" he asked. "It seems to me that we always have one going, one coming, and one here."

Food For Thought.

This is the cheapest food in the world. Fill your thoughts for a while with insurance, unless you are already covered. No thinking man neglects this protection. Thinking of insurance means thinking of Perle Johnson—and his low rates—and is prompt payment of claims. Why not ask for terms?—adv.tft

From St. George's.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—We, the members of Independence L. O. L., St. George's, wish to extend through your paper our sincerest condolence to those who have lost their loved ones in the Newfoundland disaster.

It seems to us that in the presence of their great grief silence is the only suitable offering. One only hopes an comfort them in their sad hours, the hope of meeting in the Great Beyond.

"Hope springs eternal in the human breast."

Though the ways of the Omnipotent may be incomprehensible to mortal man, yet what He wills is best. Let us therefore who have the needs of the sorrowing ones to heart see that they are properly cared for, and although some may not be able to contribute very much to the "Disaster Fund" yet the "Widow's Mite" is just as acceptable as the millionaire's million when given willingly. May it be said of the whole island, "She hath done what she could."

With our united kind regards and deepest sympathy,
INDEPENDENCE L. O. L.
