THE GREEK SITUATION.

LONDON, Dec. 13. A despatch from Athens, dated Dec. 12th, says that the Greek press continues optimistic in regard to the International situation, but that the Entente demands have not yet been formulated, as all legations have not received full instructions. In the eantime practically all the Entente Nationalists have embarked on Allied ships and every arrangement has een made for the departure of the Entente diplomats. There is no diect news from Athens in regard to the regrets expressed by the Greek Minister at Paris on behalf of King Constantine's Government respecting the attack made upon British and French marines in the Greek capital.

In Milady's Boudoir.

THE PEDALS OF THE BODY.

With the consuming passion for smart little high heeled boots, the broken arches and tired feet, like the poor, will always be with us. But exercise may be taken with immediate help, if faithfully followed every night and morning. With shoes and stockings removed, seat yourself and cross the knees. Then, holding the knee still, describe a circle with the swinging foot, curling the toes under and bending them forward finally on the other half of the circle. Of course the nails of the toes are given the same careful attention as those of the hands, but this is but a moments task when it is attended to

The last lesson milady of the present day must learn is the art of elaxation. Most of us have our breakfast in bed, which in some cases is good and in others not. It depends on the stoutness or slenderness of the person. Lean persons can do a lot of hings that would be beauty death to Lie flat on the floor on the back, slowly and lazily raise the right arm over the head, then, withdrawing all control and direction from it, let it drop heavily of it's own weight. Do the same with the left arm, and then with the left and right legs. Repeat a dozen times with each member and then rest quietly with closed eyes for moment before rising.
