of the Incoming Governor.

Sir Alexander Harris was born at Wrexham, Denbyshire, on the 25th of June, 1855; went out to Newfoundland when quite young and was nearly 10 years in the Colony and went up the Eastern Coast to Twillingate, Fogo and further north—on return to England was educated at Spondon Prepartory School, Derbyshire; Christ College, Cambridge, where he was prominent in athletics and was Captain of the boats, President of the Athletic Club, etc.

He qualified for the Bar (Lincoln's military operations.'" Inn) but did not practise, entering the Colonial Office by open competition instead. He was married in 1879 soon after entering the Colonial Office. Went to the West Indies in 1882-3 as Secretary West India Royal Commis--conducted negotiations for comsion—conducted negotiations for com-mercial arrangements between West Indies and United States of America in 1885-6—attached to the First Sugar Bounties Conference 1887-8—was nominated as British Delegate to the 2nd International Conference on Sugar Bounties in 1897, but was considered indispensable to the Venezuelan indary Arbitration and was engaged in that and the Brazilian Arbitration until 1904. He had immecharge of the latter from the first. Both these arbitrations were a signal success for Great Britain. Meanwhile became Head of Departnent at Colonial Office.

Organized the affairs of Nyssaland

Protectorate on its being taken over by the Colonial Office. The Harris Peaks of Mount Mtangeni were named after him by Sir A. Sharpe. He was then employed for a long period on many special commissions such as the into Crown Agents, Internaon Commercial Intelligence (Board of Trade), Imperial Institute Advising and Managing Committees.
Was President of Tropical Diseases
Section, Ghent Exhibition, 1913.

Became Chief Clerk of Colonial Of-fice 1909 and organized the whole of the Colonial side of the Coronation arrangements of 1911.
