No Sense of Humour.

A couple of days ago we gave the Advocate credit for possessing a sense of humour, but to our lasting grief it has developed that our obtuse contemporary does not deserve the praise bestowed upon it. In the words of the immortal Betsy Prig, we are constrained to say that "we don't believe there is any such person" in and about the Advocate office who has the saving grace of our bestowal. Contrary to the idea prevailing on the North side of Duckworth Street, we shall be glad to receive any number of fishermen from any of the Northern bays, who may wish to call at the Telegram Office and express their opinions on the one time boast—now no longer heard—that "the price of fish is what Coaker makes it." The fear that indignant men of the North may make an uninvited call on the Advocate is very well expressed, when the editor of that paper directs the attention of the authorities to the concluding paragraph of a news item published in the Telegram on Tuesday, wherein it was suggested that our contemporary was providing itself with iron shutters for its office windows, and reinforcing its main entrance against the approaching winter, perhaps, though our friend is not inclined to accept this as the motive and, alleges that it is an incitement to the crews of the fleet, now beginning to arrive in port, to make an unannounced call on the "to each man his own" exponents. We are flattered indeed, though it is not the first time that this contemptible gang of Fascisti has endeavoured to persuade the authorities that the Telegram has been inciting the people to rebellion. The people themselves know better, but in this connection the appeal of Marc Antony to the citizens of Rome, following the assassination of Julius Caesar, might be quoted with effect: "Were I Brutus and Brutus Antony, then would I put a tongue in every wound of Caesar that should move the son of Rome to rise and mutiny." The Advocate can ponder this, as it will also have to ponder over many things when the incensed men of the North, and Union men at that, demand from the paper an explanation of all the insults and contumely hurled at their meetings through its pages during the past few weeks. Our good brother revives the "Cornwall" incident. Better he had left it alone. With the cruiser "Wisteria" in port, and two other warships on the way to St. John's, their arrival to synchronise with the coming of the fleet from the Northern bays, such reference had better have been omitted. Fishermen have long memories, and there are many incidents of their visit in 1920 that would not have the effect of building up any theories advanced by the Advocate, notwithstanding that the 15th annual convention of the Fishermen's Protective Union is to be held at Port Union on Wednesday, November 15th. Those who attend that annual made-to-order meeting will have an opportunity to make obeisance at the shrine of "Mutty," and incidentally admire the pile of buildings erected at their expense and labor.

National Guarantee A National Loss.

The Advocate in its Tuesday issue announces that it is proposed by the Government of the Commonwealth of Australia to guarantee seventy-three cents to farmers who enter into a wheat pooling arrangement, covering the whole of Australia, and sixteen cents to the railways which carry the wheat. This National pool the Advocate refers to as "Nationalization," a very different matter. It says "why not adopt the scheme here, and guarantee, for instance $5.00 for Labrador and $7.00 for Shore fish." But, brother, as the current price now is $4.00 for Labrador and $6.00 for Shore fish, who would pay the extra dollar per quintal if the purchase of fish at $5.00 and $7.00 resulted in a loss of a dollar per quintal. Would Mr. Coaker pay it? Would the Government pay it? Would the taxpayers of the Colony pay it? By what manner of reasoning can anybody see any advantage in a scheme which proposes to guarantee, at public expense, the purchase of fish at more than its commercial value. How can the owners of fish increase the real value of their fish by guaranteeing themselves against a loss? A National pool would only represent the people who put their fish into it. If they got a bigger price than otherwise by reason that the pool was supported by a guarantee the bigger price would only come out of the taxpayers, including themselves. A large sum per quintal would be lost in the way of expense to the fellows who were in control. One can easily see why Coaker would like to be in charge of a pool, buying and selling all the fish of the Colony.

The Humber Promotion.

The Advocate has been howling itself hoarse with jubilation over the Humber proposition, and giving all the credit to Coaker for the employment which it is said, the scheme will give to laborers. It does not appear, as a matter of fact, that Coaker has had anything whatever to do with the promotion. If any person in the Government is deserving of any particular credit in this connection, it would seem to be Premier Squires, or possibly Mr. Warren, both of whom have been in London for months, and may have rendered some service in the negotiations going on there; but Coaker has been kept out of the show. He hasn't been in London. He hasn't been in the negotiations. It is doubtful if he knows what the bargain is that has been made. When he was in New York last spring, he tried to interest some American financiers, but his propositions were not well received by those here who are interested in the matter; not received, apparently, by the Reids, or by Coaker's own colleagues in the Government. Coaker's attempt to project himself into the matter was set aside, and the whole control taken into his own hands by Premier Squires. The object of the Advocate's shouting is very plain. It intends for political purposes to take from Premier Squires, and give to Mr. Coaker, the credit, if any, which is due to Squires for his work.

Fire at Badger.

A.N.D. CO. HAY SHED DESTROYED.

The following message was received this morning by Mr. H. W. DeMesurier, Deputy Minister of Customs, from J. M. Dooley, sub-collector at Badger: "The A.N.D. Co. hay shed and 2 box cars of hay were consumed by fire this morning. The fire is still burning. The cause is unknown and about 200 tons of hay were destroyed."

Arrested on Serious Charge.

ACCUSED PLEADS NOT GUILTY.

A 27 year old resident of Southport T.B. was arrested at his boarding house, Hamilton Street, at 5 o'clock this morning, on complaint of a domestic who resides in the house. The charge against the prisoner is a very serious one, and is alleged to have been committed during the small hours of the previous night. The domestic is a young girl, who has been in service in the city for some time and belongs to the same place as the accused. The latter is a married man with a family. He was before the Magistrate this morning and pleaded not guilty whereupon he was sent down on remand for eight days.

Parade of Fire Apparatus.

CITIZENS MUCH IMPRESSED.

The Fire Prevention Campaign, which has been given so much publicity of late, became better understood yesterday afternoon, when Inspector General Hutchings arranged a parade of the full fire apparatus, which traversed the principal streets through most of the day. The fire companies created a very favorable impression among the many thousands of citizens who witnessed the parade. The apparatus left the Central Fire Hall at 3.30 p.m. headed by a motor car containing Inspector General Hutchings, Superintendent O'Neill, and Superintendent Dunn of the Fire Department; the motor trucks and other apparatus followed in the rear, and the sounding of bells and sirens, the general alarm attracted people to the scene as the parade wound its way along the various routes. The trucks, consisting of some ten in number were gallily decked with flags and banners, the mottoes quite appropriate to the occasion, carried the slogans "Save Life," "Clean Up," "Save Property," "Correct Hazards." The turn-out went a long way in bringing before the public the idea of safeguarding against conflagration, and I.C. Hutchings is to be complimented on his laudable efforts in this connection.

Silvia in Port.

Brown, Mrs. Harrison, Mrs. Mary, Sister Katherine, Miss Flora Taylor, Mrs. Bartlett, Mrs. Golden, Miss M. Culloch, P. Casey, John McCaulley, James Winter, H. Stuartson, Les Rousard, Jesse Proude, Ed. ### Magistrates Court.

A drunk was discharged. A woman belonging to the Southern Shore, arrested for being drunk, was allowed to go. Seven boys, between the ages of 12 and 16 years, were arrested by the police at a late hour last night on a charge of larceny. They were remanded to the Penitentiary until to-morrow morning.

A teamster, whose residence is Rosser's Lane, stood charged with assaulting and beating a woman during the early hours of Sunday morning last. From the evidence submitted the defendant returned home under the influence of liquor and started to raise Cain with everyone in the household. In the melee he attacked the woman who preferred the charge against him and laid her hands on combat. A fine of $10 or 30 days was imposed by the Judge for such a rash act.

An Apology.

24 WOrdham Road,
Alliston, Mass., U.S.A.,
October 24th, 1922.

Mr. James J. Maher,
C/O A. Harvey & Co., Ltd.,
St. John's, Newfoundland.

Dear Sir—I am in receipt of your letter of the 17th inst., relative to my remarks about Captain Arthur Jackman. Please allow me to state that I greatly regret having made any such statement, and that certainly I never would have done so, had I realized it would have caused any resentment or grief to any person. I wish to slander nobody, least of all the dead.

I am merely a recorder of what is told me. Both on the Rosalind, going to Newfoundland, as well as in St. John's and about the Terra Nova, I often heard Captain Jackman spoken of as a naturally fine and noble man. I should like to point out that 99% of all the remarks about Captain Jackman were of highest praise. All coincided in declaring him fearless, efficient, generous; in short, a splendid type of seaman. In my article I took occasion to mention his fine and manly qualities; and I deeply regret having been so indiscreet as to let a slip of the pen wound anybody's feelings.

I wish it were understood how fond I am of Newfoundland and her people; how much I admire the country and the population for their sterling qualities; and how highly I esteem the hospitality shown me. If you will allow me to make amends for my regrettable remark by thus apologizing, both by writing you thus, and by requesting you to print this letter in the Newfoundland press, I shall esteem it a favor.

With sincere regrets, my dear Sir, that I have been the cause of any trouble, and trusting that you will accept this apology in the cordial spirit in which it is sent, I am,

Very truly yours,
GEORGE ALLAN ENGLAND.

Found a True Bill.

CHINAMAN WILL BE ARRAIGNED FOR MURDER TO-MORROW.

The Grand Jury were in attendance at the Supreme Court this morning to consider the indictment of a triple murder, preferred against Wo Fen Game. Most of the 34 witnesses who were summoned to appear before the jury were dispensed with. After about two hours consideration the jury returned to court and through the foreman Mr. D. Galway reported a "true bill for self and fellow jurors." Deputy Minister Summers moved for the arraignment of the accused, informing His Lordship that he was not represented by Counsel. The court ordered the accused brought up for arraignment at 11 a.m. to-morrow and the trial will take place sometime after the 15th inst.

Edward Hurley, whose case was also considered by the Grand Jury yesterday, on being arraigned on a charge of breaking and entering Neyle's hardware store and taking therefrom a flashlight, pleaded guilty. A sentence of two years with hard labor was imposed by the Chief Justice.

Labor Delegation Resign.

ANOTHER BIG ONE SELECTED.

Nothing had been done for the relief workers by the Executive Government up to noon to-day. The meeting of the relief workers held on the Parade Ground yesterday afternoon was held merely to select another big six to interview the Executive, the former committee having resigned on their own initiative. The holding of a parade was discussed at some length, but they thought it impractical at the present time. The necessity of a leader or legal adviser was considered imperative before the men go any further.

Sacred Concert.

WILL BE HELD NEXT SUNDAY.

As will be noted by a reference to our advertising columns a grand sacred concert takes place in the Nickel Theatre on Sunday evening next, under the auspices of the Benevolent Irish Society. The selections by the C.C.C. Band alone should prove an attraction, but in addition there is an aggregation of the city's leading artists, who will render special numbers for the occasion.
