PROSPECTORS FOR MACKENZIE & MANN Scores of Expert Miners Will be Employed in North This Year

A small army of prospectors will spend the next four months hunting for mineral in Southeastern Alaska and Northern British Columbia on behalf of the syndicate organized by Mr. Donald D. Mann, vice-president of the Canadian Northern Railway and associates.

This was the statement made by Mr. H. E. Knobel, M. E., to The Province at the Hotel Vancouver today. Mr. Knobel will have charge of all the mining operations to be carried on by his principals, who have just completed the organization of a big development company. Already four different parties have been sent into the field. They are composed of especially picked men with experience in many mining camps. They were all engaged at Cobalt and despatched direct to Vancouver. Many of them are Americans, a number of them hailing from Idaho and Montana. The Americans, owing to the laws which do not permit aliens to locate claims, will be employed in Alaska. The region to be prospected is hundreds of square miles in extent. It will extend as far north as the Unuk River in Southeastern Alaska, north of the Portland Canal district, the Portland Canal country, Observatory Inlet, and the unexplored and unprospected country tributary to the Naas River. Mr. Knobel will sail tonight on the Camosun for Stewart in order to arrange for making a start at development work on a number of the ninety claims in that district bonded by the Mann syndicate. He explained that owing to the delay in getting supplies consequent on the great depth of the snow and lack of trails it will probably be six or seven weeks before the development operations get in full swing. There will be work for several hundred miners from the outset, but owing to lack of development the number to be employed at each property will be limited. Once the ground has been opened up the force will be increased as rapidly as the miners can be secured. With the installation of machinery at a later stage the camp may have a payroll of several thousand miners. Another passenger in the same boat will be Mr. W. H. Grant, the personal representative of Mr. Mann, and superintendent of construction on the Portland Canal Short Line Railway, a twenty-mile road to be built this summer from Stewart to the various camp. Mr. Grant has two survey parties in the field. Contracts for the building of the dock at Stewart have been awarded as recently announced in The Province. A shipment of rails and equipment for the proposed road is now en route from Sydney, Cape Breton, and is scheduled to reach Stewart about August 1. The line will be built and in operation next fall. Bait your hook with something that looks like money if you would catch the crowd.

Reflections of a Bachelor

If a man could find as many excuses for going to church as for taking a drink he would be mighty plump. The oftener a man's wife stops him from making a fool investment the more he wants to think what good judgment he has. A girl has so many different ways of flirting with a man that she can tell them all herself, and often she thinks it's real when it's just one of them.

SOUTH AFRICAN SCRIP

An Investment in South African Scrip at the Present Time Will Mean a Good Thing for You Financially

Scrip is practically at its lowest point at present. Why? Simply because the people do not realize the situation. If you will only stop and think what scrip means to the intending settler, then, you will perhaps see the reason.

With only some 2300 available scrips on the market and a weekly consumption of over 70, and 20 months in which to take them up, you will easily see how long the supply will last.

A pre-emption (160 acres) costs the homesteader $3 an acre or $480. A South African Scrip gives you 320 acres. Figure this at $3 an acre and see the result, $960. The conditions of settlement are practically identical. Then why should scrip only be at the present figure of $800? It is worth every dollar that a pre-emption is worth. Therefore, it is only reasonable to suppose that an intending settler will take up a scrip in preference to a homestead or pre-emption at present because he still has the privilege of taking up a homestead. After his scrip is "proved up" then would follow his pre-emption, if he so desired.

Thousands of people are taking up land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta every month. If these settlers can only be shown the advantage of the scrip to them they would all be taken up within the next two or three months.

Prices will steadily advance from now on. The supply is limited. This alone will force the price up to at least $960 or $3 an acre, the price of Government land. The average price for farm lands in the three provinces today is say $10 an acre. Why should these 320 acre warrants not be worth $3200? Split this in two, say $1600. Is not the investment good?

Think this over and buy before it's too late for your present means.
