backward. Estimated receipts tomorrow, 225 cars.
Oats—The market acted with corn, ignoring the weakness in wheat. There was some local buying, but general trade was light. Small receipts were in good demand in the cash crowd, and inquiry for shipment fair. According to the Price Current the past week has been unfavorable, and some reseeding will be necessary. Estimated receipts tomorrow, 115 cars.

Provisions—Market opened weak on material decline in hogs, but offerings were quickly taken and the market advanced, closing, however, not much betwere quickly taken and the market advanced, closing, however, not much better than last night. There are labor troubles at the yards, which make packers and operators cautious, and no one can tell yet what effect a strike would have. The market today gave little comfort to holders, and we feel certain is a long market for lard and ribs. Receipts of hogs are unaccountably small here, while liberal in the west. Cash trade seems to be better, but not large enough to cause influence. We believe there is quiet accumulation in September pork, and as ribs are so much above pork, we don't think pork will be made. We advise buying September or July pork on any break. Estimated hogs tomorrow, 18,000.

Detroit, May 8.—Beans advanced 1c yesterday and closed with a good demand and no offerings. Cash and May, $2.08 bid; July, $2.15 asked; Oct., $1.50. EAST BUFFALO.

Just by way of a change and also to remind the city bakers of the fact that they were still in his books, Assistant Inspector Lutman spent the greater part of this morning in a search for light-weight bread. In all he examined A watchful common councilor has just drawn attention to the danger caused by the throwing down of lighted matches and digartends on the temporary wooden foot-bridges now in use on either side of light-weight bread. In all he examined the contents of four wagons and one bakery, and the total amount of his haul was only 22 loaves of bread. Three wagons were first stopped on the street and taken to the committee were quietly working on and nasal passages there is some amount. be up to the requirements of the by-

EXPECT BILL TO PASS.

Mr. Dan McGillicuddy, of Goderich, was at the Grigg House this morning. It will be remembered that in an interview on radial railways which Mr McGillicuddy gave this paper some weeks ago he mentioned the fact that this city, died suddenly at her home at sion of the Legislature to amend the Imperial, Nebraska, on Monday. ### Why Families Are Small.

The great thing that keeps the size of American families down is social and pecuniary ambitions. There are a few thrifty parents in the land-farmers, Civic Fride.

[Chicago Tribune.]

Many persons who would blush to be accused of a lack of patriotism, of a love of country have no hesitaror in the lamburation of the like—who look upon children as a potential source of income, and raise a good many because their keep costs little and their labor is valuable. We don't approve of persons of that way of thinking. Our American feeling is that parents should accused of a lack of patriotism, of a love of country, have no hesitancy in confessing to a deficiency in civic pride, of regard for their own city. They openly proclaim that they detest the place they live in, but say that fate and circumstances have chained them to the spot, and they find a vent for their feelings in railing against the city and in pointing out its blemishes. city and in pointing out its blemishes. The thought that they might help to our children can raise above it, we think better these conditions does not seem it a doubtful advantage to have secured tion of a few in regard to the internal arrangments made by a new superintendent. The fourteen men went out this morning, but a number of these have signified their willingness to return to work tomorrow morning, and it is not likely or merely to shrug their shoulders over them is quite beyond their consideration. It is too bad about us Americans. The hope of our amendment lies in the possibility that we may come to a better at present being sold to the public as a statement to the effect that the cigarettes are made of the purest tobacco and paper obtainable, and that, therefore, the smoke from them may be inhaled safely and without irritating the respiratory passages. We do not hesitate to say that such a statement is highly mischlevous and that the practice of inhaling smoke into the lungs is attended with diplomas at the sixth annual commencement in three others that we might have and don't.
