> .12 Begg .. ENGLISH CRICKETERS MAY VISIT CANADA IN 1923

TORONTO, Aug. 23.—That the current visit of the Canadian cricketers to England is doing a good deal to further competition between the Dominion and the old country is attested by the receipt of the following cable from Norman Seagram, who organized the Canadian team, and who is in charge of the present tour:

Provisional arrangements have been made for an old country cricket team to visit Canada next summer.

It was not expected when the present tour was undertaken that the Canadians would establish an extraordinary record of victories against the elevens engaged in the home of the game, but the junket of the clad countrymen cannot but result in benefit to the country.
