Two trains each way have been taken off the Comber branch, leaving only one train, and they will endeavor to make the railway live up to the agreement with the town, wherein it is stated that two trains must run each way every day.

A woman narrowly escaped being run over by a team of horses attached to a cab, Saturday, at the corner of King and Richmond streets. She was crossing the street, holding an umbrella against the wind, apparently forgetful of the fact that horses were being rapidly driven up and down in the ordinary course of business. "My Daughter's Life."
Was saved by Hood's Sarsaparilla," says Mr. B. B. Jones, of Alma, Maine. "She had seven running sores in different places on her body, but on giving her Hood's Sarsaparilla there was marked improvement, and now she is well, strong and healthy."

Hood's Pills cure Constipation by restoring the peristaltic action of the alimentary canal. They are the best family cathartic.

Windbreaks on the farm are appreciated in the winter time by the cattle as well as by the crops in the summer days. A great deal of the food fed to animals in the winter is to keep up animal heat, and when cold, wet, icy storms beat around the animals, more heating food must be given to the animals if they are to thrive.

East wind storms often cause sickness and death. Good windbreaks or trees around the north-east and east side of the cattle yards are of inestimable benefit to the animals. It will save many an animal's life, and put dollars in the farmer's savings bank.

Cure for Constipation and Headache.
Dr. Silas Lane, of the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that, when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick headache, and is the best spring medicine. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell at 50c and $1 a package.

Often imitated. Never equalled.

THREE OLD SETTLERS.

Brief Biographical Sketches of Three Western Pioneers.

The Wallaceburg Herald-Record says:—"Eighty-eight years ago a man, wife and four little girls left Argyleshire, Scotland, to seek a home in the new world, having left only a son, a lad of sixteen, behind at school. After having embarked on their journey they were driven back to Isle of Mull by French cruisers, which in those troublous times infested the seas. They remained on the island a year and embarked in 1804 for British North America, landing at Montreal.

After six weeks' voyage, carried their effects over the Lachine Rapids, thence by bateau to Lake Ontario, when they took a vessel to Niagara, thence by portage to Lake Erie and vessel again to old Fort Seneca, and thence by bateau again to the Belkirk settlement, to Baldoon, which is the point of land south of the old town-line between the townships of Sombra and Dover, bounded on easterly by Sydenham River to its junction with the Chippewa River, which forms its westerly limits. Here they settled, but within a few short weeks the father, mother and oldest daughter were stricken with fever, and all died within five days of each other, leaving the four young girls to the tender mercies of strangers, and here he said, with all honor to Scotch clannishness, they were tenderly cared for. Margaret McCallum, daughter and subject of this sketch, the third youngest of these children, and the last survivor by many years, passed peacefully away to her well-earned rest on Sunday, 8th of November, in the 95th year of her age. She was the daughter of Hugh McCallum, being one of a physician, Argyleshire, Scotland, and was born the 1st day of February, 1797, making her exact age 94 years, 9 months and 8 days. Her life was indeed an eventful one. All the incidents of the war of 1812 were still fresh in her memory. She was on the River Thames, near Chatham, and witnessed the invasion of the country by General Harrison, previous to the battle of the Thames, in which her husband took part, and at the battle again saw the army retreat across the border into the United States. She was also in General Hull's house in Detroit at the time of the surrender to General Brock, her only brother, Hugh McCallum, being one of the besiegers, who was subsequently awarded a silver medal for his gallantry during the struggle. In 1817 she was married to James Johnson, a native of Northumberland, England, by whom she had ten children, namely—Lionel H., Mary, William, Daniel, Elizabeth, Margaret A., Eliza, Charles J., Harriet L. and Sarah H., all of whom survive her except Lionel H., who died in 1882, and William who was drowned in the year of 1887. They celebrated their golden wedding, all their surviving children being present. They lived together about fifty-seven years when Mr. Johnson died in 1873. Her last illness was of short duration, having contracted a slight cold that gradually developed into congestion of the lungs. She went to bed on Tuesday and was unable to leave it again, and peacefully passed away on Sunday evening. She and her husband's family were both Presbyterians in belief, but there being no ministers or churches of that denomination in this newly settled district they cast their lot with the Methodists, of which church she has been a conscientious and consistent member for about three-quarters of a century, and it was truly said of her old home, out on Penton farm (which is still one of the old landmarks), it was a Methodist home. She was of short stature, but for all that she needed succor and shelter. There were no locks on their doors, and often in the silent watches of the night she found the footstep of the Indian have crossed the threshold, and the morning found the natives sleeping quietly on the hearth-stone, and to the credit of the poor Indian, I have often heard her say she never knew one to betray the trust reposed in them by taking anything that did not belong to them."

DEATH OF CATHERINE MCCOLL.
The Strathroy Age says:—"Another old pioneer has departed; another ripe sheaf has been gathered into the heavenly garner. Catherine McColl was born in Argyleshire, Scotland, March 17th, 1801. In 1826 she emigrated with her father, John McColl, and his family to Canada, where they settled on the Longwood road, Township of Elfrink. In 1836 she married John McColl, of lot 9, con. 6, Lobo, then a widow with ten children. She resided there till her death. In her new and trying position she had the place of a mother indeed, and has ever been treated with true filial kindness. Of these ten children two sons and one daughter have died, leaving only three daughters, and also one son and three daughters born to herself survive her. Her husband died about twenty-five years ago, but she continued to reside on the old homestead, surrounded by every comfort and happy in the esteem and affection of her children and step-children. She was also in the full enjoyment of mental and physical vigor until about three years ago, when she had a light paralytic stroke, which affected her memory. On Sunday, the 8th inst., was again prostrated with paralysis, to which she succumbed on the afternoon of the 10th inst. in her 91st year. Soon after passing to her rest she was converted into the ministrations of the pioneer Baptist Church, Lobo. Those who knew her best loved her most, and not alone her own family, but a wide circle of acquaintances remember and admire her strong common sense, her mental power and acuteness, her whole-souled hospitality, and the sweet savor of Christ in her conversation. The funeral on the 12th inst. was very largely attended. Elder A. Sinclair conducted the solemn services at the house and at the grave in Ivan cemetery, and her son and five step-sons acted as pall-bearers.

DEATH OF MRS. DONALD SEATON.
The death of Mrs. Seaton, Komoka, on the evening of the 6th inst., spread a feeling of gloom general over the entire village and neighborhood. She had been ill only a few days, but was not considered dangerous at all until the day of her death, when she was attacked with acute pleurisy. So appalling sudden was her disease that even her children were not present at her death-bed. She was the daughter of the late Donald Johnson, of Lobo, and was at the time of her death in the 61st year of her age. She was highly esteemed in all the relations of life, but above all useful in the sick-room, where her natural kindness and aptitude with long experience made her a most valuable member of the community, and in the many houses where her services were so freely rendered her memory will long be fragrant. The funeral on the 8th inst. from Komoka to Ivan cemetery, was very large, evidencing the general respect and sympathy.

THE SPORTSMAN'S COLUMN.
Notes From the Base Ball Field, and the Race and Cider Tracks.

Cobb, the star pitcher of the San Francisco Club, has signed with Baltimore. The Pittsburgh club has signed Arthur Whitney to play on third base next season. Mullane has signed with Cincinnati for next season, and McPhee has decided to do likewise.

Now Von der Ahe is said to be opposed to the 12-club league and in favor of a new national agreement.

The Cleveland club is said to be after Pitches Frick and many. If Fricken were to play on third base, it would be allowed to get him, seeing that New York needs more pitchers.

Catcher Hess' contract with Baltimore has been promulgated by President Phelps. The Baltimore management are anxious regarding New York's attitude toward Hess, but profess to have the young catcher securely caged.

Additional League contracts for 1892 are those:—With Boston, John E. Stivets, T. McCarthy; Pittsburgh, F. W. Woodcock, Daniel Murphy; New York, Chas. F. King, W. J. Moran; Cincinnati, Chas. Comiskey, John Boyle; Philadelphia, Thomas B. Golden. Released by Troy, Daniel J. Murphy.

It is reported that the New York club will resign Fuller and Lyons, and that Boston will transfer Stivets to the metropolitans. Now the question naturally arises, would Boston be willing to help Cleveland, Pittsburgh or Cincinnati if one of those clubs were to be robbed of its best players? Well hardly. They don't belong to the clique.

President Williams, of the Chicago Association club, says that peace can be patched up if a new agreement forbidding conflicting dates and making it necessary for the two base ball organizations to respect each other's contracts is agreed upon. The League will not enter into any such agreement as long as there are Association clubs in Boston and Chicago.

John Montgomery Ward has signed a contract to captain and manage the Brooklyn base ball nine during the season of 1892. He also secured the signature of "Con" Dalley to a Brooklyn contract for another season. By virtue of his new contract, Ward will have absolute control of the team, in addition to the selection of players and will be responsible for the showing of the Grooms.

A Detroit named Lawson is reported to have completed arrangements for taking a base ball team to Cuba. The following players are named as being members of the team:—McKean, Seward and Alvord, Cleveland; Miller and Newell, of Pittsburgh; McGraw, of Baltimore; Duffee and Wells, of St. Louis; Campana, of Detroit, and Dahlen and Luby, of Chicago. Lawson has arranged games with local clubs at New Orleans, the first of which was to
