as Lined Most of Way Up River-Water Unusually Low-The Port Simpson Expected at Hazelton

A special dispatch to the Colonist from Hazelton says the steamer Hazelton reached there yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock, two days from Port Essington, with 49 passengers and 35 tons of freight, having to limit her freight owing to the lowness of the water in the Skeena river, which is lower this year than for many seasons. M. Hicks-Beach and a party of twelve for Hanson Creek were among the passengers of the steamer. Owing to the lowness of the water it was necessary to line the steamer up most of the fiffles, lines being sent ashore and Those interested in or living in the "The development of important trade"

TUG IVANHOE TRIED TIS III YET I KATA

The tug Ivanhoe of Vancouver built for G. I. Wilson by the Wallace Ship-yard, went on her trial trip yesterday at Vancouver. She cost over $60,000 yet so bad is the towing business that as soon as she reached Robert Ward's wharf after the trials steam was blown off, cabin doors locked and everything made snug for a long lay up.

Very few tugs are working and the business is in worse condition than it has even been. Last summer there were not enough tugs and business was so good that everyone went in for building new boats and overhauling old ones but there is absolutely nothing moving at present and the towing fleet is tied up.

RELATION OF MEXICO

OF NORTH PACIFIC

Representative of Natural History Museum Will Spend Summer on Coast

To investigate and report on the character and life of the whale and character and life of the whale and porpoise inhabiting the North Pacific ocean is the mission of R. C. Andrews, who is in Victoria. He is identified with the American Museum of Natural History, New York, being the assistant of Dr. Bumpus, the director of that institution.

Mr. Andrews arrived on Tuesday, and yesterday visited Curator Kermode, of the provincial museum. He closely inspected the display of British Columbia curios and expressed himself as much impressed with the variety of the exhibition and the general attractiveness of the arrange-

Canada't ultimate place in the wheat export trade of North America is thus to forecasted by the Monetary Times:

"The recent, estimate furnished by the United States Department of Agriculture covering the world's wheat coop in 1907, gives the aggregate production of the year as $103,922,000 bushels, or about 330 millions less than the preceding year. In going over the statistics presented by the department it is apparent that there are two countries, which will rapidly increase their wheat exports, viz., Argentina and Canada, while to all appearances the Asiatic export will not increase much over present figures. It will require a world's total yield in the vicinity of 1,500,000,000 bushels before ditions.

"The development of Canada as a wheat raising country is largely dependent on immigration, the tide of which is now flowing strongly. Another of the factor to be taken into account is attention attracted by the fruit exhibit sent to England Last Year

The fruit exhibit sent to England last year under the supervision of R. M. Palmer is already bearing tangible truit in the shape of enquiries from all parts of England from people who are thinking of going into the fruit shoustry here and want to get all possible information first as to the right place in which to locate, prices of land and so forth.

Beaumont Boggs, of the firm of Day & Boggs, said yesterday that his firm had received more enquiries from the old country recently than ever before. These enquiries come from intending settlers and are almost all for freit lands. He says there are more people seeking such opening now than ever before, and attributes the increased interest largely to the attention attracted by the fruit exhibit.
