BALD-HEADED YOUNG MEN

A POOR ATTEMPT TO RALLY THE CONSERVATIVE YOUTH.

Speech by Sir John—Names and Occupation of the "Young Men"—They are mostly Lawyers —The Resolutions Passed.

The World under a tall chimney presented himself at the temperance hall last night in response to a broadly circulated circular calling on the young men to attend a meeting to organize a young men's conservative association. About fifty persons were in the hall when the meeting organized. What struck the World most was the number of bald heads that graced the thin crowd. When the bald heads, and the lawyers with bald heads were counted out only a few were left.

THE YOUNG MEN AND THEIR OCCUPATION.

Among those present were D M Dafoe, barrister; James G Bullertin, barrister; Nicholas Murphy, barrister; J L Denison, barrister; W G Murdoch, barrister; G A Boomer, barrister; T G Blackstock, barrister; Ed Meek, barrister; S Platt, jr., barrister; Jas Beaty, jr., barrister; Alf Boultbee, barrister; J E Worrell, barrister; Trevelyan Ridout, barrister; C J Mead, merchant; Jos Mead, bank clerk; Edward Gegg, bailiff; J Herbert Beatty, gentleman; W H Cooper, steam boat agent; — Foster, merchant; Dr Pynerr; — Robert, architect; J Beard, gentleman; John Irwin, alderman; Sam Beatty, railway agent; P Conlin, grain buyer; R Bradford, grain dealer; Robt Hay, M P, furniture dealer; — Pearson, land agent; E P Roden, reporter; J Massey, book-keeper; C W Banting, journalist; W J Hammond, hatter; Geo Wright, doctor: W DeGrassie, clerk; Jas Britton, cattle dealer; G T Blackstock, barrister.

On consulting the official document and taking out the age of the above mentioned, their average age was found to be 48 years 11 months and 8 days.

On the opening of the meeting Mr. J. A. Worrell was voted into the chair and J. Doherty was appointed secretary. Upon the platform besides those already mentioned were seated A. Boultbee, M.P., Ald. Denison, Jas. Beaty, M.P.

The chairman in his opening remarks spoke of the formation of a young men's conservative association and of the efforts which should be put forth by the young men to further the interests of the party. He also spoke of their honored leader who could sympathize with them in their efforts to form an association of this kind.

During the progress of the chairman's remarks the premier entered the room with John Greenfield Macdonnell. His arrival was greeted with cheers, the majority rising to their feet. It was suggested that in view of the immense sacrifice which sir John had made in attending the meeting, he be requested to address the meeting before any resolutions be offered in order that he might retire.

Sir John upon rising was greeted with cheers. He began by remarking that his usefulness was not yet quite gone. He spoke at some length upon the great work which the conservative party had done for his country and upheld the principles advocated by them. When sir George Cartier died the conservative party in Lower Canada were unanimous in electing him (sir John) to be leader of the entire conservative party in Canada. Although Nova Scotia was behind in 1878, he was satisfied that in 1883 the conservatives would show in that province a majority of at least ten. He had never been in his adopted province, British Columbia (laughter) but he was satisfied that they would not be behind in that portion of the Dominion. He was satisfied that Ontario alone required to be drawn into line in order to complete the great work already commenced. In order to accomplish that end it was necessary for the young men in this province to exert themselves, to form similar organizations to that formed to-night, so that no stone might be left unturned to ensure complete success at the elections of 1883. (Cheers.) At the conclusion of his address the premier, after shaking hands with those on the platform, left the hall.

The chairman called for resolutions, which were passed as follows:

Moved by Mr. Fullerton, seconded by Mr. Conlin, that this meeting is of opinion that the junior members of the liberal conservative party of Toronto, should form an association to be known as the young men's liberal conservative association, and to consist of all who will subscribe to the declaration contained in the minute book. Carried.

Moved by T. G. Blackstock, seconded by T. Ridout, that a committee be appointed to make arrangements for rooms for use of the association and as to future places of meeting.

Moved by W. H. Cooper, seconded by G. R. Bradley, That a committee be appointed to draft a constitution for the association, and report at a meeting to be held in this place on Friday evening, December 2nd. Carried.

Moved by Ald. Denison, seconded by Mr. G. T. Blackstock, That this meeting is of the firmest opinion that the interests of the Dominion will be best served by maintaining our connection with the mother land, and we most cordially appreciate the loyal sentiments of sir John Macdonald as expressed at the recent banquet.

Moved by Dr. Wright, seconded by Mr. Meek, That the association having listened with pleasure and instruction to the able remarks of the leader of the party and the other conservative members of the party present, do express its entire approval thereof, and its perfect confidence in the administration of which sir John A. Macdonald is the head, and pledges itself to exert every effort to secure the return of the supporters of that administration at the next general election.

THE SECOND CENSOR.

Hon. Adam Crooks Thinks Ovid Immoral and Suppresses Him.

It will be seen from the following circular that hon. Adam Crooks will not allow Mr. Patton to be sole censor of the public morals.

TORONTO, Nov. 23, 1881.

SIR: I am directed by the minister to call your attention to an edition of the Heroides of Ovid, published by Willing & Williamson, which, on examination by one of the high school inspectors, is found in several portions specially objectionable and unfit to be used in the high schools, especially considering the number of female pupils who are likely to be instructed in it. The book, moreover, is unauthorized, and should be withdrawn from use, and this will probably result in an unobjectionable edition being issued. Your obedient servant, ALEX. MARLING, secretary.

PUBLIC OPINION.

Montreal Star: We want more modern languages and less classics taught at our schools, and we want every boy to get some idea of a trade, while he is yet under the masters who teach the young idea.

Stratford Advertiser: The question of organizing a "third party" is receiving, just now, a good deal of attention. The Toronto World, a bold, fearless, and independent journal, which refuses to bend the knee of subservancy to any political party, pioneers this movement. It thinks, and we quite agree with it, the Canadian people ought to be emancipated from the shackles of party dictators.

THE GUITEAU TRIAL.

The Prisoner's Speeches—Inspired by the Deity.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Guiteau in his statement said: Last spring certain newspapers in New York and Washington were bitterly denouncing the president for breaking up the republican party by improper appointments. I would like those newspapers to reprint their editorials, and see how they would look and sound. In attempting to remove the president, I only did what the papers said ought to be done. Since July 2nd they have been deifying the president, and denouncing me for doing the very thing they said oughts to be done. I want the newspapers and doctors, who actually killed the president, to share with me the odium of his death. I never would have shot him of my own volition, notwithstanding these newspapers, if I had not been commissioned by the Deity to do the deed. But this fact does not relieve the newspapers from the supposed disgrace of the president's removal. If he had been properly treated he would have been alive to-day. It has been published that I am in fear of death. It is false. The Lord inspired the act as in the case of Abraham and a score of other cases in the Bible. I hereby warn all cranks of high or low degree to keep away from me under penalty of instant death.

Guiteau grew greatly excited, and shouted: "There's another matter I want to speak about right now. I understand my divorced wife is to be brought here as a witness against me. If that's so there will be trouble. She was a poor unfortunate thing and I never should have married her, but if she comes in here to testify against me and do me any harm, I'll rip up her whole record. She was seduced in Philadelphia and had a child before I married her."

The prisoner continued to interrupt, making rambling, irrelevant remarks until the judge quite sharply threatened to gag him if he did not keep quiet.

THE IRISH SITUATION.

More Arrests—The Suspects to be Released—The Ladies' League to be Suppressed.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—It is understood that the government intends to release the imprisoned members of the house of commons before the session of parliament, provided no treasonable conspiracy exists, and the tenants are not intimidated from applying to the land court. The principal Irish judges strongly deprecate any suspension of trial by jury.

A large party armed and disguised raided a house in Dublin county for arms. Thirteen raiders were arrested.

Five arrests under the coercion act were made to-day. The Protestant church in a rural district in the county Cork was wrecked by a party of men.

DUBLIN, Nov. 25.—The coroner's jury returned a verdict of wilful murder against sub-inspectors O'Brien and Bouchier, who commanded the police on the occasion of the killing of Mansfield in an affray at Ballyragget, county Kilkenny, October 9th. Warrants for their arrest have been issued.

Philips, accountant of the land league, has been arrested under the coercion act.

In the Cork municipal election to-day the land leaguer candidate was defeated in 4 of the 6 wards. The liberals gained one seat.

Maloney, a wealthy merchant and active member of the land league, was arrested on a charge of intimidating from paying rents, and circulating "no rent manifestos." The ladies land league has resolved to discontinue their meetings. It is reported that Maloney's wife will be arrested, which step will be followed by vigorous action towards the ladies' league.

Attempt on the Czar.

VIENNA, Nov. 26.—An unsuccessful attempt has been made by terrorists against the life of the czar. The imperial family have decided to remove at once from Gatchena. The police have made numerous arrests.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 25.—Among the prisoners are the chief of police of an important provincial city, two daughters of a high state official, two Jewish merchants, a number of students and active members of the nihilist party. It was decided to cause a balloon to ascend near Gatchena, carrying dynamite and explosive fire balls with appliances to cause the balloon to fall within the palace yard, when it would explode and set the palace afire. In the confusion it was intended to seize the czar and family. The machinery seized shows everything was in readiness for the execution of the plot.

BARRIE NOTES.

Illegal Weights—The Cookstown Tragedy—Detectives Murray and Rogers at Work.

BARRIE, Nov. 25.—The inspector of weights and measures have made a raid on the merchants of this town and found unlawful measures on their premises. Several were up before the mayor to-day and were fined $25 and costs each.

Government detective Murray and detective Rogers arrived back from the scene of the Cookstown tragedy last night and started back again this morning. The detectives are working very hard, not leaving a stone unturned to bring the guilty parties to justice. They will not say with what success they are meeting.

"HIS WICKED PARTNER."

MR. CHADDICK EXPLAINS HOW THE CORBISHLEY MONEY DISAPPEARED.

How the Case Fell in his Hands—He Dissolved the Partnership—He is to Work Hard to Pay all Obligations of His Firm.

TO THE WORLD: I find a communication in your paper of the 24th inst., with respect to which I desire to state a few facts.

On the 15th of April 1880, a person who went by the name of Hughes, and who stated he was unmarried, died suddenly at a boarding house in this city. We only knew Hughes as being a witness in a suit in which my late firm was solicitors.

The boarding house keeper communicated the fact of Hughes' death to my firm, and stated he had no money, nor friends; so we agreed to pay for his burial, and ordered the undertaker to attend to the same, which he did. Shortly afterwards, letters were found which went to show he had a son in Michigan, and that his real name was Corbishley. We at once endeavored to find out the son, and in a few days he came to our office. It was also ascertained Hughes had $1700 in the bank of Montreal at Sarnia. No will could be found, and as Mr. Corbishley jr., did not reside in Canada the court would not grant letters of administration to him. He desired my late firm to take out letters of administration, and I, unfortunately, was prevailed upon to give my name as administrator. He promised to give Gegg $20 to become surety, which amount Gegg received, and became surety. Letters of administration were taken out. I procured the money from the bank of Montreal ($1756 including interest) and deposited the same in the bank to the credit of my late firm. The late Mr. Hughes may have left a widow, but I never saw her and never heard of her being in Canada. I understood there was a window and another son, a sailor of about 18 or 19 years of age. The only member of the family I ever saw or communicated with was Mr. Corbishly, junior, a merchant, about 25 years of age, residing in Michigan.

On returning from my vacation trip, in the fall of 1880, I found a considerable sum of Corbishly's money had been withdrawn from the bank during my absence by my late partner. I at once dissolved the partnership. I have since advertised for debts due from the estate of the late Mr. Hughes, and have paid out of my own funds all I have heard of, amounting to several hundred dollars. I communicated with Mr. Corbishly several times, and he was at my office in April last. I told him frankly my position, and he agreed to wait for his money, which I agreed to pay. Gegg also knew the position of affairs.

I have, during the past twelve months, paid off about $2000 of the indebtedness of my late firm, and if any persons dispute it let them come to my office and I will show them the receipts. I intend by perseverance and attention to business to pay off this, and the remaining unpaid claims due from my late firm, just as soon as I can make the money needed. My partnership was unfortunate. No one will ever know how keenly I have felt the disgrace cast upon me by being mixed up in matters connected with it, of which I was ignorant, and for which I was not therefore, in one sense, personally responsible. In reference to my faults and failings no one more deeply regrets them than I do—but no one has the right to charge me with being dishonest or a hypocrite. I shall say no more on this head than, that if my life be spared, I hope to disprove it utterly, by devoting my time and labor to the task of discharging every cent owed by my late firm; although this casts a very heavy burden on me, in respect of debts which I personally did not incur. I trust that you will not thwart me further in this the endeavor of my life by injuring my character, which is so necessary to me in seeking to carry out the object above stated by me. RICHARD CADDICK.

THE WILD MAN.

A Voice From Brooklyn—Are We Philistines or Israelites?—The Phallic Stone.

TO THE WORLD: Accident threw a copy of your paper of Nov. 2 in my way yesterday, in which J. L. F. applies the axe to the root of the Wild gourd with some vigor. As I have occasionally sat under that vine here in Brooklyn, a few years since, and now and again avail myself of the Green pastures of his erudite successor, I shall be very much obliged to you if you will make me a present of any future numbers of your journal which may contain redundant versions on "Our Israelite origin." Though on Wild-Green's theory I am confessedly a Philistine, yet I take a little interest in that all-important question of these latter days; chiefly for fear of being smitten with emerods (1. Sam. v., 6), or hemorrhoids, in case we Philistines should ever come into collision with the people who have placed the Phallic Stone under their coronation chair. Mr. Editor, I have a theory, and I believe it to be more tenable than Wild's. It is, that the pirates who drove the British into Wales, and crushed my native country, are the true Philistines. Hope my life-long friend, Mr. James Campbell (publisher), is flourishing in Toronto. You seemed to be blessed with a "godly" press censor! Yours, &c., J. T.

PURIFY THE CHURCH.

TO THE WORLD: The question of what to do with the inmates of houses of ill-fame seems to are at the attention of a great many, especially the ministers and heads of this city. They do not strike the root of the evil at all in my estimation. The cause of the sad increase in this our city, is that the very men that patronize the church are the very individuals that support the inmates of these houses. Let the ministers preach to these men and win them over to the right path; then the supporters of this evil when they have turned away from wrong doing, will leave the inmates no supporters; so we would see its fall very rapidly. There is no city on this continent that has so many churches as Toronto, and there is no city that has so many houses of ill-fame for its population. Hence you see the foundation of this great evil. Ministers and the law may try to suppress it but it cannot be done without the aid of the great law giver. He will in his good pleasure root this evil up. Let ministers purify the church and let the outside evil alone.
