private plans at the country's loss. The politics of Canada will soon be despised by men who prize personal honor and true individual independence. The language of politicians, from the leaders down to the ballot-box stuffers, their high-handed and low-handed actions, the reproachful language of the political press, and the barbarous epithets used by both parties indicate that morality among legislators and their tools is at a low ebb. Truth-loving men are not too numerous in our legislative halls.—Crescent.

MORMONISM.—Vain delusion! "Mormonism will die a natural death." Nonsense! This social scab is growing more hideous daily. The streams of filth, originating in the foul fountain of Salt Lake City, are increasing in number. Their unhealthy vapors are being carried on the ever varying winds to the homes of the pure and noble, as well as to the hovels of the wretched. The true fountain of this life-devouring disease is low, brutal sensuality. The American Union is tainted and polluted with many weaknesses, and this is one of the worst. Will Congress dare to touch this question? No. We say, emphatically, no It is powerful and feels its power. The cringing politicians of the United States will fold the slimy monster to their bosoms for the sake of a seat. They will fondle, nurse and nourish this stygian-dyed nursling of human corruption. "But the end is not yet."

QUITE an excitement is being created in the educational circles of Ontario over the proposed change from a Minister to Chief-Superintendent of Education. This discussion was inaugurated at the late meeting of the Ontario Teachers' Association by Mr. Bryant, of Galt Collegiate Institute, who presented a very valuable paper advocating such a change. Various County Associations have since taken up the question, but appear to be pretty equally divided in their views. The difference is not very great, and the discussion is more political than any thing else, there being probably very few taking an active part in it who do not see, in some way, from a party
