

CHICAGO MARKET.

WHEAT PRICES COMPLETELY UNSETTLED.

CORN SELLS DOWN.

Provisions Much Weaker than Yesterday.

European Markets Weak.

Chicago, July 27.

Market is only slightly lower on the day. July close $\frac{1}{4}$ of a cent down, and the lowest of the day was $\frac{1}{4}$ cents under yesterday's close.

Sept. and Dec. options lose from $\frac{1}{8}$ to $\frac{1}{4}$ of a cent, and they only reacted upwards once during the day. The short interest is large enough to bring about an advance of a couple of cents; on any attempt to cover, this should occur before the week is out.

The believers in corn have not received encouragement from to-days price, like wheat it has lost about $\frac{1}{8}$ to $\frac{1}{4}$ of a cent and closes at about lowest of the day. Yesterdays slight rains in the Corn belt no doubt gave encouragement to sellers.

Provisions scored another decline, which makes a break of 65 cents per bbl. for Pork in two days. Lard is $17\frac{1}{2}$ cents lower than yesterdays close.

Dealing with the wheat situation the "New York Commercial Bulletin" of to-day says:—

"Contrary to repeated claims, the movement of the new winter wheat is exceeding last year, and now that pressing demand has been satisfied, there is steady pressure and weakness in the near deliveries. Corn declined on better weather reports, the rains east of the Mississippi relieving the situation in some States, although the claims are made of critical conditions West of the Mississippi. Flour influenced by the decline in wheat was lower to sell."
