

Council will focus particular attention on the progress made so far in the United Nations Development Decade and on the financing of economic development.

Canada began its present three-year term on the 27-member Council in 1965. Canada has served three previous terms on the Council, the most recent being from 1956 - 1958.