

Dr. Phelim O'Shaughnessy,

SIRJOHN, DINTIS, & ACOUCHIRE,

Offers his sarvices in a professional way, to the Laydies and Gintlemin of this matropolis, and its visanity. He begs laive most absequisly to acquaint thim, that natur has giving him a a brite geni, which he has polished with deep larnin to the hiest klimax of literarray refulgisens, so as to be inabled to pry into the most hiden disaises of the humane fraim, and traising thim thru all there complicated ramyficashins, to apply to thim the most suprain and inaffable remidays. This fact can be tested by almost all the crowned heads of Urop, as well as by the Great Macgul and the Impror of Tomabucktwo, who have all experinsed the salubrificationis affects of his life-pre-sarving

Cordial Drops,

which are an unfallable kure for all disaises ruting thim owt from the budd, and reginirating all those that partaik of thim by their southing qualificashins—stimalating the orgainic sistam with there multifluus, geneal, ballsammac, axhillourating, and verry saluberous affects—affecting the mouths of the absorberants and the slavery glans, with the most unknone and unexplanable aginsey, so as even to rendar the verry intonifykashins of the voyse more mellifluiser, to give a most angelified glow to the countainans, and cause the hare to have a butifull, glossay, slick, and ameable apperins.

☞ Applikashins to be maid at the Fountane of Health, sine of the Steembote, where the hours of attindins are from 10 to 4.

N. B. Broaken heds, legs, arms, goints, kollars, and showlder boans, nately repeared on the most raisinable terms, and at the shortist notis—and the poor attindid free gratis for nothing.

York, Dec. 31, 1827.