Magistrate Comes Back at Mayor of New York With List of Dark Details

NEW YORK, April 1.-A challenge to Mayor Gaynor to substantiate his claims that "New York is the most orderly large city in the world," was issued this afternoon by Magistrate Jos. Corrigan, whose criticism of the police department Mayor Gaynor re-cently characterized as seditious. The magistrate addressed a luncheon given by the City Club, to which Mayor Gaynor, who had been invited, sent his regrets in a characteristic letter, defending himself and the police. "I have here a list of 312 all around crooks who can be found in various resorts and on the streets," said Magi-strate Corrigan. "Also the names of 22 hold-up men, seventeen professional shoplifters, twelve confidence men, 46 burglars and 54 badger women, who were recently seen on Broadway. I have here the addresses also of gambling houses, dope joints and information that one man refused to 'come across' with $120 assessment this month

The Cause of Many Accidents.

Sometimes a street car may be obliged to slow down or perhaps come to a standstill at a point other than a regular stopping place. Any one of half a dozen causes may be responsible for this. It may be to avoid running into some obstruction; it may be to permit another car to pull out of the way. Whatever the cause, the passenger who attempts to take advantage of the moment to board or alight from the car risks his life.

The car may suddenly start; it may suddenly back up. If it does either at the instant that the passenger has one foot on the ground and the other on the step he is almost certain to be thrown to the ground. The spot not being the regular stopping place, the conductor is not on the lookout for passengers entering or leaving the car. The motorman's attention being centred on the object in front of him, he throws on his power as soon as the track is cleared Passengers who meet with accident as a result of this foolhardy attempt to save a few seconds have nobody but themselves to blame. As neither conductor nor motorman has any warning of their intention, he can do nothing to save them from the consequences of their act. If they escape injury, it is by act of Providence, not through their own foresight or any safeguards the Company can throw around them. When it is considered that they take this grave risk to save only the few seconds that must elapse until the car reaches the regular stopping place, the recklessness and folly of the practice seem almost incredible.
