FROM NORTH AMERICA LABOR LEADERS GATHER

Executive Committee of the Federation Begins Annual Session Here To-Day.

One of the most important labor gatherings ever held in Canada will be inaugurated this morning, when the Executive Committee of the American Federation of Labor will go into annual session at the Arlington Hotel. For weeks past the local labor organizations have been preparing for this event. The members of the Executive Committee are men who have for years been identified with every movement connected with the progress and betterment of conditions surrounding the daily life of the great laboring classes of both Canada and the United States. Their names are known wherever organized labor has a home throughout the world.

Leaders Arrive.
Last evening there arrived in this city Samuel Gompers, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, James D. Brown, first vice-president of the American Federation of Labor; Thomas L. Kidd, general

President Simpson and Delegates D. W. Kennedy, J. H. Kennedy, W. Ward, J. Sangster, J. H. Huddleston, Thomas Volney Davis, and Gardner have them identify with the Queen City and escorted them to the Arlington Hotel, where every arrangement has been made to look after their comfort while in the city. The Arlington Hotel will be the headquarters of the visitors, and it is there that the session will be held morning and afternoon until the business on the docket is disposed of.

John Mitchell Coming.
John Mitchell of the United Mine Workers, whose figure stood out so boldly before the public of the United States and Canada during the progress of the recent big coal strike, will arrive late on in the week, in time to address the big labor demonstration in Massey Hall on Friday evening. The president and the labor classes of the country will then be discussed and explained by men the history of whose lives is a great part of the history of latter-day labor progress.

Will Be Royally Entertained.
On Wednesday evening the local Trades and Labor Council will banquet their distinguished visitors at McConkey's. The Toronto local labor organizations will also entertain royally the visiting representatives of the international bodies.

To Settle Many Disputes.
Among the many matters that will be brought up for discussion and settlement is the difficulty that has arisen in connection with the electrical conducting at the Kings Hotel. The matter is a typical matter, it has caused intense friction between the Electrical Workers' Union and the Hotel management. The international officers of both unions will be present to settle their respective claims.

Question of Jurisdiction.
Another dispute that it is hoped will be settled for all time is a charge brought by an independent organization in Chicago against the International Association of Independent Sheet Metal Workers, over a question of jurisdiction.

General Secretary Charles Dold of the Piano and Organ Workers will also be in Toronto to settle the question of jurisdiction between the Piano and Organ Workers and the International Association of Independent Sheet Metal Workers.

President Simpson, when seen by the World, stated that he was not conversant with the list of matters that were to come as had Sir Oliver Mowat in dealing with the affairs of a great province.

Words of Old Friend.
Hon. James Sutherland, who sits in the Dominion House for what was Sir Oliver's old riding of North Oxford, looks back on a long personal friendship with the dead statesman.

"It was," says Mr. Sutherland, "one of our greatest Canadians. He was always progressive, but his temperament was conservative. His history, unblemished, and it will not be his lot to be forgotten."

Wilfrid Laurier's Views.
Sir Wilfrid Laurier expressed himself to the World and said that it was not his habit to give an interview in relation to the death of a public man. However, he said that Sir Oliver Mowat was a warm personal friend of his, and who he had known since childhood. He said that when Sir Oliver Mowat left the cabinet of the Dominion it was against his desire, and that he retained intimate relations with the deceased by correspondence and chats up to a few days before his death.

Hon. David Mills.
The Hon. David Mills paid a feeling tribute to his late friend and colleague in his long and intimate. In his associations with him in matters of national importance, he said, he found him particularly conversant with the details of the questions involved. Mr. Mills, who is the London Advertiser, was frequently called to Toronto to consult with Sir Oliver on political problems, and had found him holding enlightened views, which he expressed with a cautious regard for what was right. As a lawyer Sir Oliver was able, large-minded and well informed, especially on all questions regarding the interests of the Dominion and the provinces. He said that he would locate a distinct loss to Canada and mark the separation of the past from the future.

Upright at All Times.
Sir William Mulock, seen by The World tonight, spoke feelingly of Ontario's great statesman. He said that he had known Sir Oliver Mowat for many years, and that he had found him to be a man of the highest integrity and of the most upright character. He said that Sir Oliver Mowat was a man of the highest integrity and of the most upright character. BARR'S MUTABLE MANY TROUBLE OVER BAGGAGE Threats of Raid on Baggage Tents Responded to by Warning That Police Would Shoot.

Winnipeg, April 19.—(Special).—The Rev. Mr. Barr met with a decidedly cold reception on arriving at Saskatoon tonight. No crowd had gathered to greet the prime mover of the big immigration scheme, and not a cheer was given until he reached his tent, when a few belated "hurrahs" were given by a small number of colonists.

Wouldn't Pay for Tents.
Many of the newcomers to-day took possession of the tents they had purchased and refused to pay the dollar demanded by Barr's agents, while a few paid under protest. The non-payment of baggage caused much trouble, and threats of raid on baggage tents were freely made. Impelled by the situation, Barr called on the police, and asked the colonists to consent to his signing a blanket release for all baggage and distribute it himself. Some objected, and Barr in tactless speech told the crowd if the raid was made that the mounted police would fire upon the crowd.

Prairie Fires Threaten Camp.
"Don't be afraid your baggage will be stolen," said Barr. "Canadians do not steal it, but I don't say that for our Englishmen. We had thieves amongst our party. Things were missed on shipboard. The thieves were more, more shame to them." Despite these remarks the crowd kept its temper.

Prairie fires threaten the camp, and a party has been organized to fight them, provided the necessary measures are taken. Because of the non-distribution of baggage many were forced to sleep on the ground. They have rubber blankets yet, but they were purchased from Barr.

The journey westward may not commence until next week, and the colonists are short of money, and are selling rifles and other superfluous.
