

The annual cost of the school in its present shape is about $860, made up as follows:—Rent of building, $210; two lady teachers, $480; two native assistants, $120; lights and fuel, say $50. In addition to this a grant should be made sufficient to buy 500 Bibles, as many hymn-books, and a supply of Gospel tracts. Increased room accommodation is much needed, and this, in the building now occupied, would cost about $150 additional for rent, and $150 more to make necessary changes and provide seats. As there is every probability that the Chinese will remain permanently in Victoria, we should regard this mission as a permanent one, and take steps accordingly. In the future we shall require a church to accommodate five or six hundred people, a school-room with several class-rooms attached, a reading-room, etc., etc., as much of our work among the Chinese must be done after the Y. M. C. A. fashion.

To sum up, I am glad to say that our entire mission work on the Pacific Coast is, on the whole, encouraging; and while it would be too much to say that all the men are equally well adapted to deal successfully with the peculiar phases of society in that country, yet I can affirm that all are working earnestly, and that the interests of our Church in British Columbia are, for the most part, in good and safe hands.
