Eminent English actor, a big man of the movies here in World Brady-made play that will hold you in taut interest as its live reels are shown. Noted actresses, Gerda Holmes and Doris Kenyon, in support in

"The Man Who Forgot"

Tumultuous incidents that rush onward with the speed of life itself, grip attention in this dramatic offering. Situations that surprise and amaze hold the spectators breathless. "The Man Who Forgot" is a supreme offering. Story of a drink and drug victim who rehabilitated himself. How? That makes a gripping feature.

"THE BATTLE of BUNCO HILL"

That sounds like fun. It's the offering of our genial friends, THE GEM'S OWN COMEDY CO., and they say it's one of the best they've yet presented.

RING

Zulu Kid vs. McDonald

Halifax Recorder—The Zulu Kid, a Brooklyn Italian, has signed to meet

Roddie McDonald at the Arena on next Monday. The Italian is a performer who is a favorite with New York fans on account of his ability to mix it and take punishment. The Brooklyn boxer will arrive here on Friday to finish his training. He figures on going into the ring at about 160 pounds. He has met nearly all the best middleweights, and most of his bouts have been rounds in New York state, where no decisions are allowed, but they have always gone the limit.

He met Young Al Abrams in six no-decision bouts 1915-16; he went ten rounds with Jack Dillon at New York; he has had three 10-round bouts with Battling Levinsky; he boxed 10 rounds with Gus Christie at Brooklyn, N.Y.,

last year, and has twice met Al McCoy.

Welterweight Champion.

Ayton, O., June 26—Ted Lewis wrestled the welterweight crown from Jack

Brown here last night, winning on a decision by Referee Lou Bauman at the end of twenty rounds. Britton scored a knockdown in the last round, but it did not offset the lead Lewis had won in the earlier part of the match.

"THE BIRTH OF PATRIOTISM"

Adapted from "The Wake of the Storm," Published in the "Saturday Evening Post"

This five-reel offering is an unusual subject in many ways. It contains some carefully drawn character work, tells a story of real life which grips the heart and the emotions, and is admirably acted and directed.

The scene is laid in the slums of London in the opening days of the great war. Cockney characters predominate and there are numerous atmospheric touches of a pleasing sort. The scenes in the White Horse Inn give an impression of actuality and the love motive is brought into play in a natural, unforced way.

Shore Twirls Great Game

Not an Opposing Batsman Reached First Base—Babe Ruth Has Trouble With Umpire and is Suspended

Boston, Mass., June 26—A no hit, no run, no man reached first base pitching performance by Ernest Shore, Boston pitcher, an assault upon "Buck" Owens, umpire, by Babe Ruth, another Boston pitcher, in which the umpire was struck behind the ear, and the defeat of Walter Johnson by "Dutchie" Leonard, were incidents of the world champions double victory over Washington today. The scores were 4 to 0, and 5 to 0.

Shore's entry into the select list of pitchers who have shown perfect performances was made possible by Ruth's banishment from the first game. Ruth had pitched only to Ray Morgan, and Mr. Owens had given the latter his base on balls. Ruth argued the decision, the umpire ordered him off the field, and the Boston pitcher then struck Owens.

Other players intervened and Ruth left the field. Shore was called in with Morgan as first base, but a moment later the latter was thrown out attempting to steal second. Thereafter, the Boston pitcher and his fielders turned back every Washington batsman. Ayers, who pitched for Washington, was hit hard.

Chicago, June 25—"Babe" Ruth, star pitcher with the Boston Americans, was indefinitely suspended by President Johnson of the American League on Monday for striking Umpire Owens on the head when ordered off the field during a game with Washington on Saturday.

IF THE GERMANS WON

(Boston Post.)

What would England's surrender mean to the world? The prospect is one of the most appalling imaginable. Germany would not rest content with an ordinary surrender. The Kaiser would "bleed England white," as Bismarck promised to do to France. Above everything else, he would demand that military engine, now the great support of the Allies—the British fleet. Probably Germany would also annex the greater part of the English mercantile fleet—also the largest in the world.

This would instantaneously demoralize the English and French forces in France. Russia would disappear overnight as a military factor. Germany could easily isolate Japan. The Saloniki expedition would be starved to sur-ecacy would be at an end; and the under in a few weeks. Asia Minor and India would become German provinces.

There would be only one power that could conceivably offer any resistance; that is the United States; and any resistance from us would be rather short-lived. The German navy, especially if reinforced by the English ships, would have little difficulty in destroying the American fleet.

Our shores would be laid open to invasion. If Germany succeeds in subduing England by blockade she will accomplish this stupendous task before September. By that time we could have organized no military force to handle the German army.

Then, for us, would come submission; a huge indemnity; and the Monroe Doctrine would be no more. Germany would stride over the world; the doctrine of might against right would have accomplished its supreme justification; democracy would be starved to sur-ecacy would be at an end; and the world would be reorganized on the Prussian model.

THE PRESENT GREAT WAR has produced some domestic unfaithfulness as well as never-dying heroism. The present story deals scathingly with the matter of a designing wife and how she became mixed up in a German spy plot through her unstable ideas in widely department. The scenes are laid in aristocratic England, the trenches in France, amid enemy submarines in the English channel and in London club circles.

This is the second of our new Triangle features. Last week you saw a wonderful western story with William S. Hart. Now you have high society drama with a vivid insight into an unfortunate phase of the war which has cropped up in some homes.

American military duty is plain—to exert all our national energies to making Germany's submarine blockade a failure, to grow food and ship it to England and France. Hence the nationwide movement for cultivation of all our arable lands. If we fail to do our duty in raising this food supply, we shall be damned forever in the sight of all men.

AN AMERICAN WAR SAYS OREGONIAN

(Portland Oregonian.)

The truth is that, though now being fought in Europe, the war is as truly an American war as though it were being fought on American soil.

When Belgium tried to bar the way into France, the Belgian army was the first line for defense of France. Belgian soldiers were fighting for France in the full sense of the words.

In like manner, the line now held by the French, British and Belgian armies is the first line for defense of the United States. If that line were broken and if those armies were destroyed, the German army would advance to the Atlantic coast of France. Their next move would be to cross the ocean and attack our second line of defense in the United States.

If submarines should succeed in preventing the United States from sending food and munitions to Europe, they would also probably prevent us from sending an army to Europe, and the allies, thrown on their own resources, might be defeated. In that event it is probable that Germany would have Europe at its feet, and the doctrine of might against right would have accomplished its supreme justification; democracy would be starved to sur-ecacy would be at an end; and the by defeat of the American navy. The way would then be clear for a German army to cross the ocean and carry the war into America.

The barrier against invasion is therefore the allied army and navy which are fighting the German army on land and the German submarines at sea. By sending our army and navy to strengthen this barrier we fight to prevent invasion, and therefore in defense of the United States. Victory over the submarine at sea and over the German armies in Europe will prevent the war from ever reaching American soil.

There is no doubt that the men now in control of Germany aim at world conquest. This is made plain by the writings of their leading men and by the resolutions of their most influential associations, adopted since this war began.

The programme is all laid out and accords with German practice in the past. Control is to be obtained, first, of the world's commerce, then of the domestic commerce and industry of the country market for out for absorption, and finally of its government by military conquest.

The country and its people would then be thoroughly Germanized, as has been attempted in the case of the Poles, Alsians and Danes. The German language would be obligatory. German customs, laws, kultur and frightfulness would supplant everything that is characteristically American, and the United States would become German America.

The surest way to avert this fate is to defeat Germany on the first line of defense in Europe. That is where the first German-American war must be decided. If we lose, the second will be fought in the United States. If we win, there will be no second.

This is an American war as well as an European war, and must hereafter be so regarded by all loyal Americans.

Every soldier and sailor who goes to Europe to fight for us, the every dollar subscribed to a war loan will be a silver bullet fired in defense of America.
