The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

"I DECLARE I'm more tired than if I'd done a hard day's work," said my neighbor, sinking down on his doorstep and glaring at my beautiful pansy bed with an unseeing eye.

"What's the trouble?" I queried.

"That abominable man! I simply will not trade with him if I have to turn vegetarian. He will not send me what I ask for. I've talked and talked and talked, and it doesn't do the least bit of good. Yesterday was the climax. I asked him to send me not more than four pounds of the forequarter of lamb and he sent six pounds of the hind quarter. I went down this morning to blow him up and tell him we wouldn't trade there any longer, and he was so impudent that I got terribly angry, and now I feel positively done up."

"Did it pay?"

"Wouldn't it have been better to simply leave off trading with the man but omit the blowing up? Not for his sake but for hers."

"Does it ever pay to get angry?"

"Not from a moral but from a physical standpoint, I mean."

"I know a man who says he is done up for a week if he allows himself to get thoroughly angry, and although that is an extravagant case I don't believe it's a unique one."

"If people realized how much vitality they lose by fits of temper, it seems to me they would be more careful how they gave way to them."

"No one who has much to do in the world can afford to be angry or to hate, because he needs his energy for other things."

"People fancy when they are tired out that their low vitality is all due to overwork, but I have no doubt but that hurry, worry and hate do more damage to many people's vitality than any output of honest energy."

"Never let a child say 'I hate' unrebuked."

"Explain to him," besides the moral objections, the utilitarian one that if he hates anyone he gives that person a power to move and wound him, and thereby exalts him."

"Every hate you harbor is a weakness, a chain forged against yourself and the key given over to him you hate."

"Teach the child that indifference is a far healthier, saner feeling than hate."

"Teach him to say, and try to teach him to feel, the negative 'I don't like' instead of the positive 'I hate'."

"And while you are teaching him, suppose you also be your own pupil."

Rev. Dr. Taylor Tells Schenectady People Why United States May Well Sympathize With British Empire in its Grief Over King Edward's Death

A copy of the Schenectady, (N. Y.) Gazette, received by George H. Nixon of this city contains a very interesting account of a sermon delivered in St. George's church, there on Sunday evening, May 8, by Rev. Dr. B. H. Taylor, of the United States.

This statement, dealing with the linking up of the Canadian Northern lines in the west, was made by D. D. Mann, vice president, today.

Owen Sound, Ont., May 26—The town has signed an agreement with Edward Box, representative of a large English firm, to build a $100,000 shipbuilding plant here for the great lake shipping.

BANQUET TO DR. PUGSLEY IN TORONTO

Minister Inspects The Harbor—Favors Georgian Bay Canal After Transcontinental is Completed—Replies to Attacks on Himself

Toronto, May 26—Hon. William Pugsley inspected Toronto harbor today, and in the evening was the guest of the Ontario Club at a banquet.

He referred very briefly to some Conservative attacks on himself, saying that a department with expenditures like that of public works was always open to attack. The best reply he could make to his traducers was to refer them to the conditions in his own province where, certainly, he had the honor to be a member of an overwhelming majority.

Referring to Toronto harbor, he said it wanted a new system of piers, with better railway connection on the docks, and deeper approaches to bring it into contact with great Lake Superior trade, and the deepening of the Welland canal.

He advised the Toronto harbor interests to come and see him about these things. He said, personally, he was wedded to the idea of the Georgian Bay canal, and when the National Transcontinental was finished, he thought there would be plenty of freight for all the avenues they could provide.

M. J. Haney presided at the banquet, and more than 300 leading citizens, mostly Liberals, heard the minister's address.

In opening his address Hon. Dr. Pugsley referred to the fact that he was naturally singled out for political attack, because he was head of a large spending department. He was, moreover, obliged, owing to the vast extent of territory covered by work of the department, to trust to the good judgment and loyalty of those who served in the department.

"I am never afraid," he said, "of the whole truth concerning the management of my department. It is the half truth that I fear. The fact is that our opponents bring out certain facts and conceal others, asking the public to judge on data necessarily erroneous."

The minister instanced the case of the Ottawa lighting contracts which the opposition had dropped, "as one drops a hot potato." "It has been my whole-hearted endeavor," said he, "to administer my department honestly and fairly and to discharge my full duty to the public."

Dr. Pugsley briefly reviewed the administration of his department. During the year which closed on March 31 last, the total expenditure had been $14,747,283.

Of this, over a million had gone in capital expenditure. In harbors and rivers three millions had been expended, in dredging four and one half millions, and in public buildings five millions.

The balance had been spent in telegraphic and telephone lines, in roads, bridges and miscellaneous.

The engineering and architectural branches of the department were under the administration of each in charge of his respective branch. When he took charge, the minister said, he advocated the policy of erecting suitable public buildings in the growing towns and cities of Canada. Certain members of the opposition, notably Hon. George E. Foster, had characterized this policy as "fraternizing away public money." He took the view, however, that the people of Canada who lived in the smaller towns and cities were equally entitled to consideration with those in the large cities. "Montreal and Toronto must depend upon them," he observed, "to contribute to their growth and development."

In concluding the minister said the government was alive to the great possibilities of the dominion, and ready to do its part in aiding all great projects for the public weal.

FAWGETT MEMORIAL HALL IS OPENED

Sackville, N. B., May 26—The grand opening of the Charles Fawcett Memorial Hall, which is recognized as one of the best auditoriums in the maritime provinces, took place tonight, and notwithstanding the unfavorable weather, fully 1,000 people were present. Senator Wood acted as chairman, and beside him on the platform were Rev. Dr. Sprague, Rev. Dr. Morton, of Bridgetown (N. S.); Dr. Borden, Principal Palmer, Dr. Inch, Mayor Pickett, Dr. Allison and Dr. Andrews.

The programme, which was exceptionally good, included a rendition of the Hallelujah Chorus, Miriam's Song of Triumph, and part song: Song of the Vikings, by a choral class of 100 voices, and an orchestra of forty instruments, songs by Miss Mabel Phillips, Middleton (N. S.); Miss Flossie Palmer, Grand Pre (N. S.); piano solo by Miss Louise Carter, Point de Bute (N. B.); violin solo by Elmer Ross, P. E. Island; numbers by the orchestra; song, Ave Maria, by Miss Palmer, with accompaniment by Miss Duddy, of Amherst, on the violin. Miss Eigney on piano, and Miss Hawker, St. John, on the organ, was especially fine. The soloists in the cantata were Miss C. Kaye, of Sackville, and Miss M. Phillips, the singing of Miss Kaye being exceptionally fine. The Song of the Vikings, the concluding number, was magnificent and called forth the warmest applause.

Sensor Wood spoke briefly, referring to the generosity of the donors, Mrs. F. Ryan and C. W. Forcott, children of the late Charles Fawcett. Dr. J. R. Inch, of Sackville, who on behalf of the donors, made the presentation formally opened the hall. In the absence of Dr. Evans, of Hampton, chairman of the board of regents, Dr. Allison formally accepted the hall.

A WARNING—to feel tired before exertion is not laziness—it is a sign that the system lacks vitality, and needs the tonic effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Sufferers should not delay, but get rid of that tired feeling by beginning with Hood's Sarsaparilla today.

John Irvine, of Delhi street, while at work at McAdam yesterday, in the employ of the C. P. R., was painfully injured. A steam pipe burst and scalded his arms and face. He is in the hospital.
