BRITISH LABOR M. P.'S COMPLETE TOUR OF EGYPT

Caused Little Excitement and Met With No Unpleasant Incidents—Nationalist Invitation.

Cairo, Egypt, October 22.—(By mail)—A delegation of labor members of the British Parliament has just completed an unofficial tour of investigation in Egypt. It was headed by J. E. Swann, member of the House of Commons and a mining leader of Durham. The local press devoted columns daily to the activities of the mission, but it caused little excitement and there was no unfortunate incidents such as occurred in previous instances.

It is regarded as unfortunate in business circles here that the visit of the Swann Mission was personally conducted by the Nationalists Party. It came at the invitation of Saad Pasha Zagloul, president of the Nationalists. Business men feel that under such conditions the mission did not have the best opportunity to obtain a comprehensive view of conditions in Egypt. They also question whether the mission devoted sufficient attention to the study of the commercial and financial conditions in this country.

The extravagant hospitality of the Orientals is likely to make a visitor forget that the East, like the West, depends for its prosperity upon its commercial and financial machinery. So far as known, the Swann Mission did not consult with the large foreign colonies here which handle the financial and commercial business of the country, which is so essential to its prosperity. With the exception of the growing and picking of the cotton crop which constitutes Egypt's greatest contribution to the world's raw products, all the other operations of spinning, pressing, financing, insuring, exporting and shipping of cotton are done by foreigners. These men feel that their views should be considered by any group which hopes to make an impartial study of the Egyptian question. In view of the foregoing facts, foreigners in business in Egypt doubt whether the Swann Mission will have much influence upon the negotiations now resumed in London between the representatives of the British and Egyptian governments.

LOCAL NEWS

A still alarm was sent in about 7.40 o'clock last evening for a chimney fire in the house of Usher Miller on Alexandra street.

Hilton A. Belyea has secured the interest of Isaac Griffith in the Carleton open-air rink and intends to enlarge it to accommodate those who wish to try speed skating. The band room will be enlarged and there will be a check room where hot drinks will be served. At one end of the lot a public dump has been opened and it is hoped that a baseball field can be started next summer.

Mayor Schofield yesterday said that he intended to issue a warning to the unemployed of other sections of the country to stay away from St. John this winter. He understood the many were waiting for the waterfront to open with the intention of coming here. R. E. Armstrong said yesterday that sailors were beginning to drift into St. John, and that very few men were shipped at this port last season and probably there would be less chance this winter.

The opening night of the term of Alexandra Temple No. 6, T. of H. and T. was held last evening in Temple Hall. A programme for the coming winter was mapped out and officers elected. The committee appointed to arrange for a memorial service for the late D. I. Robinson was Hon. Dr. Roberts, Rev. Dr. Hutchinson and S. E. Logan. The officers were installed by C. T. Green, grand templar, assisted by J. B. Eagles, grand usher, and W. L. Roberts, grand templar. They were as follows: W. L. Downey, Chief Templar, F. F. Duval, Vice-Templar, A. V. Cowan, Recorder, E. Hartshorn, Asst. Recorder, S. E. Logan, Fin. Recorder, F. P. Gallon, Treasurer, Chester McCouch, Usher, Charles Richardson, D. Fisher, H. W. Bromfield, Chaplain, A. L. Roberts, Sentinel, C. T. Green, Guardian.

CAUGHT PRIMITIVE ANDEAN CATFISH

Scientist Tells of a Species so Old That it "Had Teeth but No Whiskers."

Chicago, Nov. 18.—After a two days' session in the course of which scores of papers were read, covering subjects ranging from the measurement of enormous stars to the best methods of telling the ages of fresh water fishes, the Autumn meeting of the National Academy of Sciences concluded its sessions at the University of Chicago.

Professor C. H. Eigenmann in his paper on the fishes of South America said: "I caught one catfish so old that he had teeth and no whiskers. He was literally older than the hills. I discovered that in many instances the same kind of fresh water fishes live on both sides of the Andes Mountains. As the fish are not mountain climbers, some people have asked me how I explained how they got over the mountains. The answer is simple. They didn't get over the mountains. The fish were there first, all in a happy family, swimming about the rivers on the plains. Then came the upheavals which made the mountains, and each group of fishes was broken up. Some went on one side and some on the other."

He knew the fish were primitive, he said, "because of the teeth of the catfish, it being part of the development of the catfish that they lose their teeth before they begin to raise whiskers."

Professor B. N. Besley read a paper on "the structure of the posterior lobe of the pituitary body which he explained, was a small substance, about the size of a hazel-nut, tucked away in the middle of the skull, near the base of the brain. "Despite the minute size of this organ," he said, "it is essential to life. Its removal would be followed almost instantly by death. It is associated chemically with astounding manifestations of growth. A disorder of the gland will produce gigantism in human beings. Extracts from this gland, injected into an animal, will cause a remarkable rise of blood pressure."

The posterior lobe, Professor Besley said, was lined with cysts containing a jellylike substance. "By tying a string around the duct," he continued, "you can dam up the secretion; but, despite our laboratory experiments, we know little about this substance, and speculations as to its functioning leads us only to the most fantastic."

"In the intermediary part we find a highly volatile which evaporates or disappears rapidly from the cell after death. This can be fixed, however, by precipitating agents; but the net result of our researches only shows that it is a new section as yet not chemically identified."

THRILLING RIDE ON AUTOMOBILE

Prohibition Officer Carried Down a Steep Hill and Smashed Into Electric Car.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 18.—Officer Farrell of the city police had a thrilling experience and was carried down Clifton Hill and half-way across the bridge in an auto which smashed the vestibule of an International car.

Farrell saw the auto and was suspicious of its contents. Feeling the pockets of the occupant, Lawrence Phillips, he discovered a revolver, and getting on the running board of the auto, ordered him to drive to the Central police station. All went well until Centre street was reached when the prisoner, instead of turning up Centre street, swerved at full speed down the steep Clifton Hill, which goes to the river. The prisoner then turned at the Upper Bridge, and, at fifty miles an hour, passed the Customs House, and in the middle of the bridge swerved into an International car, tearing the vestibule completely off.

By this time Farrell had climbed into the car and had hold of the prisoner, who put up a terrific struggle. With the assistance of railwaymen, he was held and captured. The street car was wrecked and could not proceed, while the automobile was a total wreck.

Beside the gun, a large quantity of bottles of whiskey was found in the car. A big lamp standard on the bridge was also demolished. The policeman, though badly shaken, clung like a terrier to his captive and was able to take him to the police station. Phillips was arraigned today on three charges, having liquor, carrying a gun, and reckless driving and remained until tomorrow.

BRITISH PLAN TREATY WITH PRINCE FEISAL

Paris, Nov. 18.—Herbert A. L. Fisher, member of the council of the League of Nations of Great Britain, announced in yesterday's session of the council meeting here that Great Britain was preparing to negotiate a treaty with Prince Feisal, King of the Iraq region of Mesopotamia, defining the relations of the British government as mandatory power to the new kingdom.

The treaty, he said, will be based on the principles announced by the king himself in his accession speech, during the course of which he said the freedom of religion and worship and "the equity of commercial dealings with foreign countries" would be assured. The treaty will control the foreign relations of the Iraq region to the British government. The kingdom of Iraq, which includes virtually all of Mesopotamia, is one of the territories covered by the A class mandates, which are still to be approved by the league council, and concerning which the United States government recently notified the council that it must have a voice.

NOT GUILTY, SAYS JUGO-SLAVIA

Paris, Nov. 18.—Jugo-Slavia yesterday pleaded not guilty to the charge of cowardly enacting breaking before the council of the League of Nations, which is in session here to examine charges that Jugo-Slavian troops have invaded Albanian territory contrary to the terms of the covenant of the league.

This little bit of advice may help you to regain your Health, Strength and Vitality

Thousands of people suffer from nervousness. They are run down and miserable without knowing the reason why.

They do not stop to think that much of their trouble may be caused by drinking tea and coffee which contain the drugs, thein and caffeine.
