CHATHAM, FRIDAY JUNE 2, 1876.

Philadelphia Letter.

(From our regular Correspondent.)

PHILADELPHIA, May 20.

I would advise all who expect to visit the Exhibition not to stop at in the city of Philadelphia. The average distance from the city hotels and boarding houses to the Park is about four miles, and the ride is anything but comfortable and picturesque. After having tried it for a week, I have determined to move nearer the Exhibition grounds. I have spent nearly two hours each day traveling to and from the park, in crowded, uncomfortable street cars, seldom able to find a seat, and when so fortunate, holding it with violence to my conscience, for there infallibly appears some ancient quaker lady to whom thee will feel in duty and gallantry bound to offer thy place.

There seem to be scarcely any young Quakeresses in Philadelphia. I have met but one. This morning I went into a store to buy a pair of socks, and a pretty black eyed young girl behind the counter said: "will thee have them plain or striped?" Now my particular vanity is striped socks but I told her plain, for I was anxious to make a good impression.

It costs twelve cents to ride on the street cars to and from the Exhibition, one dollar in a cab, the time made is about the same, but life is too short for either, and I would advise those who desire to make the most of the show to take rooms as near the grounds as possible. The hotels erected near the Exhibition buildings have accommodations quite as good as those in the city, indeed better, for they have been built with special reference to summer comfort and for this special occasion, and have spacious, airy features that cannot be found in the inns of the city built a quarter of a century ago. The prices are the same as at the city hotels, but those near the grounds are really less expensive when the economy of time, car and carriage hire is considered, for the visitor to the wonderful microcosm in Fairmount Park may step fresh from his bed and breakfast into the main building, while those who have slept in the city arrive an hour later jaded by an uncomfortable ride and feeling more like going to bed than undertaking the fatiguing tramp of forty miles involved in a journey around the various exhibits.

Of these hotels the "Grand Exposition" and the "Globe" houses, the first on the European, and the latter on the American plan, are perhaps the most desirable; the others are the "Trans-Continental," "United States," etc.

Although it is now ten days since the opening, it is yet too early to sketch the condition of the Exhibition, for much yet remains to be done before the plans and arrangements are completed. Of the leading exhibitors

IN THE MAIN BUILDING,

France and Germany seem to be the most dilatory. The American and English exhibits are very complete. Their displays, both in selection and arrangement, are marvels of taste and beauty. The displays of the various Philadelphia manfacturers are voluminous and handsome.

Sweden has a superb showing of iron and furs, and the best specimens of filigree ornaments in metal are to be found in this department. The Italian collection is distinguished as a display of some fine mosaics and carvings. Germany has been much behindhand in arranging her exhibits, her display of porcelain is good and attracts much attention. Austria has a rare display of Bohemian glass, amber, meerschaum, and leather goods. The Japanese collection is large and varied, and is distinguished especially for its carvings, lacquered ware and vases. The Chinese exhibition is large and creditable as are also those of Egypt, Brazil, Holland, Denmark and Canada.

IN MACHINERY HALL

the cynosure of attraction is the Corliss Engine. To see this Titan, with the strength of a volcano, the grace of a serpent, and the docility of a donkey, furnishing the motor for printing the "New York Herald," stamping centennial envelopes, weaving carpets, ribbons, and spooling silk thread and a hundred other useful manufactures from the most ponderous to the most delicate, all here under one roof, is in itself a liberal education.

IN AGRICULTURAL HALL

the display, consisting of cereals, woods, fruits, in fact of all the varied productions of the farm, forest and stream, is very interesting. If there is any particular excellence any where it is in the artistic display of tobacco by some Lynchburg and Louisville firms. The weed is represented in every state, color, manipulation and previous condition. I would advise every man, and woman too, who has abandoned its use, not to look upon this tobacco.

THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT BUILDINGS

attract a fair proportion of visitors, but part of the display I cannot but consider extravagant and frivolous: as, for instance stuffed artillery men mounted on wooden horses, and other stuffed figures representing the changes in military costume since the revolution. The school histories abound in pictures that illustrate these changes quite as well. These and some other displays would seem to indicate that the Commissioners have been puzzled to find means for spending all the money that has been appropriated. The larger number of

THE STATE BUILDINGS,

are not yet completed. It is difficult to see why they were ever begun. They illustrate nothing that is distinctive in the architecture of the respective states because there is nothing distinctive to illustrate; and they are at best but barren points of diversion from that which is well worth seeing. The visitor, with the impression that he must see everything, will loiter in these houses, when he would just as well stay at his hotel for all the profit or pleasure they afford.

THE ART HALL

contains by far the largest and most interesting display that was ever seen in this hemisphere, or will perhaps be seen again for a hundred years. I would advise a visitor having but one day for the Exhibition to give it entirely to this gallery. Remembering my own early delight in pictures, even in the commonest wood cuts, I regret every time I see the pictures in this hall that every boy and girl in the country cannot have protracted access to them.

THE WOMEN'S PAVILION

designed to illustrate her productive ability, attracts much attention, though there is little in it, beside the women themselves that is, in itself, attractive. I think it is a mistake that they have not a few fine babies there, this production has made woman illustrious in two hemispheres. There is something extremely pathetic in this disposition, or necessity of woman to "flock off" into a pavilion by herself, woman no more than man was made to be alone.

C. A. S.

A Fancy Yacht.

The new Canadian yacht, "Countess of Dufferin," which is to contest the race with the crack American yachts, is 107 feet long over all, 24 feet beam, and will only draw six feet and a half when in racing trim. Her main mast is 65, and her top mast 30 feet long. She carries a main boom 55 feet in length, and will spread nearly 4,000 yards of canvass! Her internal arrangements are very good; the main saloon is moderate sized and surrounded by curtained berths; she is of 221 tons register, but is so sharp fore and aft as to make her room less available; however, she will accomodate forty-eight in her cabins. Her counters are pared away very much, and her stern over-hangs 11 feet; this, with a rakish bow—said to be the sharpest on the lakes, gives her a dashing appearance. She has a new-fangled cog-wheel steering arrangement, lately patented in New York, and in other ways her running gear and outfit embodies all the latest improvements.

A Very Good Reason.

Judge Pitman came down stairs the other day in response to a call from his servant girl, and found standing at the front door a man with a carpet-bag. The man said:

"Is your piano out of tune?"

"No; I don't think it is," said the Judge.

"Ain't you sure about it?"

"No; I never tried to see."

"How long since it has been tuned?"

"It has never been."

"Then, of course it ought to be tuned at once. You'll ruin it if you don't have it attended to."

"I don't believe I will."

"Oh, yes, you will, though. Nothing worse for a piano than standing untuned."

"Do you think you could tune it?"

"Certainly I can."

"I don't believe you can," said the Judge.

"I'd like to know why not. I never saw the piano yet that I couldn't tackle."

"There's one mighty good reason why you can't in this case."

"I'd like to know what it is."

"You want me to tell you, do you?"

"Yes."

"Well, it's because I haven't got any piano."

Then the man put his carpet-bag under his arm, rubbed his nose thoughtfully, and left.—American paper.

ADVICE TO YOUNG LAWYERS.—Judge Underwood of Rome, Kentucky, said to four young lawyers who had just passed an examination in his court: "Young gentlemen, I want to say a thing or two to you. You have passed as good an examination as usual, perhaps better; and you don't know anything. Like those young fellows just back from their graduation college, you think you know a great deal. That is a great mistake. If you ever get to be of any account you will be surprised at your present ignorance. Don't be too big for your breeches. Go round to the justice's courts. Try to learn something. Don't be afraid. Set off upon a high key. You will, no doubt, speak a great deal of nonsense, but you will have one consolation, nobody will know it. The great mass of mankind takes sound for sense. Never mind about your case, pitch in. You are about as apt to win as lose. Don't be ashamed of the wise-looking justice. He don't know a thing. He is a dead beat on knowledge. Stand to your rack, fodder or no fodder, and you will see daylight after a while. The community generally supposes that you will be rascals. There is no absolute necessity that you should. You may be smart without being tricky. Lawyers ought to be gentlemen. Some of them don't come up to the standard, and are a disgrace to the fraternity. They know more than any other race generally, and not much in particular. They don't know anything about sandstones, carboniferous periods and ancient land animals known as fossils.

Men that make out they know a great deal on these subjects don't know much. They are ancient land animals themselves and will ultimately be fossils. You are dismissed with the sincere hope of the court that you will not make asses of yourselves."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

HATS OFF! — Shocked and astonished verger: "You bad and wicked boy, why don't you take off your hat in church?" Bad and wicked boy (overcome with guilt): "If you please, sir, I'm a little girl."
