GRATEFUL-COMFORTING.
EPPE'S COCOA.
BREAKFAST.
By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Eppe has provided our breakfast table with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills.
It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle influences are floating around us ready to attack whenever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping our system well fortified with pure blood, and a properly nourished frame.—Civil Service Examiner.

JOYFUL NEWS FOR THE AFFLICTED.

A little season of the year many persons are saying, "I am weak, what shall I take?"
To all such, we emphatically say, use

Gates' Life of Man Bitters.

INVIGORATING SYRUP.

They must vary case exactly, by purifying the blood, extracting the water therefrom, and allowing to settle the alkaline fluid, creating a healthy condition of the system. During nearly fifty years constant use they have given relief to thousands of sufferers, and have made such positive cures that they are considered far superior to any other preparation for the public.

Lesson XIII. June 27.
REVIEW.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS.

Review the main facts in the life of the Apostle John, and the Book of John.

SUBJECT.—THE REDEEMER OF THE WORLD.
I. HIS NATURE (Lessons 1, 11, 12). The Word of God; the Creator of all things; God himself, yet with a distinction from God; Light; Life; Living water; Messiah; the Son of man; full of grace and truth.

COMPARISONS AND ILLUSTRATIONS. From having such a Being for our Redeemer and Savour and Friend; from such a manifestation of God; from the message he brings; from his work for men; from his divine and human nature.

II. THE BEGINNING OF HIS KINSHIP (Lessons 2, 3, 4). His first disciples.
Small beginnings leading to great results; five or six disciples grown to many millions.
His first miracle. Illustrating his transforming power over the world. His first teaching. The great doctrine of the new birth, which lies at the beginning of every Christian life.

III. MIRACLES (Lessons 5, 7, 8, 9).
Teach the bearing of each upon the great work of Christ. (1) His transforming power over common things and common life. (2) His power to aid in times of sickness and trouble, of which the world is full. (3) His making earthly troubles and relief from them the means of spiritual life and health. (4) His supplying all the many needs of the soul—the bread and the fountain of life.

IV. TEACHINGS (Lessons 4, 5, 6, 10, 11, 12). Several of the great principles of the kingdom of God are taught in these lessons.
We cannot go into detail, but can impress the great truths upon the memories of the class. (1) The new birth. (2) Christ the source of supply for every need. (3) True worship of God. (4) Jesus the bread of life. (5) The gift of the Holy Spirit. (6) Freedom by the truth.

A Little Gentleman.

BY LEIGH SOUTH.

Bang! went the door, with a crash that sent nervous people a-shiver, and made mamma put up her hand to heraching head with a sigh. Down stairs went Harry, with a hop, skip and a jump, three steps at a time.

But suddenly he paused and stood quiet still at the bottom. Of what was he thinking? Only a little talk he had had with Uncle Fred, the other day.

Uncle Fred was mamma's lame brother, so lame that he could do little else than sit in his chair from morning till night, reading or writing. Sometimes he walked with his crutch a little, but not very much.

Yet somehow the house would not have seemed half as bright and cheerful without Uncle Fred, and some of Harry's happiest memories were of the hours spent by Uncle Fred's chair, talking with him; and when Harry went away, the world always seemed to him a brighter place, and kind wishes and desires were new stirring in his heart.

Uncle Fred could not do a great deal himself, but he at least always helped other people to do what was right.

Harry had been reading some story of a great military chief and hero, and was very full of it.

"Oh, Uncle Fred, I wish one could be a hero in this day! I would so like to be able to do something great and wonderful!" The boy's cheeks flushed at the thought.

"Do you know, Harry, there is something a boy can be and do daily that is quite as hard as to be a hero on just one occasion—that is to be a gentleman."

Think what that would mean! It is composed of two parts—gentle and man. So none the less he is a man; brave, courageous and honorable; as all men should be, because he is first gentle, kind, considerate of other people's wishes and feelings; and all the more, perhaps, will he be a brave man, because he is a gentleman.

Trains that are united in the highest and best characters. You will have to keep a constant watch over yourself, my boy, perhaps, to accomplish it, but it will be the best sort of training for you. There is no discipline of more value than discipline."

So that was what came into Harry's mind as he stood still at the foot of the stairs. Certainly it had not been very gentlemanly or considerate to bang the door after him like that, when he knew mamma walked it so much, and it made her head ache.

"I'll go back and tell her I'm sorry," he said to himself; and then came second thoughts: "Oh, bother! it's a nuisance to go up stairs again. I'll let it go now, and try not to do so again."

But Harry knew that in his case "second thoughts" were not best, and the surest way to make himself remember was to go and apologize.

"Mamma, I'm very sorry I slammed the door just now. I will try and be more careful next time," he said, as he went back to her.

Mamma looked up surprised, but not a little pleased.

"That is my little gentleman!" she exclaimed, as he shut the door quietly, and went out again, and to Harry it seemed quite a curious coincidence that she should use these words.

This was no easy task he had set himself, and he often thought of Uncle Fred's remark that it was harder to be trying for a lesser thing all the while, perhaps, than to do something great and wonderful.

Then again he would forget all about his resolve, and be not a whit more gentle or considerate than the average boy. But still he did try, and if once in a while he forgot altogether, his memory soon woke again, so, gradually, those about him, if not he himself, could see the progress.

He got into the street one day, with rather a heavy bundle that mamma wanted him to bring home, and being a little tired, was glad to find one seat still unoccupied.

Presently, a stout woman got in, and Harry began to feel uneasy. It did not seem very polite to let a lady stand. He looked along the line, but nobody moved, so he got up and offered her his seat, which she dropped into without so much as a "Thank you."

That was not very satisfactory, and she could not be much of a lady, Harry thought.

An Optimist's Story.

CHARLES GYER HAD NOT BARE OF IRON IN HIS HEAD, BUT A SCIENTIFIC INVEN-TION AND ITS RESULTS.

Cincinnati Times-Star.

"Optimism or drab?"
This brief sentence was fairly heeled into the ear of a prominent druggist on Vine street by a person who, a few years ago well off in today a hopeless wreck!

One can scarcely realize the sufferings of an optimist victim. De Quincy has vividly portrayed it. But who can fully describe the joy of the rescued victim?

H. C. Wilson, of Loveland, O., formerly with March, Harwood & Co., manufacturing chemist of St. Louis, and of the well-known firm of H. C. Wilson & Co., chemists, formerly of this city, gave our reporter yesterday a bit of thrilling personal experience in this line.

"I have crawled over red hot bars of iron and coals of fire," said he, "my agony during an opium frenzy. The very thought of my sufferings freezes my blood and chills my bones. I was then eating over 30 grains of opium daily."

"How did you contract the habit?"
"Excessive business cares broke me down and my doctor prescribed opium." That is the way nine-tenths of the cases commence. When I determined to stop, however, I found I could not do it.

"You may be surprised to know," he said, "that two-fifths of the slaves of morphine and opium are physicians. Many of these I met. We studied our cases carefully. We found out what those organs were in which the appetite were developed and sustained; that no victim was free from a demoralized condition of the organs; that the hope of a cure depended entirely upon the degree of rigor which could be impered to them. I have seen patients, while undergoing treatment, compelled to resort to opium again to deaden the horrible pain in those organs. I marvel how I ever escaped."

"Do you mean to say, Mr. Wilson, that you have conquered the habit?"
"Indeed I have."

"Do you object to telling me how?"
"No, sir. Studying the matter with several opium-eating physicians, we became satisfied that the appetite for opium was located in the kidneys and liver. Our next object was to find a specific for restoring those organs to health. The physicians made against their code, addressed their attention to a certain remedy and became thoroughly convinced and have proved and shown that it was the only one that could be relied upon in every case of disordered kidneys and liver. I thereupon began using it, and supplementing it with my own special treatment, finally got fully over the habit. I may say that the most important part of the treatment is to get those organs first into good working condition, for in them the appetite originates and is sustained, and in them over ninety per cent. of all other human ailments originate."

"For the last seven years this position has been taken by the proprietors of that remedy and finally it is becoming an acknowledge scientific truth among the medical profession; many of them, however, do not openly acknowledge it, and yet, knowing they have no other scientific specific, their code not allowing them to use it, they buy it upon the quiet and prescribe it in their own bottles."

"As I said before, the opium and morphine habit can never be cured until the appetite for them is routed out of the kidneys and liver. I tried everything, experimenting with everything and made no result of my studies and investigation, I can say I know nothing can accomplish this result but Warner's safe cure."

"Have others tried your treatment?"
"Yes, sir, many; and all who have followed it fully have recovered. Several of them who did not first treat their kidneys and liver for six or eight weeks, as I advised them, completely failed. This form of treatment is always insisted upon for all patients, whether treated by mail or at the Loveland Opium Institute, and is implemented by our special private treatment, it always cures."

Mr. Wilson stands very high wherever known. His experience is only another proof of the wonderful and conceded power of Warner's safe cure over all diseases of the kidneys, liver and blood, and the diseases caused by derangements of those organs. We may say that it is very flattering to the proprietors of Warner's safe cure that it has received the highest medical endorsement, and, after persistent study, it is admitted by scientists that there is nothing in materia medica for the restoration of those great organs that equals it in power.

We take pleasure in publishing the above statements coming from so reliable a source as Mr. Wilson and confirming by personal experience what we have time and again published in our columns. We extend to the proprietors our hearty congratulations on the result wrought.

A Testimonial to the Worth of BUDS AND BLOSSOMS.

"Buds and Blossoms," published at Halifax, N. S., is not only one of the cheapest, but also the most interesting and best publication for young people that has come under our observation. It is pure and sprightly, interesting, intelligent and instructive. It cannot fail to do good in every family which receives its monthly visit. Its short and snappy stories, its wealth of anecdote and incident, its spirited illustrations, and its interest in the lives of presenting the lives of the young, make it particularly charming to the young. And over and under and through it all, pervading the pure and loving spirit of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, and a publication in promulgating the circulation of which they will be promoting a genuine missionary work. It is just the publication that is needed to interest the young, and thus drive out unwholesome and pernicious reading. Its price—really free cents a year—is sufficiently low to bring it within the reach of everybody.—THE CHRI-STIAN AT WORK.
