

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR LATE DR. HAY

Rev. F. S. Porter, in His Sermon Yesterday, Referred to Great Loss Sustained in Dr. Hay's Death.

A memorial service for the late Dr. G. U. Hay was held in the German Street Baptist Church yesterday morning, when Rev. F. S. Porter in his sermon spoke of the many fine qualities of the deceased and the inspiration he provided. Taking his text from St. John, 14 and 2, "In My Father's House there are many mansions, I go to prepare a place for you," Rev. Porter opened his address by referring to the great loss sustained by the church in the death of Dr. G. U. Hay. For many years he took an active interest in church work and his passing, although a great loss to the church, was a loss to the community at large.

Continuing, the speaker told of the many acts of kindness, which the late Dr. Hay had carried on in an unassuming manner, and said it was gratifying to know that such a life, pregnant with force, would provide an inspiration for all.

Special music, appropriate to the occasion, was rendered by the choir.

"A" COMPANY OFFICERS ELECTED FOR YEAR

A Company 62nd Fusiliers, held their annual meeting in their rooms, Charlotte street, on Saturday evening last. Reports showing that the year had proved entirely successful were read, officers elected, and plans made for the coming season. The financial report was the statement that after all the bills had been paid, the club still had a balance of $600 on hand.

During the year the club athletes have been prominent in all the athletic meets, and many prizes both for individual and team work were won. Notable among the cups won is the McAvity Cup, which was secured as the result of the clean sweep made by the soldiers in the meet at Camp Sussex last year.

Other reports dealing with the progress of the club showed excellent results, and it is expected that a big increase in membership will be made this year. Last season the number attending drill was large, and this year the club officials are making preparations to outfit a full company.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Honorary president, Captain Malcolm McAvity; president, Rodrick McLaughlin; 1st vice-president, R. Simms; 2nd vice-president, J. M. ## A Constant Change in Body's Tissues

"Our bodies," says Huxley, "may be likened to an eddy in the river, which retains its shape for a while, though every instant each particle of water is changing."

The tissues of the body, composed of millions of tiny cells, are being constantly broken down and wasted away by the process of life, and especially by overwork, worry and disease.

In order to reconstruct these wasted tissues there are necessary such elements as iron, sulphur, magnesium, potassium, etc., and when these are not supplied in sufficient quantities in the food we eat it is necessary to aid nature by the use of some restorative preparation.

MISSIONARY CAMPAIGN IN ANGLICAN CHURCHES IN THE CITY YESTERDAY

The Bishop of Fredericton and Other Eloquent Clergymen of the Diocese, Made Appeal for Aid in Spreading the Gospel Among People of all the World.

A missionary campaign was conducted in the Anglican churches of the city yesterday when special services were held and addresses made by many of the most eloquent and forceful clergymen of the diocese. All the sermons dealt in an encouraging and interesting manner with the missionary work of the Anglican church both at home and abroad and were listened to with much appreciation by big congregations. The appeal was based on the necessity of teaching the successive hosts of immigrants, who are usually poured into Canada sound moral and political lessons, which will help them in making their way in this new world. The speaker pointed out that it was merely lack of education which led a person to disbelief in the words of the church and that it was the duty of the missionaries to sacrifice their lives in carrying on their work in foreign lands. Even as the commandment was given to the disciples to go and teach all men, so it was the duty of the missionaries to sacrifice their lives in carrying on their work in foreign lands. The speaker pointed out that it was merely lack of education which led a person to disbelief in the words of the church and that it was the duty of the missionaries to sacrifice their lives in carrying on their work in foreign lands. Even as the commandment was given to the disciples to go and teach all men, so it was the duty of the missionaries to sacrifice their lives in carrying on their work in foreign lands.

In St. James' Church.

A very strong and eloquent address on the work of the foreign missions was delivered in St. James' church yesterday morning by Bishop Richardson. The speaker took a general view of the subject, and dealt interestingly with the work in the foreign field and paid tribute to the young men and women of high ideals who are abandoning all the tangible things of this life, and venturing into the uncharted and desolate lands in order that they might lead the unchristian people near to God.

He spoke on the work itself, the support that was needed, and the most worthy object, the opinion of the people concerning the missions, the marked improvement in the work carried on during the past ten years, and the enthusiastic spirit with which the work was entered into.

Speaking of the work, Bishop Richardson outlined how the cheerful and enthusiastic missionaries left their homes, making great sacrifices and penetrating into the depths of the world, and he pointed out that the work was large, and the needs of the missions were eloquently put forth by the speaker.

The opinion of the people concerning the foreign mission movement, the speaker classified under three heads. First of all there were the people who honestly believed in the good accomplished by the ardent workers, and pledged every support possible in aid of the mission work. Secondly, there were those who were opposed to the work as carried on in the foreign field and considered it a wrong idea that good and favorable results could be accomplished by work being carried on along this line. Thirdly, there were others who believed in foreign mission work and wished every success to the enthusiastic and self-sacrificing missionaries and yet their lack of interest and sheer indifference excluded them from taking any active part or placing any support to this important branch of church work.

Bishop Richardson pointed out that this lack of interest made it difficult for the church to properly carry on the work. Recently, however, the people have shown signs of being warmed to a greater pitch of enthusiasm and have good results been accomplished. Two of the chief reasons for this increased expenditure in the missionary work the speaker attributed to

A. Armstrong, therefore, occupied the pulpit and preached an interesting sermon, dealing with the work of the missionaries at home and abroad, and referring especially to the growing importance of home missionary effort in view of the influx of many people from different parts of the world into this country. He made a strong appeal for support for the cause of missions.

In St. John's Church.

Canon Smithers was the speaker in St. John's (Stone Church) in the morning. He took his text from Acts 1 and 8, and dealt in a forcible and comprehensive manner with diocesan missions.

Taking up the work done in connection with the aided missions, Canon Smithers spoke in an encouraging manner, but pointed out that while the aided missions were making of excellent headway, they needed much assistance. The speaker, when dealing with this phase of the church work, made a strong appeal for missionary support, which he felt would do much toward carrying out the plans of the church.

When speaking of the financial conditions he said that the missions were successfully coping with the difficulty. Vacant missions formed an interesting part of the address, and when telling of the difficulties under which they labor, Canon Smithers stated that they were served by the canon missionary in the winter, while in the summer the pulpits were filled by student missionaries.

In the evening service in St. John (Stone) church, Rev. R. A. Robinson of Dorchester, N. B., was the speaker. Rev. Mr. Robinson took his text from the character of the immigrants pouring into Canada and with the work of converting them to Christianity.

In St. Jude's Church.

In St. Jude's church yesterday morning Rev. R. A. Armstrong made mention of the high and self-sacrificing principles which permeated the lives of the true workers of the church who lay aside their own aims and ambitions and devoted themselves to the work of the heathen and pagan people to work for their salvation.

Although the work in the foreign fields was being carried on successfully, the speaker pointed out that it was necessary that more of our young men give up their time to it.

Rev. Canon Cowie addressed the congregation in St. Jude's last evening on foreign mission work.

In St. Luke's Church.

Rev. R. A. Robinson was the speaker in St. Luke's church yesterday morning when taking his text from Numbers, 32-4 and 23, he delivered an inspiring address on the need of missionary effort in Western Canada.

In opening, Rev. Mr. Robinson compared this country with the ancient Canaan, and told of the two tribes who wished to settle down in defiance to the orders of Moses, who desired that they should first conquer the land. Following this, the speaker pointed out that it was the duty of Eastern Canada to see Christianity thoroughly established in the west, and in the near future, said the speaker, the continual hosts of immigrants rolling into Western Canada will, according to the speaker, be a great help in the work of the church.

The temperance meeting, in the Seamen's Institute, was addressed by C. F. McTavish. On Sunday evening the Rev. W. Gaetz conducted the service and gave a most helpful address.

In St. George's Church.

In St. George's church the preacher at the morning service was Rev. R. P. McKim, pastor of St. Luke's church. In an eloquent sermon Rev. Mr. McKim told of the excellent work which the Church of England missionaries are doing in the different parts of the world, and exhorted his hearers to join forces in helping along this cause.

His Lordship Bishop Richardson at the evening service occupied the pulpit and advocated co-operation of the faithful with the church in helping the Church's interest in the mission fields, whether at home or abroad. There is a wonderful opportunity for evangelization work, and while the achievements in the mission fields have been gratifying thus far, the members of the church can further the cause of their generous aid, not only material but spiritually, and by taking a profound interest in the endeavors of the church to bring others to a belief in the faith.

In St. Mary's Church.

At St. Mary's church Mr. Leatherbarrow, the Church Camp Missionary, occupied the pulpit in the evening and gave an instructive account of his work in various parts of Canada among the navies of the transcontinental railway and the laborers of the lumber camps. He referred at some length to the conditions under which the railway construction gangs have to live, and emphasized the need of missionary effort among them. He also described the situation in the big lumber camps in the winter, and the conditions which surround the men removed from the influences of home.

At the morning service of St. Mary's the rector, Rev. Archdeacon Raymond, preached on the work of the mission-aries, and the urgent need of funds to carry on the work of winning the world for Christ. He told a number of stories illustrating the character of the men who went forth into foreign lands to carry the message of the Gospel, and dealt with the trying nature of their work.

There were large congregations at both services.

In Trinity.

In Trinity church yesterday morning the preacher was Rev. Canon Neales of Sussex, who spoke to a large congregation on the growing demands of the missionary work in both the home and foreign fields and emphasized the need of greater liberality on the part of the followers of Christ in favored localities. He referred to the importance and wealth of the congregation of Trinity, and thought they might do more to help spread the kingdom of the Master.

It was expected that the Bishop of Nova Scotia would be present to preach at the service in Trinity in the evening, but he was indisposed and unable to attend. The rector, Rev. R.

ly probable that the east will suffer accordingly.

In closing, Rev. Mr. Robinson, who served for eight years in the west, told of some of his personal experiences and of the difficulties which daily beset the path of the minister. He, however, was of the opinion that the work was advancing rapidly and much progress was being made.

At the evening service, Rev. G. F. Scovill of St. Jude's was the speaker and delivered an impressive and interesting address on the British immigrant.

In St. John Baptist Church, in the St. John Baptist Church, Paradise Row, yesterday morning, the pulpit was occupied by Rev. Canon Cowie of Fredericton, who preached an able sermon on Foreign Missions. He told of the great work that was being done among the heathens, and of the large amount of missionary work yet to be done. Missionaries were reporting great progress in all the foreign lands but they needed more assistance.

Canon Smithers addressed the congregation at the evening service when he spoke in an eloquent and forcible manner on Diocesan Missions, telling of the work done and in preparation. His address was listened to with deep interest and the appeal for assistance was ably supported.

In Fairville.

Rev. G. F. Scovill occupied the pulpit in the Church of the Good Shepherd, Fairville, yesterday morning and preached an eloquent sermon on missions, speaking at length on the manner in which immigrants are assisted who arrive in Canada. At Liverpool before the settlers leave their homes, he said, they are taken in hand by a Church of England chaplain who makes arrangements for their comfort on their arrival here and they are met by the church representatives who assist them and supply them with letters of introduction to the Church of England clergy at the place to which they are en route, and the clergyman at such a place is notified of the arrival of the immigrants, and seventy per cent of the people who are arriving on the steamships are of the Church of England, and a great amount of work is being done in helping them all.

Rev. G. A. Kuhring occupied the pulpit at the evening service and spoke on foreign missions and told of the work being accomplished by the missionaries in China, Japan, India, Turkey and other foreign fields.

At Millidgeville last evening J. A. Coster spoke on the subject of foreign missions, pointing out that a large portion of the people of the earth were still outside the Christian fold, and that it was incumbent upon those who had the great privilege of living in a Christian country to give liberally to the work of carrying the message of Christ to the benighted of all lands.

He referred in feeling terms to the work of some of the great missionaries who had left their homes and a life of comparative ease to brave the dangers and tribulations of life among the heathen, and observed that it was little enough for those who stopped at home and gave themselves up to business pursuits to give a little of their surplus wealth to assist the work of the devoted evangelists of the light of Christianity.
