

BETWEEN SEVEN AND EIGHT HUNDRED MEN NOW UNDER CANVAS AT CAMP SUSSEX

Men of 55th arrived in camp yesterday — Advance party had things in good shape and grounds in good condition.

Special to The Standard.

Sussex, N. B., May 10.—Special trains brought the men of the 55th Battalion to Sussex today and tonight between seven and eight hundred are comfortably housed under canvas on the military camp grounds. The detachment from Fredericton, Woodstock, St. Stephen and St. John arrived at about 2.45 o'clock and were met at the railway depot by the Citizens' Band, who played them to the camp grounds, a large number of citizens were at the depot and on the line of march to greet the boys who have placed their names on the honor roll to aid the Empire and leave the home country. The contingent from Moncton, Sackville and P. E. I. arrived at 3.30 and unloaded at the military camp grounds siding.

The advance party had everything in readiness for the reception of the troops, lines being established, cook houses erected and tents pitched. The tents which will accommodate ten men have new floors and will be warm and comfortable. The camp grounds, notwithstanding the recent wet weather, are in good condition and the men will begin active training tomorrow. The men on the line of march presented a fine appearance and their splendid physique was the cause of much favorable comment.

All have arrived who were scheduled to come, except the Charlottetown brigade, who arrive Wednesday. The Engineers' Department had the water supply connected, the quartermaster all canvas up. Major Jones was to day's field officer, with Lieut. Rauls orderly officer. Tomorrow, Tuesday, Major Donald will be field officer, Lieut. Major orderly officer.

The first guard mount tonight was Sergt. Devine of 4th Regt. with Corporal Lynch and six privates of 71st. Bandmaster James Cameron, a South African veteran, with the Sussex Band played the detachments from the station to the camp.

The first troops to arrive were those from St. John, a special trainload marching to the camp with Major Weyman in the lead. The St. John company being announced as D Co. Private W. R. Kingston of Carleton, for the first two months orderly clerk till Orderly Sergt. Leaman arrived in St. John, is promoted to acting sergt. attached to headquarters in tonight's orders. Sergt. Willes, caretaker of the armory here, has rendered invaluable help to headquarters in establishing the camp. Chaplain Thomas arrived from St. John tonight. Surgeon Capt. Gardiner establishes an eighteen bed hospital tomorrow, Tuesday morning. The officers and sergeants' mess are opened and operating. Sergt. Major Ford and Quartermaster Sergt. Richardson have been exceedingly busy as the results show. The grounds are in quite good shape, the sod being fairly firm and soon will be dried out.

Col. Kirkpatrick and Adjutant Wetmore came on the St. John special. Mail for St. John men is to be addressed to D Company, 55th Batt., Sussex. All the senior officers are here.

Five Unsuccessful Attacks Were Repulsed

London, May 10.—Field Marshal Sir John French, commander-in-chief of the British forces on the continent, reports no change in the general situation today.

"Our line to the east of Ypres, in spite of repeated attacks by the enemy during last week, is substantially the same as that to which we withdrew on the night of May 3-4," he says in his report to the War Office.

"During the fighting in this quarter yesterday the enemy made five unsuccessful attacks, and his losses in these failures were very heavy. On the front of the first army the fighting today has been confined to artillery action."

The total number of applications received by the Labor Exchanges throughout England in response to the appeal for women to undertake war work is 20,723 for the eight days ended March 26. Since that date a large number of applications have come to hand, totaling probably 3,000. Of the 20,723, no fewer than 7,518 applications came from London district alone. To this should be added the total for the southeastern district—1,171. A large number of applications are from middle-class and well-to-do women, many of whom have expressed a desire to do armament work.

LIBERALS HURT THEIR CAUSE

Poor tactics of Opposition acted as boomerang—An election would be larger majority for Government

Glarence Jameson, M. P., for Digby, arrived in the city yesterday from Ottawa. He said the session of the House of Commons had been very successful from a business point of view in spite of the tactics of the Liberal opposition. The opposition had in many ways tried to retard the business of the house. They had tried criticism and opposition to the tariff regulations and had tried to create a scandal connected with the supplying of shoes to the Canadian soldiers. All these efforts had utterly failed against the Government and had come back on the Liberals themselves and shown that their criticism was not sincere.

Mr. Jameson said he knew nothing of an election but should appeal to the people by necessary he believed that the Conservatives would go back with a greater majority than before.

OFFICIAL REPORTS

RUSSIA

Petrograd, via London, May 10.—The following official statement from the headquarters of the army of the Caucasus was issued today:

"In the direction of Olti our troops have dislodged the Turks from their positions and have driven them back to the southwest. In their hurried retreat the Turks abandoned a large quantity of tents and munitions."

"In the direction of Tabris the Turks have been driven from the south pass and we occupied the villages there."

FRANCE

Paris, May 10.—The following official communication was issued by the War Office tonight:

"To the north of Arras, in spite of several German counter-attacks we have maintained all our gains of yesterday, and we have enlarged it at certain points, notably between Carency and Saucourt."

"Our success is developing. The total number of prisoners at three o'clock today exceeded 2,000. Among these were about 40 officers, including a colonel."

"We have captured, in the last two days, more than ten cannon and 50 machine guns."

"At Berry-au-Bac a German attack has been repulsed, as well as one in the forest of Le Pretre."

GERMANY

Berlin, May 10, via London.—At the German War Office today the following statement was given out:

"Western theatre of war:

"We made progress on the coast in the Dunes, in the direction of Nieuport, taking several of the enemy's trenches and machine guns. A counter-attack by the enemy during last night advanced as far as Lombardstede, but was completely driven back."

"In Flanders we also gained more ground. We took 162 British prisoners at Verlehenhoek. Southwest of Lille a great Anglo-French attack, anticipated as a reply to our successes in Galicia, was begun and directed itself against the position situated to the east of Fleurbaix, to the east of Richebourg, to the east of Vermeles, and at Ablain, Cereby, Neuville and St. Laurent, near Arras. The enemy, French, as well as white and colored British, brought at least four new army corps into the fight, besides the force which had been employed in this line for some time past. Nevertheless repeated attacks have been nearly everywhere repulsed, with heavy losses for our opponents. This is especially so in the case of the British attack. About 500 prisoners have been taken."

"Only in the region between Carency and Neuville did our opponents succeed in penetrating and establishing themselves in our foremost line trenches."

"A counter-attack is now proceeding."

"South of Stainbroek, in the Valley of the Ficht, the enemy, who had settled himself during a thick fog immediately in front of our position, was driven back by a counter-attack and his trenches were destroyed."

"One of our airships, bombarded the fortified town of Southend, to the south of the Thames, this morning with a few bombs."

"Eastern theatre of war:

"Notwithstanding all attacks of the enemy for the purpose of delaying our pursuit, by means of fresh forces brought up hastily by rail and by foot marches, the Allied troops forming the army under Gen. Von Mackensen yesterday drove back its opponents from position after position, and took more than 12,000 prisoners and much war material."

"The number of prisoners captured by this part of our army alone since May 2 is thereby increased to more than 80,000."

LUSITANIA'S CAPTAIN HAD WARNING OF DANGER AHEAD, SAYS WINSTON CHURCHILL

Important Statement by Admiralty First Lord.

GOVERNMENT KNEW ABOUT SUBMARINES

Despite this one awful case, British sea trade has suffered but very little from enemy's ships.

London, May 10.—The First Lord of the Admiralty, Winston Churchill, stated in the House of Commons this afternoon that Captain Turner, of the Lusitania, had acknowledged receipt of messages from the Admiralty giving him warning and directions for the course he was to take.

"The Admiralty had general knowledge of the German submarine movements it sent warnings to the Lusitania and directions as to her course. I think, however, it is not right to go into that matter in detail, as it is going to be a subject of inquiry, and it might appear that I was endeavoring to throw blame on the captain of the Lusitania in a matter which will be a subject of full investigation."

Continuing, Mr. Churchill said this investigation would be conducted by Lord Mersey, assisted by skilled assessors, and that it would be opened without avoidable delay. Mr. Churchill's remarks were drawn by questions from Lord Charles Beresford and others asking for details as to what she was torpedoed; whether there was a patrol boat in that locality; whether all points where vessels arrive and depart are now adequately patrolled; what provisions were made in the case of the Lusitania in view of the warning issued in America; whether Mr. Churchill was aware that previously to last Friday German submarines had for some time been actively at work on the south coast of Ireland; whether he was aware that the Admiralty had provided torpedo boat destroyers and other naval vessels to meet on the south coast of Ireland steamers carrying horses from the United States on government account to convey them to Liverpool, and finally, what arrangements, if any, were made to convey and protect the Lusitania.

Mr. Churchill, replying to further

"Our advance guards have approached a branch of the Stobnica and have reached the Brzdzanka and also the lower Wisloka. The pursuit continues."

AUSTRIA

Press headquarters of the Austrian army, Western Galicia, May 10, via London.—The first stage of the battle of West Galicia has been virtually concluded. The victorious troops under the leadership of the German Gen. Von Mackensen, after successfully breaking through all three fortified lines of the Russian front, are assembling and re-forming for a new offensive. They are bringing forward supplies left behind in their rapid advance and also are using the interval to gather the captured Russians behind their present front and also the abandoned guns and other spoils of war in the mountain forests.

Seventy thousand prisoners already have been brought in. The number of prisoners in this part of the battle in Galicia will be increased, it is estimated here, by thirty thousand. Between sixty and seventy guns have been captured, but as was the case in the battle of the Mazurian Lakes in February, it is believed it is only a small part of the guns left behind in concealed places.

An English naval writer discussing the suggestion that merchant vessels should be armed against submarines, says: "There is this to be said about such a proposal, that since the waters in which submarines are to be met with at present are limited in area, these guns, if placed on board vessels going foreign, would for some time be locked up and useless. The number of guns required is also against the feasibility of this plan, and in addition these guns would require trained men to use them. A system of convoy by armed vessels has been put forward as an alternative to arming the ships themselves. But shipowners, not unnaturally, have shown themselves opposed to any system of convoy, and it is by no means certain that a sufficient number of armed vessels could be allotted for the purpose. In the Admiralty statement of losses the number of ships arriving at or leaving the ports of the United Kingdom every week is given as about 1,500. It is not easy to see how any system of convoy could be arranged for this number of ships, without interfering very considerably with the freedom of trade. It may be pointed out, however, that every ship carries a weapon of offence in her stern."

questions, spoke as follows: "The shocking exception of the Lusitania should not divert the attention of the House of Commons and the country from the fact that Great Britain's entire seaport trade has been carried on without appreciable loss. The general principle regarding the providing of an escort is that merchant traffic must look after itself, subject to the general arrangements of the Admiralty, and there is no reason to suppose that this principle is not entirely successful."

Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the opposition in the House, asked if any answer had been received from the captain of the Lusitania showing that the Admiralty instructions to the liner had come to his hand.

Mr. Churchill replied that both messages had been acknowledged. The second acknowledgement came a very short time before the attack was made. Lord Charles Beresford then asked if Premier Asquith had received his letter of April 15, warning him of the peril that had met the Lusitania, and whether this warning had gone unheeded.

Mr. Churchill answered that Premier Asquith had handed him Lord Beresford's letter, and that it had been carefully studied at the Admiralty. So far from being unheeded, a great many of the measures recommended already had been adopted on the largest possible scale.

Asked if the German submarine which sank the Lusitania was of a larger type than anything known prior to April 14, Mr. Churchill replied:

"I have no knowledge of the size or number of this submarine." Questioned regarding a letter sent to the Admiralty ten days ago, giving information concerning the supposed type of this submarine, Mr. Churchill said the information contained in this communication was wholly untrue, and that the facts which had given rise to the supposition were known to the Admiralty.

"How Are We To Know When The Kidneys Are Out Of Order?"

EASIEST THING IN THE WORLD!

The location of the kidneys, close to the small of the back, renders the detection of kidney trouble a simple matter. The note of warning comes from the back. The kidneys become overtaxed and fail to do their work at nature's call. Backache is the signal sent out by the kidneys the minute they become overtaxed. Those who heed the warning when it first comes, usually have but little trouble.
