(or I'll kiss you on the cheek.)

You may think that I'm "Cramming for an exam"

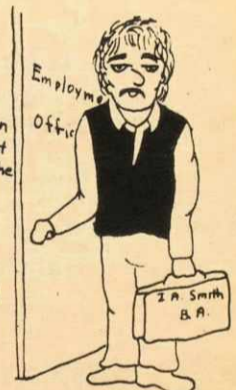

In reality I'm committing to memory choice gems of knowledge which will no doubt serve both me and society in good stead in later years.

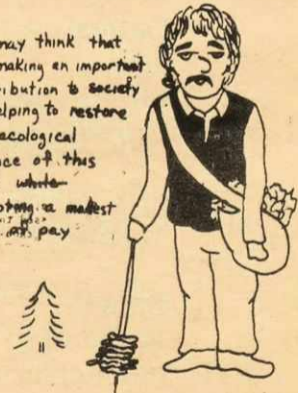

You probably think that I'm "Looking for a job"

Actually I'm casting around for the position which will most fully utilize the knowledge and skills I have accumulated which will be both useful to society and fulfilling to myself

You may think that I'm making an important contribution to society by helping to restore the ecological balance of this park while accepting a modest rate of pay

In reality I'm collecting garbage at the minimum wage
