

RUSHING A GUN TO THE FIRING LINE.

With the Royal Horse Artillery in Flanders. Always the guns follow closely in the wake of an infantry advance to break up counter attacks and speed the fleeing Germans on their way.