The imulsive generosity which prompted her to leap into the water and there face the battle of life and death for a friend, gives the keynote to her character. No calculations prompt-ed by selfishness delayed her action; without a moment's hesitation the esolution was made and acted upon, and the most heroic act of which human nature is capable was performed by this young girl for "greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his life for his friend." The sad occurrence took place on Thursday last and on Safurday at 7 a.m. the loved remains were brought to the city by the bereaved parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D.
