fully, there is no half-way house till we come to the faith that there is no human deed that has not in it some spark from the eternal flame, that every human being has a distinctive glory, that everybody is a temple of the Holy Spirit, and that every life must go on forever, and that forever, if need be, God must love and seek to win every lost soul into which He has breathed the breath of life.

Parliament and Patronage

one member in ten—and I will be one of them—who will understand what the bill means when we get through. A committee should be appointed to deal with it, such as the committee dealing with pensions, which would investigate the matter fully and report during the next session, by which time we will have the report of the Civil Service Commission. The House would then be in a position to deal with it to the satisfaction of both the civil service and the country."

Many more remarks by members could be quoted to show that civil service reform was not quite as popular in the House as the government had been lead to believe. During the course of the discussion a western minister was heard to remark: "During the course of the campaign I emphasized the desirability of civil service reform and, judging from the reception given to my remarks by all audiences, I thought everybody was in favor of it, but it appears to have many enemies in parliament."

A Political Hell on Earth

This remark was probably a slight exaggeration of the situation, for while the bill had both covert and open enemies its friends were legion. The most striking speech in favor of the measure probably was one by Dr. Chabot, of Ottawa, where the patronage evil is intensified one hundred fold. "I think," he said, "at all times political patronage has been opposed to the best interests of the civil service and has to a large extent contributed to the defeat of many governments in this country. After 1911, political patronage was thrust upon me with a vengeance, and my life in Ottawa from 1911 to 1917 was a regular political hell on earth. If this bill abolishes political patronage, which I consider at all times an unsatisfactory and unfair method of making appointments it will remove a grievance and the people of this country will be thankful and satisfied. A huge load has been taken off my shoulders, and I feel that my life has become worth living. If this legislation abolishes patronage, it will render the civil service more effective and efficient, and it will render to the people of this country a very valuable service."

A Lemon for the Politicians

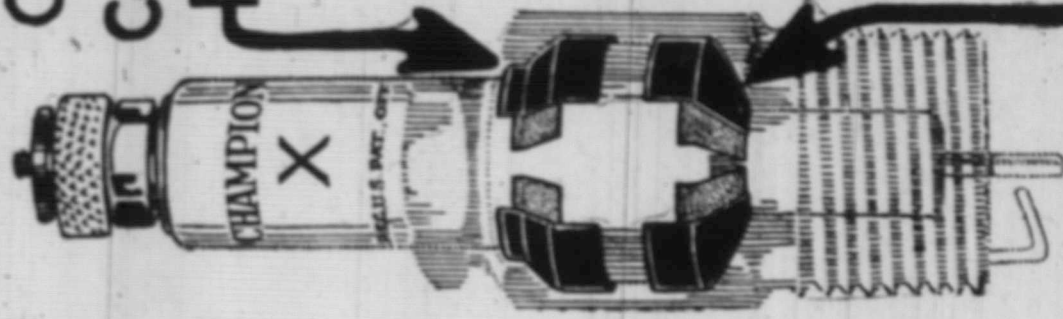

Arguments of this kind, coupled with a desire on the part of the majority of the members on both sides of the House to give the measure a fair trial, ensured the final passage of the measure. A promise on the part of the government that, if it failed to work smoothly and satisfactorily during the next seven or eight months, amending legislation would be introduced at the next session, placated the discontents, and the bill finally became law. Within the past ten days a new postmaster for the city of Toronto has been named by the Civil Service Commission without the advice of the politicians. The appointment went to Assistant Postmaster Lemon, a name which is suggestive of what the new law will hand to members who still desire to cling to the old system of political patronage. It was the first important appointment made under the provisions of the new act. May there be many more of the same kind.

A businesslike man stopped briskly into the butcher's shop. "Give me a piece of beef for roasting," he ordered. The beef, mostly bone, was tossed upon the scales.

"But, look here," remonstrated the customer, "you are giving me a piece of bone."

"Oh, no, I ain't," remarked the butcher with a grin. "I ain't a giving it to you. Yer a-payin' me for it."

Champion Asbestos Lined Copper Gaskets Mean Dependability

They are an exclusive patented feature of all Champion plugs. They insure dependable service under any condition of driving. They take out of the ordinary class and make them super-service plugs. They prevent any part of the porcelain from coming in contact with the hard steel shell.

The asbestos lining in the soft copper gasket rings form a cushion on each shoulder of the porcelain that absorbs the continuous, invisible blows of gas explosions in the motor cylinder and at the same time takes up the expansion caused by excessive heat.

There is a Champion for every make of engine, and the name "Champion" on the porcelain guarantees "Absolute satisfaction to the user or free repairs or replacement will be made."

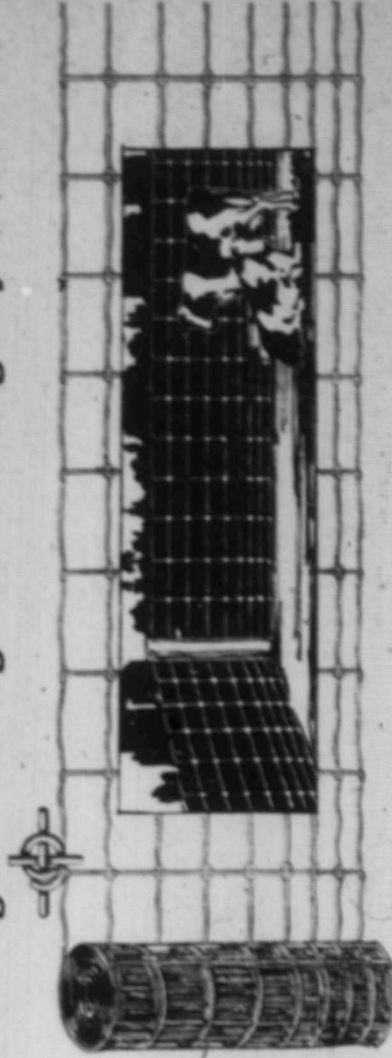

Ask any dealer for the Champion that will maintain maximum efficiency in your car.
