Supplement to The Saturday Planet

CHATHAM, ONT., SATURDAY DECEMBER 28, 1907

VOL. IV

THE PLANET JUNIOR
SATURDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1907.

A Happy New Year, Juniors, and we hope we may hear from a great many of you throughout the coming year.

Ole Bull, about whom we have printed a little anecdote, told Mr. Angell, the editor of "Our Dumb Animals," that he was one of the greatest violinists in the world has ever known. He died in 1880.

The news we publish from S. S. No. 2, Harwich, did not reach us until Saturday, too late for our last edition.

DRAUGHTS

The following is the solution to Problem No. 9—Local Series — By W. K. Morris.

White to move and win.

To you there's something I would give,
And yet you cannot take it.
I drop it gladly at your feet;
I'm sure I cannot break it;
Yet deference must wait it.

IV.

I live in the forest; so timid am I that I run very swiftly when people say I'm sometimes made of iron or wood.
The ladies they brush me, the gentlemen cut me,
I'm sometimes heavy and often hard to see;
Of cedar, I'm var'd, some red, white or gold;
If you don't guess me now you'll have to be told.

V.

I am found in every room, and yet more fitting,
The merry sleigh-bells are once more ringing.
Margaret Lovess has a very pretty Christmas drawing on the board.
The boys and girls at this school wish you all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

S. S. NO. 2 HARWICH

Carrie McCormick took first prize for the Christmas drawings. Nellie Biggart took first prize in December Calendars two months in succession.

Gertrude Smyth is on the sick list this week.

Mr. Justice Barker is back from the West.

Margaret Lovess has a very pretty Christmas drawing on the board. The boys and girls at this school wish you all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

N. R. BOYCE, Teacher.

The little New Year was born last night. The twinkling stars so bright; He floated down on a beam of light— But no one saw the beautiful sight— And landed upon a bed of snow,

Where else, tallest, greenest cedar grew;

When you and I can never go,

With our eyes on the promise that's dead;

In the dreams that are living ahead;

No, we give up. Never give up,

Never give up.

HER ANSWER.

By Elizabeth L. Gould.

"My kitty tries to tell the truth."

"But she comes near forgetting it three times this very day."

"Who made your basketbed?"

"And just as plain as plain could be, 'Me-yow!'" said kitty said.

"I shake my finger at her, 'Now, you're not to tell the truth,'

"With narrow ruffles running round!"

"I asked her, 'Tell me, kitty dear, who's been scratched like every-thing?'

"And split at, too, beside!"

"I asked, and I was 'astonished' when 'Me-yow!' that kitty said."

"I shake my finger at her, 'Now, you're not to tell the truth,'

"With narrow ruffles running round!"

"I asked her, 'Tell me, kitty dear, who's been scratched like every-thing?'

"And split at, too, beside!"

"I asked, and I was 'astonished' when 'Me-yow!' that kitty cried!"

"I shake my finger at her, 'Now, you're not to tell the truth,'

"With narrow ruffles running round!"
