"Alone With God."

Alone with God! from earth's rude crowd,

With jostling steps, with laughter loud.

Alone with God! He only knows

Alone with God! He mercy lends;

Alone with God! He feeleth well

The soul's pent life that will o'erwell.

Alone with God! still nearer bend;

O, tender Father, condescend,

Upon thy pitying breast I lean

With thy celestial promises,

Alone with God! Oh, sweet to me

This covert to whose shade I flee.

To breathe repose in thee, in thee.

Old and Young.

They soon grow old who grope for gold

Who live for self and on some shelf

For them their youth itself is old.

Where suns arise in joyous skies.

For them old age itself is young!

And fill the soul within their eyes.

Cankered and crusted o'er with mold.

They ne'er grow old who gather gold

II.

Where Spring awakes and flowers unfold;

For them the immortal bards have sung:

C. P. Cranch; Scribner for August.

Not less because thou art not seen.

In this my need, to be my friend.

The life-long want no words can tell!

Alone with God! with suppliant micn

Life's fainting hope, life's meagre ends,

Life's dwarfing pains, He comprehends.

It sorrow's ocean overflows
