

found his body. We afterwards returned to our tent, where we stopped that night, and on the following morning we left for the Island, where my mother and Ephraim's wife live. We arrived at the Island on the following Friday, and on the next day (Saturday) we came to Nain and Ephraim then told one of the Missionaries, Mr. Kahl, that Philipus accidentally shot himself while out deer hunting. We returned the same evening to the Island and remained there until Mr. Bourquin, Mr. Wuth, Mr. Ford and some Eskimos came. I was present when Mr. Bourquin asked Ephraim how Philipus met his death. Ephraim told the same story he told at Nain. I said in Ephraim's presence that he told me when he returned alone on the day they went out deer hunting that he had shot Philipus. Ephraim denied telling me. I told my mother and Ephraim's wife that Ephraim told me he had shot Philipus. Ephraim was bound and brought to Nain. I accompanied the party to Nain. On the following day we went in a boat up the Bay to where the tent was, where we stopped for the night. On the following morning we went in the direction where the body was. I led the way. We first found the gun where I pointed out that it had been hid by Ephraim. We then went up the hill further and I pointed out where the body was. The body was then examined by the Missionaries, Mr. Ford and the Eskimos who accompanied us. The body was then buried in a coffin and we returned back to Nain that night.

The witness was then cross-examined at considerable length by Mr. Boone, when she admitted having been guilty of criminal intercourse with the prisoner from the day of Philipus's death until they landed at the Island, where her mother and Ephraim's wife resided. She stated that she had consented to his wishes through fear, as she was alone with him in the tent; but denied having any criminal intercourse with him previous to Philipus's death.

John Henry Theodore Bourquin—Examined by Mr. Kent Q.C.—I am the Superintendent of the Moravian Missionaries on the coast of Labrador, I am residing there for the past eighteen years. I know the prisoner at the bar. He resided at Nain. I knew Philipus very well. He was a son of the prisoners second wife. She was 24 years older than Ephraim. She was married before, I was absent from Nain and had reported that while out shooting with Philipus he (Philipus) accidentally shot himself. I went to the Island where Ephraim was. I was accompanied by some missionaries, Mr. Ford and some Eskimos. We found Ephraim near the shore. I asked him how Philipus was shot. He told me what he had said at Nain. He said Philipus, Nancy and himself were walking together and he heard a shot; he turned round and saw Philipus fall. The other missionaries, Mr. Ford and the Eskimos were present and heard what Ephraim said. Nancy was also present. We asked Nancy if what Ephraim said was correct. She said no, that it was not correct. She said that she was not out at all that day. We asked Ephraim to go with us to the place where the dead body was; he refused and said he would not go. We then bound him and told him that if he would not go willingly we would have to take him by force. We took him that evening to Nain. In the morning a boat was prepared to go to the place where Philipus was shot. Mr. Wuth, another missionary, accompanied us. William Ford, Nancy and her boy, with some Eskimos, also accompanied us. It was near evening when we reached Ujarasukjuluk, about fifteen miles from Nain. It was about an hour and a half's walk from Ujarasukjuluk to where the body was found. Before starting from this place Ephraim made a voluntary statement. In the morning I was called by Mr. Ford, who stated that Ephraim wished to speak to me. I went to him and took Mr. Wuth, Mr. Ford and the Eskimo Abraham with me. He was in the tent. He informed me that hitherto he had not been telling the whole truth, but now he wished to tell the whole truth. He said that on the day he went out fishing with Philipus, Nancy was not with them, and that in the course of the day Philipus and himself got quarrelling on account of Nancy. He also said something about bear skins, but I did not understand him fully then. He said whilst they were quarrelling Philipus took his own gun, and when Ephraim saw Philipus take the gun he took hold of his gun too, and in fighting he pushed Philipus down and shot Philipus with his own gun through the neck. He spoke of his feelings, and said he was very sorry about it. When we started from Ujarasukjuluk he was then quite willing to accompany us. We started in the morning about 8 o'clock; it was raining at the time. Lucus, an Eskimo, found the gun. The gun was not loaded; there was a broken cap on it. We then went up the hill and the spot where the dead body lay was pointed out. There were spots of blood on the moss. The body was under a fallen tree and covered with sticks and sods, it was also wrapped in a deer skin. We took the body out, which was well preserved, as the weather was cold. After uncovering the body, I saw a wound in the back of the neck and under one of his jaws. The wound was not large. There was a good deal of blood on his breast. I saw no other wounds. He had his cuffs on. We then went to Nain and we bound Ephraim. I went with Ephraim to Turnayiek and we gave him in charge to Mr Bartlett who had his steamer there.

Holloway's Pills.—Weak Stomach.—The wisest cannot enumerate one quarter of the distressing symptoms arising from enfeebled digestion, all of which might be readily dispelled by these admirable Pills. They remove all unpleasant tastes from the mouth, flatulency and constipation. Holloway's Pills rouse the stomach, liver, and every other organ, helping digestion to that healthy tone which fully enables it to convert all we eat and drink to the nourishment of our bodies. Hence these Pills are the surest strengtheners and the safest restoratives in nervousness, wasting and chronic debility. Holloway's Pills are infallible remedies for impaired appetite eruptions, and a multitude of other disagreeable symptoms, which render miserable the lives of thousands. These Pills are approved by all classes.

We take the following editorial item from the 'Newfoundlander' of Tuesday:—

The beginning of the work of the Railway will be made this morning. Ground will be broken near Mr. John Dwyer's farm, in the rear of Belvidere, with a party of fifty men, to be followed up as soon as the necessary arrangements can be made for the employment of other squads. The route known as the Freshwater valley line has been selected to lead the road into the town, and the terminus will be at or near Fort William. Operations will be pushed with energy, and no doubt several miles of rails will be laid before the close of the season. A quantity of rails are to be shipped from England very shortly, and altogether we believe the friends of the railway will be perfectly satisfied with the manner in which the undertaking is likely to proceed.

To the Editor of the Carbonear Herald.
Carbonear, August 13th, 1881.
Dear Sir,—

I must really ask you space just to express a little pity for, and to give a little advice to your correspondent Non timet. Poor fellow, I am sorry for him. It was so nice to think that he was the Eagle and able with one sweep of his plian to knock the life out of the 'small Hawk.' It was so humiliating to find, and by sad experience; that, with all his Latin, he was but, after all, a poor goose and unable to take care of himself. He has evidently been hit hard. His feathers are quite ruffled, so much so that he cannot hiss his elegia, which is evident to all. Well, I repeat, I am sorry for him; sorry that he should have over-estimated his own importance, his own capabilities, sorry that he should have so underrated the Hawks powers and the Hawks forbearance. It was a small Hawk but he had wonderful claws. The noise is plain. It is not exactly 'let sleeping dogs alone,' but, it is 'let a hawk be a hawk.'
Non timet has written a letter. His letter has, by certain young gentlemen in town, (true, they must have been very young) been taken, or rather mis-taken for the work of a learned gentleman—Let this be his consolation after all the rough usage the Hawk has given him, and he will doubtless find further source of comfort from the consideration, that, if a small Hawk could ruffle his feathers as they are (evidently) ruffled, what would not a big Hawk have done to his feathers and temper?

I am, Sir,
Yours, &c.,
PRO BONO PUBLICO.

P.S.—I take exception to Mr. Non timet's assumption that to write intelligibly it is necessary to write incorrectly. I allude to that portion of his letter in which he says—'I knew that the should be expression was perfectly incorrect, but let it go, there by expressing myself as intelligibly as possible.' Oh, Non timet those gentlemen must indeed have been young to have supposed for one moment in the face of this, that you could have had any help from a learned gentleman. Non timet was quite right in saying that Pro Bono would have a fine chance now for corrections, but, Sir, your space is too valuable for further notice of his errors which are quite sufficiently numerous to afford undoubted evidence of the truth of his statement, that he 'received no assistance whatever from any individuals'.

'Himself ought to be whipped for them.'

To the Editor Carbonear Herald.
Carbonear, Aug 17.

Dear Sir,—
At about 9 p.m., 16th inst., the quiet little town of Carbonear became a little alarming, caused by a crowd of fisherman, bankers, to the number of between thirty and forty, that assembled about the locality of the Public Wharf. From the talk which I overheard they were in league to defy the Police and take the streets to themselves. Shortly after the police appeared on the scene, and ordered them to disperse which they did not do. Considering the number of the Police-Force they behaved well, enforcing their orders with determination that in about twenty minutes they cleared the streets of the disturbers, the sergeant with his men ordering every man on board, for a time the Billies went pretty freely, about 10 p.m. all was quiet.—Com.

CRICKET.

On Monday last, at half past two o'clock, a match was played between the Avalon Cricket Club of Harbor Grace, and the Union Cricket Club of this town. The day was anything but suitable for the occasion, owing to the heavy rain the night previous which made the ground very soft and slippery; and to make the matter worse a heavy mist continued throughout the game. The toss was won by the Union who sent the Avalon to bat. After some three hours and a half play the game terminated in an easy victory for the Union, they having beaten them two and six wickets to go down.

The American schooner E. S. Foster arrived at St. John's on Tuesday morning in a damaged condition, caused by collision with the French schooner Printemps. We (Telegram) are indebted to James R. Knight, Esq., to whom the latter vessel was consigned on her last trip here, for the following particulars: 'The Printemps sailed from this port on Sunday morning, bound to Grand Bank: At 10 p.m., when about seventy five miles South-east of Cape Spear, and during a dense fog, the crew of the Printemps suddenly perceived a light close alongside. They at once shouted at the top of their voices with the hope of attracting the attention of those on board the approaching schooner in time to avert a collision; but in this they were unsuccessful, or else the warning was given too late. At a moment the E. S. Foster crashed into the Printemps, striking her amidships and cutting her almost in two. The crew of the latter schooner saved nothing. They barely had time to scramble on board the American vessel. It appears that not more than five minutes elapsed between the appearance of the E. S. Foster's light and the disappearance of the ill-fated Printemps. During the collision two of the French schooner's crew—Joseph Devaize and Dominique Tettecher—were so badly injured as to make it necessary to place them under the treatment of the doctor attached to the frigate Clorinde. The whole crew are being cared for by the French Consul, who will avail of the earliest opportunity to send them to St. Pierre.

On Tuesday night last the Sergeant and Police force were busily engaged freeing the street from a number of bankers who made a stand near the mercantile premises of Messrs. J. & R. Maddock fully determined to defy the police. Well done Mac?

On Tuesday last the steamer Zelini passed, in lat. 54.30 north, long. 22 west, the hull of a coppered vessel, bottom up.—Telegram.

A despatch from St. Petersburg on Monday, states that the steamers Selbourne and Dora, recently reported as having run on the rocks at Lingley, are still wrecks. The former was bound from Montreal to Bristol with a cargo of cattle, the latter was laden with pitch pine.—Id.

The Board of Trade enquired into the circumstances attending the stranding of the steamer Ashburne of Sunderland, on the north-west coast of Newfoundland, on the 19th of June, concluded at Glasgow on the 23rd ultimo. The Court censured George William Radford, the mate, for carelessness and acquitted the captain of all blame.

Right Rev R. McDonald, Bishop elect of Harbor Grace, arrived at Antigonish on Monday via Lismore. His many friends were happy to notice that he was in good health, while they regretted that his welcome visit to this town can be but very few in the future. The Rev Robt Macdonald, the much and deservedly respected P.P., of Margaree, is expected next week in Pictou to take charge of the mission about to be vacated by his brother, the Bishop elect.—Casket.
