the bridge of 220 feet each, two anchor spans of 500 feet each, and a centre span of 1,000 feet from which the bridge is to be 150 feet above high water. When completed the bridge is to have accommodation for a double track railway, two lines for electric tramways and two roadways for foot and vehicular traffic. At the time of the collapse the cantilever span on the left side of the river had been completed as well as the approaching span and some two hundred feet of the connecting span between the cantilevers. On the other side of the bridge at Quebec but little had been done besides the erection of the piers and the approach span.

A number of the men employed on the bridge and who lost their lives in the disaster were Indians from the Indian village Caughnawaga, near Montreal. They were experts at this kind of work. The financial loss is probably near $2,000,000. The Dominion Government have appointed a committee of three expert engineers to investigate and if possible, find out the cause of the disaster.

Twenty chinamen, who were smuggled across St. John's Head were landed near Gabarus, on the coast of Nova Scotia on Wednesday night of last week. Thirteen cottages, barns and a number of small buildings at Bedding Camp Grounds near Exeter, N. H. were burned Thursday and five others badly damaged near Exeter, before the blaze was under control. After aid had been summoned from neighboring towns a large number of these in the beautiful camp grove were burned and others cut down to stop the progress of the fire. The total loss is $15,000, only small part of which was covered by insurance.

A terrible accident occurred at Gidham gold mine, near Halifax, N. S. Thursday, by which two men may lose their lives, and which will certainly cripple them for life. Robert Morrison and Albert Canfield were descending the shaft, 500 feet deep, when in some unknown way the rope broke and the tub descended the shaft with frightful velocity. When they reached the bottom of the with a dreadful crash, they were knocked senseless. When picked up Morrison was found to have his ankle crushed and both of Canfield's thigh bones were broken. They were brought to a hospital at Halifax and operated upon.

Two met with accidents that put their wheels out of action and two others gave up the race when about halfway on the course; so that only five went over the course. The winner was James Connolly, Royalty, who covered the distance in one hour six minutes and two seconds. The winner of the second prize was Nelson Winchester and the third was Gordon Hughes.

On Tuesday night of last week two accidents which resulted fatally and one that is likely to, were reported to Boston police headquarters. Arthur Hammond, 36 years old, died at the City Hospital from injuries received in a runaway accident. Jeremiah Kearn, aged 33 while working at bricklaying lost his balance and fell to his death, 30 feet below, from the top of a building. Mrs. Lillian Welsh, 62 years old, was badly burned about the head and arms by the explosion of a kerosene lamp. She was removed to the City Hospital, and placed on the dangerous list. Dawing, Chief of the park police, who emptied all the chambers of his revolver into the beast with little effect. Others secured rifles and pumped lead into the beast, who finally succumbed and lay dead. The woman was torn bruised and suffering from shock when rescued.

In this issue will be found advertisement of the Exhibition to be held at Charlottetown, beginning on the 8th. October next. A farmer named Andrew Gillis of Low Point and Port Hill was gored to death by a bull yesterday morning. Deceased was about fifty years of age, went out to milch about 7 o'clock in the morning. The bull was in the field where the cows were, and appeared to have made the fatal attack at once. Those at the house heard the cries for help and ran to the rescue with pitch forks; but it was too late; the unfortunate man was dead. The infuriated animal drove his horns through the breast of deceased and pierced his heart. Gillis has a mother and two sisters at home, and several brothers and sisters who are absent from the Province.

Labor Day, Monday last, was generally observed in this city as a public holiday. Business was practically suspended throughout the day. Rain came down in torrents during the greater part of the day very much to the regret of those who were out of doors. Notwithstanding the rain, there was a grand procession of the members of the labor union and the teamsters of the city. In the afternoon, although still raining, the athletic sports were well contested and largely attended.

Earl Nees fell from a balcony, eight hundred feet in the air, at Greenville, Ohio, on the 28th, ult. Just as he struck the earth the netting became entangled and caused the gas bag to form a parachute and this saved his life. Another accident of a somewhat similar nature happened at Barnstable Mass., on Saturday. Professor Maloney ascended 2000 feet in a balloon from the fair grounds in the presence of 15,000. But he was unable to detach his parachute. The hot air was escaping from the balloon and it descended with the professor. As it neared the earth the canvas fell about his body and he could not see where he was going. He struck on the top of a big cedar post, and was pretty badly injured on the back and legs. He was then taken to a hospital and is likely to quite recover.

Five firemen were in a hospital a few nights ago in New York in a serious condition as the result of inhaling poisonous smoke at a fire that morning in Hagan & Co's warehouse on Washington street. Quantities of aniline salts, used for making dyes, were stored in the building and burned fiercely, throwing off great volumes of poisonous smoke. Time and again the firemen who were on the roof of the building fighting the fire were forced to withdraw, and a number of them were overcome. The fire was extinguished after an hour's fight and all of the firemen apparently recovered from the smoke. Later in the day, however, the poison began to tell, and one by one the firemen were removed to the hospital.
