After receiving the congratulations of all, Booth and Gendron related their advantures, and then, boarding the train, the party returned to the city.

The story, as told by the young men, is as follows: Leaving the camp early Sunday morning, they wandered in search of game, and in a few hours lost their bearings. They were unable to find them Sunday, and were compelled to pass the night in the woods. Monday morning, early, a rain came up compelled to pass the night in the woods. The Ethel was found completely fitted for sealing, with boats, guns, ammunition, salt, etc. She had on board, when captured, 181 salted fur sealskins, 29 fresh fur sealskins, salted fur sealskins, 29 fresh fur sealskins, 11 unborn pup sealskins, two sea otter skins, one hair sealskin and 290 pounds of whalebone. Prior to seizing the Ethel, Capt. Hooper had warned the vessel to leave, and left copies of the President's proclamation to that effect. Within three hours afterward firing was heard from the Ethel, and when the Corwin bore down upon her, near the Ethel was a school of seals, and, with launched boats, she was slaughtering them right and left.

Mr John Cunninghame Montgomerie, of Dalmore, Ayrsbire, in conjunction with Mr. Henry Parkes, of London, have discovered a process for the extraction of gold and silver from the refractory gold and silver sulphide ores of the Champion mines, in the Thames district of New Zealand. These ores are well known to be of a very refrac-tory nature, and all the processes now in use have failed to treat them satisfactorily. The best results that have been obtained in former trials were by a process which took 16 hours in treatment, with an extracting power of from 85 to 87 per cent: of gold, and from 72 to 86 per cent. of silver. During the past few months Mr. Montgomerie has
