Murrell And Topping

Hanged This Morning

Sidney Murrell and Clarence Topping Meet Death on Gallows in Yard of London Jail. Bodies Are Claimed by Relatives. 'Slim' Williams Reprieved By Ottawa and Will Return to Kingston For Life.

Condemned Prisoners Maintain Brave Fronts As Families Visit For Last Time—Rev. G. Warner Spends Night in Death Cell—Jail Is Kept in Blaze of Light.

Sidney Ernest Murrell of London and Clarence Topping of Strathroy, walked to the scaffold erected in the jailyard shortly after daybreak Thursday morning to pay with their own lives for the lives they took away.

Murrell murdered Russell Campbell on the morning of April 11, 1921 during an attempted robbery of the Home Bank at Melbourne. Topping fired two bullets into the body of his eighteen-year-old sweetheart, Geraldine Durstan of Watford in her boarding house at 318 York street, because she refused to marry him.

'Slim' Williams was saved from the gallows when a telegram was received by Sheriff Graham Wednesday morning from the under secretary of state at Ottawa, announcing that the governor-general of Canada Baron Bynne, had commuted the death sentence to life imprisonment. Williams took the news quietly, seeming quite dazed for some time.

The relatives of both Topping and Murrell visited the condemned men for the last time late Wednesday afternoon. It is stated that the young men, for they are both under 25 years of age, maintained a brave attitude in the front of their relatives and kept up an appearance of cheerfulness until the cell doors had changed with their departure.

The members of the Topping family returned to Strathroy after the last visit with the prisoner. During the night, however, the father, Geo. Topping, with his brother, Ambrose of Adelaide township, journeyed to London by motor to secure the body of his son. He received permission from the authorities last night to take the body away, and the interment was made at Strathroy.

William Murrell, father of Sidney, has also applied for permission to take away his son's body, and it is fully expected that he will be allowed to do so.

The spiritual advisor of the prisoners, Rev. G. Quintin Warner, arrived at the jail at midnight, and was with the men until their last minute on earth.

FRED TAYLOR NOW LT.-COL.

Major Fred A. Taylor, D.S.O., formerly of Watford, has been named to assume command of the First Hussars, whose headquarters are at London, with the rank of lieutenant-colonel. His appointment will probably be gazetted at an early date.

Major E. N. Chesham, of London, is also nominated as commanding officer of the Second Machine Gun Brigade, vice Lieut.-Col. Coles whose tour of duty in that position terminates at an early date. Gazetting of Major Chesham as a lieutenant-colonel will also appear in early orders by the department of national defense.

Major Taylor's pending promotion has been expected by officers of London's cavalry regiment, who point out that the regiment is to be congratulated on the coming appointment of an officer who had such a distinguished record in the war.

Major Chesham, who is appointed commanding officer of the Second Machine Gun Brigade, is a very popular and efficient officer in that corps which draws for its recruits the finest type of citizen soldier. He is at present an official in the local headquarters of the D. S. C. R. He is a son-in-law of Ed. de Gex, Kerwood, and is also well-known in this district.
