It is thought he was not well sequented with the current or the rapids. A correspondent of the Buffalo Advertiser says.

His dress and appearance indicated respectability, and after he got into the rapids his self possession was most extraordinary. His boat was a good one—decked, over, on the bow, and I should think would carry three or four tons. I railied a man at the toll-gate—we ran to the main bridge in time to see the boat just before it got to the first large fall, in rapids. Then I say but one man—he standing at the stern with his oar, for the severity of the cold felt on Ema, which man -he standing at the stern with his oar, for the severity of the cold felt on Eina, which changing the course of the boat down the is far greater than is, due to its elevation.
