A MEMORY OF JUNE.

These evenings in the chapel,
The lights were burning low,
Before the altar of Jesus,
In twilight's fading glow.

I knelt in the gathering darkness,
Sweet peace was in the air,
But crushed by doubt and sorrow,
I could not breathe a prayer.

For crowding up before me,
Came thoughts of my heavy cross,
Two years of bitter failure,
The weep, the pain, the loss.

I could not bow to the oblation,
And say "Thy will be done,"
My heart cried out in anguish
"Why am I the forsaken one.

And then my put-up anguish,
Broke forth in bitter tears,
For a strange and mystic power,
Oershadowed all my fears.

And gazing on that altar,
A calmness touched my pain,
I cried to the God of sorrow,
And I did not call in vain.

For softly came the answer,
Straight from His Sacred Heart,
"My child I have given my life blood,
Will you not bear your part?"

And then in that brief moment,
As I looked on the Cross above,
My soul felt the thrill of His presence,
And the wonderful power of His love.

So praying for patience and guidance,
I humbly submitted my will,
To the kind and merciful Father,
And the message came "Peace be still."

Then all how light seemed the sorrow,
Before so hard to bear,
A trust in the Heart of Jesus,
Had sweetened all earthly care.

And now I wait for the summons,
In holy hope and joy,
For the time when His Heart's best treasures
Will be mine without alloy.

And rest, sweet rest is my portion,
In the sorrow that still is mine,
For I walk secure in His guidance,
In the light of that love divine.

CARE OF EYEBROWS.

There is no reason why people should neglect their eyebrows and eyelashes any more than they should dress their hair without first brushing it.

Not everyone may possess that delicate high arched curve that constitutes the perfect eyebrow, or the long, curling lashes, without which no heroine of fiction is complete; but a great deal may be done to ordinary eyebrows and lashes to increase their beauty.

If eyebrows are too scanty the face is likely to look insipid, while those of the bushy variety are not artistic, and tend to make one look unduly fierce or masculine.

When they have been badly treated a clay brush and comb should be used on them daily. They may be much strengthened by rubbing vasoline lightly on the roots once or twice a week.

FALL AND WINTER MILLINERY.

Hats are the first item of consideration in the fall campaign of fashion. A few weeks and autumn styles will be established facts.

The double brim, so popular during the summer, appears on a number of the fall models. In many instances the brims curl in different ways, one downward, and one upward.

Pigeon Pie-Dick and draw some young pigeons, wash them, lay them in a saucupan, cover with boiling water, put in a piece of onion and a piece of fat, put the lid on and boil them all together.

To clean washed paint take the tea leaves which are left in the tea pot, pour some hot water over them, and let them stand ten minutes. Then pour the tea into a basin.

To take grease from wall paper lay a sheet of thick blotting paper over the stain, and then press a hot iron over it.

FLANNEL SHIRT WAISTS.
That the craze of last winter, the flannel shirt waist is still to retain its hold on millinery's fancy this season is an assured fact.

FASHION NOTES.
Silk and wool mixtures will be favored to a fall, and silk will drop into the background, say Paris authorities.

RACES WITH INDIANS.
Some good stories of an officer's son, brought up by his father at a frontier post, are told by Mrs. E. B. Carter in the September St. Nicholas.
