

Save the Forests

Few persons in Canada realise what the preservation of forest areas would mean to Canada. Mr. A. H. D. Ross, M.A., M.F., Faculty of Forestry, University of Toronto, has written for the March number of The Canadian Magazine a most comprehensive review of the situation, under the title "Our Vanishing Birthright." It is a scientific subject dealt with in a popular manner. There will be a number of excellent photographic illustrations.

Dr. Goldwin Smith, whose recent contributions to The Canadian Magazine have been read with the keenest interest all over Canada, will write on "Socialism and Labour."

Mr. M. O. Hammond will contribute an illustrated article on the poet Frederick George Scott, and will entitle it "The Poet of the Laurentians."

"Canadian Journalism," by Robson Black, will interest everyone in Canada who reads newspapers.

Fiction will be as strongly represented as usual, with a fine Canadian story, one that was unavoidably left over at the beginning of the year, entitled "The Woman at Stewart River," by N. de Bertrand Lugrin.
