TROUBLE WITH THE CURRICULUM.

First Omaha Dame—"How is your son getting on at college?"

Second Omaha Dame—"Splendidly, but I am afraid he studies too hard. I got a private note from his room-mate advising me to send for my son, as he was beginning to toss around nights and see snakes and things."

"Dear me!"

"Yes, isn't it awful? I have written to the faculty to ask them to excuse the poor boy from any further attendance at the lectures on zoology."

What is that terrestrial object that is above all human imperfections, and equally protects the wisest, the weakest, the best, and worst of mankind? The hair of the head.

A little girl in an infant school was asked to tell the difference between the words "foot" and "feet." She said: "One foot is a foot, and a whole lot of foots is a feet."

They were talking of death, when one man asked, "What were his last words?" "He didn't say anything," was the reply. "That's just like him," said the first man, with an approving nod. "There was no gas about him. He was all business."

An Irishman at the imminent risk of his life stopped a runaway horse the other day. The owner came up after a while and quietly remarked: "Thank you, sir." "An' faith, an' how are ye a-goin' to divide that between two of us?" replied Pat.

A lisping boy was out in the back yard pounding on a pan. The father came home tired and sullen, and being disturbed by the noise, cried out, "What is turned loose in the back yard—a wild animal?" The little fellow replied, "Yeth, thir, it's a pan, thir."

Mrs. Foshay (to prospective nurserymaid): "You are fond of children, of course?" P.N. M.: "Fond of 'em? I should say I was, ma'am. If I hadn't been I wouldn't ha' nursed my sister's nine young ones that was down with scarlet fever till every blessed one of them died, ma'am, and buried the last of 'em a week come Friday."

"Don't touch me; I belong to the aristocracy," said a drunken fop to a policeman. "And I belong to the aristocracy," responded the officer, as he led his prisoner to the station house.

"Ah, Jones, where away so fast this morning?" "I'm off for the whaling grounds." He was the district schoolmaster on his way to the school-house.

"Ma," inquired Bobby, "hasn't pa a queer idea of heaven? I heard him say that the week you spent in Albany seemed like heaven to him."
