

Figure 3 Working Documents Produced by the Verification Research Unit

It is important for diplomats and researchers to have ready access to the past work and statements of others. To facilitate this task, the Verification Research Unit regularly produces compilations of materials relating to verification. These useful reference tools are produced in limited quantities and are made available within a number of arms control and disarmament fora to other governments as well as to selected research institutes in Canada and abroad.

The Verification Research Unit also produces Discussion Papers and Research Reports for internal use within the Canadian government. Often these documents eventually appear as Working Papers in various arms control and disarmament discussions and/or as other publications available generally.