FEAR COLD WAVE IN WHEAT BELT

Bulge at Chicago Reflected Apprehension—Corn Sold Up Sharply.

CHICAGO, Jan. 28 .- A fear that a predicted cold wave might bring disaster to the winter crop had a good deal to do today with a bulge in the price of wheat. The market closed nervous at an advance of %c net. Corn showed a gain of %c to 14c and oats a rise of 4c to %c. In provisions, the outcome carried from 21/2c decline to an upturn of 10c.

Wheat displayed firmness from the start. Inadequacy of snow protection over autumn sown fields made the chance of a hard freeze a serious menace. European acknowledgment that supplies were becoming inadequate tended further to aid the bull side.

Corn went sharply higher, influenced by a prospect of a decided enlargement of the feeding demand and by talk of locust damage in Argentina. Country offerings were generally small.

Oats advanced with other grain. Temporarily the provision market suffered from a bearish construction placed on the government live stock figures and because of a break in the price of hogs. The property unloaded, however, found its way into strong hands. Wheat displayed firmness from the
