

Section 147 provides that any writ or summons . . . may be served as against the company by delivering the same at Victoria to the registrar of the Supreme Court. Section 148 enacts that it shall be the duty of such registrar to cause to be inserted in four regular issues of the British Columbia Gazette, consecutively following the delivery of such writ or summons to him, a notice of such writ or summons with a memorandum of the date of delivery, stating generally the nature of the relief sought, the time limited and the place mentioned for entering an appearance. Section 149 enacts that after such four issues the delivery of such process to the registrar as aforesaid shall be deemed, as against the defendant company to be good and valid service of such writ or summons.

Held, in the case of an issue of an ordinary eight day writ under Part VII., that it is the duty of the Registrar to notify the defendant in the publication in the Gazette that the time for appearance is eight days after the fourth publication.

Per IRVING, J.:—As the writ is a writ for service on a foreign corporation, without the jurisdiction, application to a judge for leave to issue the writ and proceed under the Act is necessary before any writ is issued. The judge in giving leave would limit the time within which appearance should be entered.
