

CHAPTER XV

CHRIST ON THE MOUNT OF TRANS- FIGURATION

1.

The Transfiguration manifested the Glory of Christ's Inherent Godhood.

You are sitting in your room of a winter evening with a lamp burning on the table at your side. The wick of the lamp is turned low; but even thus it is cheery and companionable. The flame, though suppressed, glows steadily there in its socket, suffusing the enveloping crystal with its mild radiancy. Though shadows lurk about you the general gloom is somewhat relieved by that point of mellow light. Suddenly, now, by a movement of your hand, you turn the wick up high. The swift-mounting flame effects an instantaneous transfiguration. Your lamp shines
