NO FLAGS BEST. Editor World: The expression of Dr. the same spirit infused into our school bildren, which is so passionate with of us whenever Old Glory is unfurled to the breezes conveys within itself a poor example of that true patriotism that should be taught children, especially in a Christian country. Too much attention is given to teaching the young in the arts of war and not enough consideration to peace and enough consideration to peace and good manners. There is urgent need these days of dishonor in high places, for more diligent efforts towards awakening in the young mind higher ideals of citizenship than braggart adulations that are only counterparts of terrife and bitter remembrances.
