

larey, Liebenberg, Kemp and Wolmarans, were within the area of Lord Kitchener's latest move, but altho surprised by the rapidity displayed by the British troops gaps in the latter's lines enabled most of the burghers to escape. The Boer prisoners totalled 179 men, including Commandant H. Kruger and ex-Landrost Neethling of Klerksdorp.

From the first prisoners captured, it was learned that Gen. Delarey himself was outside the actual cordon, having slept some distance westward, but Liebenberg, Kempt and other Boer commanders were inside the column of troops.

The first body, consisting of about 500 Boars, sighted at 10 o'clock in the morning, March 24, retreated at full speed, making for a gap between the British columns. A race for the opening ensued.

British mounted infantry, which had already ridden upwards of 50 miles, pressed their tired horses until they gave out, when the men jumped off and raced forward on foot. Some of the mounted men, how-ever, were able to gallop right into the gap just ahead of the burghers, ever, were able to gallop right into the gap just ahead of the burghers, whom they met with a warm fire. These troops also succeeded in driving back another body of 300 Boers, who were forced to desert the guns they had captured from the Von Donop convoy in February. The Boers tried to get thru several openings, but on each occasion were forced to double back, until they ultimately found a gap and passed out of the British lines within sight of Klerksdorp. Night feel before the pursuing columns could overtake the Boers

Five Canadians, who fell out of their column and tried to work their way back, were surrounded by a Boer force, and made a splendid defence. But finally, seeing their case was hopeless, four of the Canadians surren-dered. The fifth, however, indignantly refused to throw down his arms and continued a single-handed fight until he was killed. This was re-garded as one of the most interesting incidents of the day. An instance of the resourcefulness of the Boers was given by Lieben-berg and several hundred men. Taking advantage of the confusion of the drive, he and his followers assumed a formation similar to that of a British column, and, moving close to one of the numerous gaps in the Bri-tish lines, succeeded in reaching this opening before their ruse was de-tected, and got safely away. St. Thomas, March 28.-A fatal accident took place on the loop line of the Grand Trunk Railway at Jarvis about 7 o'clock this morning, resulting in the death of two engine-drivers and one conductor and great loss to the company. Both trains were Wabash, and the cause of the accident is attributed to the engineer of the train going east not following his orders to stop at Jarvis.

The names of the dead are; John Charleton and James McGill, drivers, and Frederick McDonald, conductor, all of St. Thomas.

The westbound train, in charge of Engineer McGill and Conductor McDonald, went thru Jarvis, and was backing down a switch when the second freight, in charge of Engineer Charleton, crashed into it. There was a heavy fog at the time, and it is thought that Charleton did not see the other train about to go on the siding.

The remains of Charleton and McGill were brought here to-night, and conveyed to P. R. Williams' undertaking rooms, where an inquest will be Engineer John Charleton lived at 122 Inkerman-street, Engineer James McGill on Scott-street and Conductor Frederick McDonald at 35 Catherine-street. McGill and McDonald are each survived by a widow and two children. Charleton leaves a widow and three children. All three men had been employed by the Wabash Company for upwards of ten years, and were well-known here.

FISHERMAN'S STRANGE DEATH.

Gorrie, March 28.—A very sad fatality occurred in Gorrie this even-ing, which resulted in the death of Mr. Henry Sanderson, contractor, of this place. He was in the act of fishing close to the bridge, when his fish-ing pole came in contact with a live electric light wire. As a consequence he was instantly killed. Deceased was in his 42nd year, and leaves a widow and a family of three to mourn his loss.
