Stories About Stanley.

The cable correspondents sent a disblack through having negro blood transmitted to his veins as a protection against the deadly malaria while traveling on the dark continent. This is story about the explorer which some time ago found extensive currency. It was then given out as a fact that Stanley owed his surviving, when African expforations had died, to the while he was in Africa from the veins of natives into his arm. Partly for amusement, and partly to ascertain what the story originated in, the New York Advocate sent him the clipping. It appears to have been a ceremony adopted to make his life safe by keeping the peace with the natives. This is his reply:

"2 Richmond Terrace, Whitehall, London, Sept. 10. "Dear Sir,—The paragraph relating to blood brotherhood which you sent me is too absurd to be taken seriously. There is no transfusion of the blood into the veins during the ceremony. The wound made is just deep enough to allow a drop of blood to be drawn, which, when applied over the arms of the new made brothers, barely suffices to stain a spot the size of a nickel. We owe a great deal of nonsense to the paragraphist; his business is mainly to amuse housemaids and infants. With best regards, yours faithfully, HENRY M. STANLEY."

There is probably about as little coundation for this new story about Stanley as there was for the yarn he has now so neatly explained away. If any person with a white skin thinks he can make it black by an infusion negro blood, let him try the ex-

PRACTICAL EDUCATION.

Toronto Globe. The Minister of Education is credted with the desire to make the educational system of Ontario more suitable for the requirements of the prov-ince. If he succeeds in the develop-ment of a school course that will turn the thoughts of our boys to the better culture of the soil, to the develop-ment of our mines, and to the utilization of the resources of nature in the production of material wealth, he will have performed a service of incalcul-able value. The statistics regarding graduates of Toronto University, who have, within four years, secured posi-tions in American universities, are startling in the extreme. The present system of education is apparently re-sponsible for a great part of the exo-dus of our youth. If 81 graduates of the Toronto University have in four years been absorbed by American universities, how many have found place in private life across the border and have been lost to Canada? Surely we can, in the development of our marvelous natural resources, find as profitable and as desirable occupations for the flower of our young men as are to be found in the overcrowded ranks of the professions in the United States? It is, of course, flattering to Canada that her sons can by surely states? I attainments rise so high in the United States. The gain is to the individual a material one, however, while to Canada it is but an empty honor, bringing with it no wealth, but national impoverishment.
