

BASEBALL SEASON IS UNDER WAY

St. Peter's and Garrison Split
Double Header—Commercial Wins Two.

The baseball season for 1922 got away to a good start yesterday, games being played throughout the city morning, afternoon and evening.

In the two-team Independent League St. Peter's and the Garrison Club battled, the latter team winning the afternoon fixture and losing the evening contest. Prior to the opening of the league the City Cornet Band and the players of both teams lined up and marched to centre field, where the championship flag, won by St. Peter's last season, and the Union Jack were raised.

On their return the players formed a ring around Mayor H. R. McLean, who gave a short address and then officially opened the league by throwing the first ball across the plate. The game was keenly contested up to the eighth inning when the Garrison team started on a hitting rampage and before three men were retired five runs crossed the plate.

TWO MEN LEAP FROM HIGH NEW YORK BUILDINGS

New York, May 24—Suicides, leaping from skyscrapers, yesterday split two crowds—on Park row, the other in Madison square.

John W. Gastiegar, of Brooklyn, a feed merchant, jumping from an upper story of the Municipal Building at the entrance to Brooklyn bridge, struck Samuel D. Jones, who was taken to the hospital unconscious, with a fractured wrist.

Earlier in the day Frank J. Parry, of Patheogue, Long Island, secretary of the New York title concern of John H. Parry & Co., leaped from the twenty-fifth story of the Metropolitan tower.

Gastiegar was believed to have gone to the municipal building to transact some business with the fire department, which he supplied with hay and grain. In his pockets was found a note reading:

"Dear Rose and Family:
"Forgive me. It is for the best. I love you. Dear good friends do not forget Rose."
The concern with which Parry was connected last fall was fined $500 after it had been convicted of conspiring to defraud the city of New York. The police said that he had not called on him. The legislative committee investigating the building trust.

John H. Parry, who identified his son's body, said, however, he knew of no financial or other worries which would have led to suicide. He added that he last saw his son Sunday when they went fishing together.

Young Parry left Patheogue ostensibly on business. His brother-in-law, Thomas J. McCabe, was employed in the tower, but he did not call on him. The police said that he must have gone straight from the station to a wash room on the twenty-fifth floor and jumped.

BRIDGEPORT IS ROUSED BY GIRL

Think Dorothy Cromwell Deliberately Foisted on City.

Bridgeport, Ct., May 25—The strange case of Miss Dorothy Cromwell, 19 years old, a sufferer from a nervous disease and paralysis and said to have been foisted on the local charitable authorities, has attracted the attention of city officials and police.

An investigation was begun to learn who was responsible for bringing the girl to this city.

She was brought here on a train from Boston. At the railroad station, she was turned over to representatives of the city charity department by a woman who gave her name as Miss Gill, and who said she was employed in the charity department of the city of Boston.

Miss Cromwell seems in such condition physically that she was placed in an ambulance and rushed to the Hillside Home, an institution connected with the poorhouse. The woman who called herself Miss Gill said to the ambulance surgeon that the Bridgeport authorities had a history of the case. She then disappeared.

After Miss Cromwell had been taken to the Hillside Home, inquiries were made at the City Hall, and it was found that local charitable agencies knew nothing of the case. There were no marks of identification about Miss Cromwell's clothes except a "State Hospital."

Although muttering incoherently most of the time, Miss Cromwell knew nothing of her sister, who, she says, is a Mrs. Lufkin of Chatham street, Boston. Occasionally she calls out, "I was dooped at the State Hospital."

Asked her address and history, Miss Cromwell was unable to reply. Physically she declares that her reason is unbalanced.

UMBRELLA HANDLE AIDS ARTIST THIEF

Sculpture Fancier Blamed for the Loss of "The Dancers," Hooked from Window.

New York, May 23—An art collector of small means and with an irresistible desire for bronzes is believed to be responsible for a series of robberies in art galleries in this city. On Thursday night a man broke the window of the Milch Galleries at 108 West Fifty-seventh street and disappeared with a bronze sculpture of two figures, valued at $400.

He makes the second bronze stolen from these galleries in two months. Just before the first theft an attempt to pilfer a bronze group from the gallery was frustrated by the vigilance of an attendant. On the day of the first robbery three bronze statues of the first group were stolen from the gallery.

The entrance to the Milch Galleries is on the second floor, and the entrance is reached by a set of stairs. The side glass of the window forms one side of the entrance way. A taxicab hooked up to the Lotos Club, on the same side of the street, at 11:45 o'clock Thursday night in the midst of a heavy rain.

A passenger alighted at the Milch Galleries and entered the gallery. The chauffeur noticed a man sheltered in the doorway of the art gallery and partly hidden by a large umbrella, stand extended toward the gallery.

The chauffeur was about to start off when he heard the sound of breaking glass. Looking around, he saw that the man in the doorway had closed the umbrella and appeared to be jabbing at the side window of the gallery.

Convinced that a robbery was in progress, the chauffeur drove hurriedly to Fifty-seventh street, found a policeman, and with the latter on the running board, drove back to the galleries. The thief had escaped.

Investigation showed that a hole had been cut in the lower inner corner of the side window. The Dancers' group had occupied a position several feet from the hole and in the centre of the window. It is believed that the robber hooked the bronze and dragged it to the opening with the handle of his umbrella.

In the front of the window were several valued at $50 each. Another bronze, "The Russian Dancer," by Rene Prater, had been overturned. A small painting, "Mother and Child," by Gail Melchers, valued at $1,000, was also knocked down.

"The Dancers" are two nude figures, male and female their hands joined and each with one leg raised in a merry dance. The figures are mounted on a twenty-inch base of black marble weighing about forty pounds.

On March 21 last a bronze incense burner by Malvina Hoffman was stolen from the window of the Milch Galleries. The thief opened the door at the back of the window, which is alongside the entrance, and walked away with the burner under one arm.

Belief that a fancier and collector stole "The Dancers" is based on the fact that some time ago a small bronze stater from the same place was later found grazing the piano of a none too prosperous art lover and musician.

OPERATION MAKES WAR VET. HAPPY

Walter J. Reed, of Chatham,
Sufferer for Many Years as Result of Wounds, Made
Well at Camp Hill Hospital.

(Halifax Echo.)

Walter J. Reed, veteran of the South African and world wars, who has been in Halifax for some time since coming to this country, has been discharged from the Canadian overseas service, will leave today or tomorrow for his home, Chatham, N. B., having been treated at the Camp Hill Hospital, where he has been for years, and for Dr. Hogan, who operated upon him at Camp Hill. He is a first class soldier and a fine physical condition after suffering which extended over years. Mr. Reed, who was a member of the Maritime Group of the American College of Surgeons, the results of the successful grafting operation at Camp Hill Hospital, by Dr. Hogan, were studied by visiting surgeons, Mr. Reed appearing before them for examination, and the case attracted a great deal of attention from the medical men.

The operation at Camp Hill was the fifth Mr. Reed has gone through from time to time during recent years. He is a single man, by birth, but has been in Canada for years, having made his home at Chatham. It was in the Canadian Overseas Service that he was wounded in the leg, and he was treated in hospital overseas and sent back to Canada in 1917 for further treatment. He went through four operations in St. John, the fourth being in 1921, when a silver mesh was inserted. The fifth operation at Camp Hill was by Dr. Hogan, who inserted in the wound a muscle graft of fourteen inches, taken from Mr. Reed's thigh. Now he feels in fine shape, though of course the process of complete strengthening of the organs affected by the wound and hernia is a matter of time, but he is perfectly confident that everything is coming all right. His normal weight was 175 pounds, but since the operation, with perfect appetite restored, his weight has increased since February to a last, to 210 pounds, and he looks to be in perfect shape. In the old country he was a farmer by occupation and he feels the absence of hard work now that he is getting back to good bodily condition is responsible for his quick increase in weight. This operation was one of two such performed at Camp Hill, both being successful, and Mr. Reed is firmly convinced that Dr. Hogan is one of the greatest surgeons in Canada.

Beauty Advice

By Ruth Roland

LOS ANGELES, CAL.—When Ruth Roland, actress, was interviewed and asked if she would be willing to tell the readers of this paper how she kept her complexion so youthful and fresh looking she hesitated for a moment and then said:

"I have been more than delighted to do so. It is a very simple thing, and I am sure that most absolute cleanliness is an important factor. I cleanse my face thoroughly with Liska cold cream, after which I use a simple toilet preparation called Derwillo. I always apply this before going out."

"Anyone can beautify their complexion by using Derwillo. If they will use these preparations Derwillo will give them a complexion that is as soft and white as a cloud. I have no difficulty in securing them at all. I always apply this before going out."
