Efforts are being made to secure Lord Charles Bessborough to open the Provincial Exhibition. Judge Longley, President of the Commission, has written Dr. Orr, the manager of the Toronto Exhibition, asking him to use his best efforts to get Lord Charles to come here. After opening the Toronto Exhibition, the distinguished Admiral is going through to the Pacific Coast, but Judge Longley hopes that he may return in time to open the Exhibition here on the twenty-fifth of September.
So far Judge Longley has received no reply from Toronto but in a few days he expects to hear something definite.

SAVED A LITTLE CHILD FROM CERTAIN DEATH

Heroism of Albert Adcock, an Employee of the C. P. R., the Talk of the Depot Today

Albert Adcock, a young Englishman in the employ of the C. P. R., is the hero of the depot today, because of a plucky incident in which he was the principal actor. He risked his life to save that of a five year old girl whose mother was too busy looking after parcels to bother about the safety of her family.

It happened when the Montreal express was coming in. The train was entering the station at a very rapid rate and the locomotive had passed about half way down the track, when a woman's piercing scream alerted those standing around. Unnoticed by them, the little girl, who was walking toward the engine, which, when the mother screamed, was not fifteen feet away.

Another second would have meant the child's certain death, but Adcock acted. The mother's shriek of horror has scarcely ceased when someone make a flying leap to the track, seize the child, and spring again to safety. The locomotive, tearing past, knocked Adcock to the floor, but neither he nor the child were in any way injured.
Speaking to the Star afterwards Adcock modestly disclaimed any credit saying that his action was purely involuntary, and had he realized the danger the chance as he would not have moved. However, the gallantry of his act was readily recognized by those in the station, and when matters quiet-ed down the engineers and others warmly congratulated him on his brave work.
The woman went on board the train.

SCHOOLS REOPEN TOMORROW MORNING

500 Permits Have Been Issued Already

Several Changes in the Teaching Staff—Partridge Island School Opens for First Time in Twenty Years.

After a two months' vacation, the schools in the city will resume their studies tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. There was a heavy demand at the school board offices for permits this morning. Secretary Manning and his assistants were busy writing out the certificates. At noon over five hundred permits had been issued. Large numbers of pupils reached the city today after spending their vacation in the country.

During the vacation Thomas Stoddard, principal of the Winter Street School, and Joseph Harrington, principal of St. Malachi's School, were laid up through sickness. The latter has recovered from his indisposition and will be able to resume his duties. Mr.
Stoddard will not take charge for a short time.

There are a number of other changes which Dr. Bridges cannot announce before tomorrow. The vacancy in the principalship of the Aberdeen School, through the appointment of William McLean to the inspectorship of St. John and Charlotte Counties, will be filled by Reverend Stevens. The latter's position on the High School staff will be filled by Grover Martin, brother of the Rhodes scholar. W. A. Nelson will fill Stoddard's position in the Winter Street School and John McKinnon has been selected to take Mr. Nelson's place in the Douglas Avenue building.

Dr. R. C. Riddick informed the Star this morning that about twelve pupils on Partridge Island would tomorrow be ready to receive the instructions from Miss Hargrove. The repairs to the school building will not be completed until next week. In the meantime, a room in the home of the assistant light keeper will be utilized. The Partridge Island school has been closed for nearly twenty years. Radical changes and improvements are being made to the building.

The Board of Health authorities were kept busy again this afternoon attending to the vaccination of the school children. Large numbers have taken advantage of the opportunity afforded by the board to secure free treatment.
The Free Kindergarten will be reopened after the vacation on Tuesday morning, September 7. Miss Allan, who conducted a private class, will resume charge of the Free Kindergartens.

Tomorrow morning the pupils who passed the fifth school entrance examination are requested to assemble at the High School on Union street, with the exception of those who have been pupils of St. Peter's Girls' and St.
Joseph's schools, who will report at St.
Nicolas's School on Cliff street. The superintendent of schools urges that permits for all children who are to enter grade one should be secured at once.

EVIDENCE HEARD IN CAR BREAKING CASE

Night Watchman and Checker Tell of Suspicious Actions of McElhenney and His Companion.

Two drunks faced the police magistrate this morning and pleading guilty to the charge were fined $4 each.
The examination of Joseph McEl-henney charged with breaking and entering C. P. R. car No. 47510 in the I.
C. R. yards was begun, and the evidence of Daniel O'Neill, a night watchman in the yard, and A. K. Reid, a checker, was taken.

O'Neill was sworn and stated that while on duty last Saturday night about 6-15, heard a knocking sound behind one of the cars near No. 4 shed, and upon going up to the platform met McElhenney and Morris.

Witness asked what they wanted there, and Morris replied he wanted to get into the car. Witness told them to go away which they did, walking down the platform around the end of the shed.

Witness walked back up the platform about three lengths and turned just in time to see McElhenney and Morris climbing between the cars.
A. R. Reid, a checker, accompanied witness toward the direction of the men. Witness came upon Morris in the act of breaking the seal.

They then opened the door and got into the car, but upon witness going toward them, both jumped from the car and ran between other cars. Both men were known to witness who reported the affair to the police.
A. R. Reid was then sworn and stated that car 47510 was sealed when he checked it about 6 o'clock. Witness saw defendant and Morris climb up to the car, asking what they wanted. Upon getting a satisfactory answer he passed on and saw them again about twenty minutes later.
Morris fell as though very drunk when he saw witness coming, but after he had passed and suspecting something wrong, witness hid behind the shed.
He saw Morris get up and both men went across the track toward car 47510.

Witness followed, and when he arrived found the car open, but both men had disappeared.
This concluded this morning's evidence, and McElhenney, having no questions to ask either witness, was remanded for the present.

Capt. W. R. Luger, as commissioner, held an enquiry yesterday into the striking of the steamer Margaret on Thrum Cap Shoal last week. The evidence of the officers and crew of the steamer was taken under oath and forwarded to the chief commissioner, at Ottawa, who will decide whether or not a formal enquiry by a board is necessary.—Echo.
