Despatches to London papers agree that European powers will recognize Alfonso as soon as his representatives are accredited at the various Courts. News despatches say Castelar, Martoc, Admiral Topete, Zorilla, and General Paris promised to support Alfonso.

The Cuban army telegraphed its adhesion to the new order.

Dorregarry, Lazzaraza and 800 other Carlist officers are expected to join Alfonso. Alfonso awaits the arrival of a Spanish frigate at Marseilles to proceed to Spain. He will visit the armies before entering Madrid. A squadron of Government vessels sailed from Carthagena for Marseilles to escort King Alfonso to Spain, who will probably disembark at Valencia. A telegram from Carlist headquarters says: "Alfonso's pronunciamento leaves the situation unchanged. No defection of Carlist army, the change strengthening us and weakening the enemy."
