How to Prepare Furs for the Market.

Wrong methods of skinning, stretching and drying pelts causes the loss of thousands of dollars to trappers every year. The right methods to follow are just as easy if you know them—and here they are:

Skinning methods are of two kinds, "casing" and "open". Casing means peeling the skin off whole. Open means ripping the skin down the belly.

Animals which should be cased are the following: Mink, martin, weasel, opossum, fox, fisher, skunk, civet, muskrat, wild cat, otter, lynx, wolf and wolverine. Open skinning should be used with badger, beaver, bear and cougar.

The following skins, before they become too dry, should be turned fur side out for shipping: Fox, lynx, fisher, wolf, marten, wolverine and wild cat. Leave the others, which are cased, pelt side out.

To case a skin, cut from the root of the tail down the inside of each hind leg to the foot. Then pull the skin carefully over the body and head. The tail should be skinned and the bone removed, except for muskrat and opossum. These two can be cut off as they are worthless. Skinning is made easier by suspending the carcass from something, doing this by means of a strong cord tied around the hind legs. Draw the skin from the front legs. Cut off the ears—downward toward the head. Cut the skin loose about the nose and eyes.

In using the open method, cut from point of jaw to vent, also down back hind legs and inside front legs. Lynx, mountain lion, bear—which are valuable for rugs or mounting—should be skinned on the legs clear to the toes, leaving the claws attached. Smaller animals, valuable only as furs, may have the legs cut off.

Be sure to clean every bit of flesh and fat from the skins, using extreme care to avoid cutting.

Steel stretchers, which can be had in just the right shape for different skins, give the best results. If you do not use these, and do not know from experience the shape and size to make board stretchers, by all means write to one of the big fur houses for information. Improper stretching may make skins almost valueless.

When the skins are on the stretchers put them in a cool, dry place—never in the sun or near the fire. Dry them just enough to prevent shrinking and wrinkling. If you find that a skin has become too dry to turn, soften a little with a damp cloth. But be sure to let the dampened spots dry out before shipping.

Do not use patented preparations for curing—just the natural drying. Write to a fur house for information. They are interested in getting furs in perfect condition and will be glad to tell you how.

Questions and Answers.

1st—Questions asked by bona-fide subscribers to "The Farmer's Advocate" are answered in this department free.

2nd—Questions should be clearly stated and plainly written on one side of the paper only, and must be accompanied by the full name and address of the writer.

3rd—In veterinary questions, the symptoms especially must be fully and clearly stated, otherwise satisfactory replies cannot be given.

4th—When a reply by mail is required to urgent veterinary or legal enquiries, $1.00 must be enclosed.

Miscellaneous.

Sale Under Execution.

A neighbor owns a farm. He gets into debt. Execution is issued and property (farm) is advertised for sale. He makes an assignment, but his wife who is also a party to some of the indebtedness by reason of having signed some of the notes jointly with him, claims creditors have no right to sell property as she has refused to part with her dower or accept any settlement and did not consent to assignment.

1. Can the creditors sell the property and give title under the circumstances?

2. Would I be safe in bidding for the property?

3. Can his wife be forced to give up possession?

Quebec. N. R. G.

Ans.—1, 2 and 3. We think that all three questions may probably be correctly answered in the affirmative; but there may have been a marriage contract between debtor and his wife that would materially alter her position, and it is possible that there may be other undisclosed facts that would have an important bearing on it. We therefore suggest that you see a local lawyer about the matter personally.

How to Tell.

A lady advertised for a man to work in her garden, and two men applied for the job. While she was interviewing them on the lawn she noticed that her mother on the piazza was making signs to her to choose the shorter of the two men, which she finally did. When the ladies were alone the daughter said:

"Why did you signal me to choose the shorter man, mother? The other one had a much better face."

"Face!" returned the old lady. "When you are picking out a man to work in your garden you want to go by his overalls. If they're patched on the knees, you want him; but if they're patched on the seat, you don't."

What's the Use?

"Dinah," inquired the mistress suspiciously, "did you wash this fish carefully before you baked it?"

"Law, ma'am," said Dinah, "wot's de use ob washin' er fish dat's lived all his life in de watah?"
